Troubling Play of Gender Maria Stadter Fox, 2001 Although these three modernist writers were not primarily playwrights as expatriates they were interested in the Euripidean theme of women in exile each independently chose to rewrite Euripides Hippolytus a play in which the protagonist is a woman in exile whose speech writing and passion are deeply problematic Each author approaches the Euripidean material in a different way Tsvetaeva focuses on gender in language Yourcenar explores the gendering of a self and H D performs the undoing of gendered oppositions BOOK JACKET The Modern Androgyne Imagination Lisa Rado, 2000 In the late nineteenth century as changing cultural representations of gender roles and categories made differences between men and women increasingly difficult to define theorists such as Havelock Ellis Richard von Krafft Ebing and Sigmund Freud began to postulate a third androgynous sex For many modern artists this challenge to familiar hierarchies of gender represented a crisis in artistic authority Faced with the failure of the romantic muse and other two sex tropes for the imagination James Joyce H D William Faulkner Virginia Woolf and other modernist writers of both sexes became attracted to a culturally specific notion of an androgynous imagination In The Modern Androgyne Imagination Lisa Rado explores the dynamic process through which these writers filled the imaginative space left by the departed muse For Joyce the androgynous imagination meant experimenting with the idea of a new womanly man H D personified her overmind as the androgynous Ray Bart Faulkner supplanted the muse with the hermaphrodite And Woolf became a kind of psychic transsexual Although they selected these particular tropes for different reasons literary men and women shared the desire to embody perceived strengths of both sexes and to transcend sexual and artistic limitation altogether However courting this androgynous imagination was a risky act It often evoked the dynamics even the specific vocabulary of the sublime which Rado characterizes as a perilous confrontation with and attempted identification between self and the transcendent other that powerful androgynous creative mind through which they hoped to generate authority and find inspiration This empowerment toward which Joyce H D Faulkner and Woolf gesture in texts such as Ulysses HERmione The Sound and the Fury and Orlando is rarely achieved Joyce and Faulkner were unable to silence their fears of feminization and the female body while H D and Woolf remained troubled by the threat of ego incorporation and self erasure that the androgynous model of the imagination portends Still their pursuit of new imaginative tropes yields important insights into the work of these writers and of literary modernism The Cosmos and the Creative Imagination Anna-Teresa Tymieniecka, Patricia Trutty-Cooill, 2016-02-03 The essays in this book respond to Anna Teresa Tymieniecka's recent call to explore the relationship between the evolution of the universe and the process of self individuation in the ontopoietic unfolding of life The essays approach the sensory manifold in a number of ways They show that theories of modern science become a strategy for the phenomenological study of works of art and vice versa Works of phenomenology and of the arts examine how individual spontaneity connects with the design s of the logos of the whole and of the particulars while the design s rest not on some human concept but on life itself Life's pliable matrices allow us to consider the expansiveness of contemporary science and to help create a contemporary phenomenological sense of cosmos

A Companion to Twentieth-Century Poetry Neil Roberts, 2008-04-15 In the twentieth century more people spoke English and more people wrote poetry than in the whole of previous history and this Companion strives to make sense of this crowded poetical era The original contributions by leading international scholars and practising poets were written as the contributors adjusted to the idea that the possibilities of twentieth century poetry were exhausted and finite However the volume also looks forward to the poetry and readings that the new century will bring The Companion embraces the extraordinary development of poetry over the century in twenty English speaking countries a century which began with a bipolar transatlantic connection in modernism and ended with the decentred heterogeneity of post colonialism Representation of the canonical and the marginal is therefore balanced including the full integration of women poets and feminist approaches and the in depth treatment of post colonial poets from various national traditions Discussion of context intertextualities and formal approaches illustrates the increasing self consciousness and self reflexivity of the period whilst a Readings section offers new readings of key selected texts The volume as a whole offers critical and contextual coverage of the full range of English language poetry in the last century
