Osborne, M.D., 2021-12-07 More women 47.6% receive mental health services compared with men 34.8% Women are twice as likely as men to develop major depressive disorder Furthermore 10% 15% of women experience depression during the perinatal period which makes depression one of the most common complications of childbirth Gaynes et al 2005 These statistics illustrate that psychiatric disorders in women are common during the reproductive years and that the hormonal fluctuations associated with the reproductive life cycle contribute to the etiology of mental illness in women Medical practitioners in all fields will encounter female patients with mental illness across the lifespan particularly major depressive and anxiety disorders Consequently there is a great imperative for high quality educational materials that increase the competency of providers This outstanding work is divided into two parts Part I provides a comprehensive overview of the reproductive life cycle and covers mental health concerns across the lifespan including the relationship between gynecological and sexual health and mental health as well as infertility the premenstrual period and perimenopause Part II is devoted to the perinatal period and offers a conceptual framework for a clinical approach to the pregnant and postpartum patient followed by evidence based reviews of the management of psychiatric disorders by diagnostic category as well as covering stress in pregnancy infant mental health and legal forensic issues Critical summaries of the epidemiology risk factors screening methods and clinical features are presented This book must be required reading for all faculty and trainees who will care for women

Psychiatric Consultation in Childbirth Settings Ronald L. Cohen, 2012-12-06 The primary purposes of this volume are 1 To provide mental health practitioners with a current overview of our knowledge about normal parental development during pregnancy and its relation to fetal development with particular emphasis on the impact of acute and chronic stress on these developmental processes 2 To provide an understanding of the general state of the field of pregnancy and childbirth care both in conventional health systems and in alternative options 3 To provide an understanding of models of consultation and liaison that are adapted to the special conditions of pregnancy and childbirth care as contrasted to the more traditional modes that characterize these activities in medical and surgical hospitals If there prove to be secondary gains as a result of pursuing these goals so much the better The most desirable of these would be a heightening of awareness of the mental health needs of pregnant families and of the risks they incur in transition from non parenthood to parenthood and a more effective level of primary and secondary prevention of childhood mental disorders These latter goals are more global and perhaps even a bit grandiose Their attainment could only be documented through a series of carefully designed research projects aimed at measuring long range developmental outcome in children and families who have experienced appropriate and early intervention during the pregnancy period
