Brown,2010-02-26 In their highly selective and literal reading of Scripture creationists champion a rigidly reductionistic view of creation in their fight against soulless scientism Conversely many scientists find faith in God to be a dangerous impediment in the empirical quest for knowledge As a result of this ongoing debate many people of faith feel forced to choose between evolution and the Bible's story of creation But as William Brown asks which biblical creation story are we talking about Brown shows that through a close reading of biblical texts no fewer than seven different biblical perspectives on creation can be identified By examining these perspectives Brown illuminates both connections and conflicts between the ancient creation traditions and the natural sciences arguing for a new way of reading the Bible in light of current scientific knowledge and with consideration of the needs of the environment In Brown's argument both scientific inquiry and theological reflection are driven by a sense of wonder which in his words unites the scientist and the psalmist Brown's own wonder at the beauty and complexity of the created world is evident throughout this intelligent well written and inspirational book "The" Holy Bible, According to the Authorized Version (A.D. 1611): Job, Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, Songs of Solomon Frederic Charles Cook,1873 Christianity and Market Regulation Daniel A. Crane,Samuel Gregg,2021-07-08 Historically the Christian tradition has played an influential role in Western economic thought concerning the regulation of markets but with the fracturing of the Christian tradition following the Reformation the decline of Christian influence in academia and the increasing specialization of economic analysis that influence has become increasingly opaque This volume brings together an interdisciplinary team of prominent academic experts on market regulation from four different continents and various faith traditions to reconsider the impact of Christianity on market regulation Drawing on law economics history theology philosophy and political theory the authors consider both general questions of market regulation and particular regulatory fields such as bankruptcy corporate law and antitrust from a Christian perspective
