

The background of the entire image is a dark, textured surface. Overlaid on this are two large, stylized, teal-colored faces. These faces are circular and have a folk-art or indigenous aesthetic. They have large, wide eyes, prominent noses, and thick, curved lips. The faces are positioned on the left and right sides of the image, partially overlapping the central text box.

Teaching Literature in Translation Brian James Baer,Michelle Woods,2022-07-29 The teaching of texts in translation has become an increasingly common practice but so too has the teaching of texts from languages and cultures with which the instructor may have little or no familiarity The authors in this volume present a variety of pedagogical approaches to promote translation literacy and to address the distinct phenomenology of translated texts The approaches set forward in this volume address the nature of the translator s task and how texts travel across linguistic and cultural boundaries in translation including how they are packaged for new audiences with the aim of fostering critical reading practices that focus on translations as translations The organizing principle of the book is the specific pedagogical contexts in which translated texts are being used such as courses on a single work survey courses on a single national literature or a single author and courses on world literature Examples are provided from the widest possible variety of world languages and literary traditions as well as modes of writing prose poetry drama film and religious and historical texts with the aim that many of the pedagogical approaches and strategies can be easily adapted for use with other works and traditions An introductory section by the editors Brian James Baer and Michelle Woods sets the theoretical stage for the volume Written and edited by authorities in the field of literature and translation this book is an essential manual for all instructors and lecturers in world and comparative literature and literary translation

Thinking Through Translation with Metaphors James St.Andre,2014-04-08 Thinking through Translation with Metaphors explores a wide range of metaphorical figures used to describe the translation process from Aristotle to the present Most practitioners and theorists of translation are familiar with a number of metaphors for translation such as the metaphor of the bridge following in another s footsteps performing a musical score changing clothes or painting a portrait yet relatively little attention has been paid to what these metaphorical models reveal about how we conceptualize translation Drawing on insights from recent developments in metaphor theory contributors to this volume reveal how central metaphorical language has been to translation studies at all periods of time and in various cultures Metaphors have played a key role in shaping the way in which we understand translation determining what facets of the translation process are deemed to be important and therefore merit study and aiding in the training of successive generations of translators and theorists While some of the papers focus mainly on past metaphorical representations others discuss recent shifts in both metaphor and translation theory while others still propose innovative metaphors in a bid to transform translation studies The volume also includes an annotated bibliography of works centrally concerned with metaphors of translation
