Ransomes of Ipswich David Robert Grace, David Cohn Phillips, 1975 The Agrarian History of England and Wales
Edward John T. Collins, Joan Thirsk, 2000 The unifying theme of this volume is the changing role of the countryside in national life and the impact upon it of the social and economic forces unleashed by industrialisation and the growth of towns A Bibliography of British History, 1914-1989 Keith Robbins, American Historical Association, Royal Historical Society (Great Britain), 1996 Containing over 25 000 entries this unique volume will be absolutely indispensable for all those with an interest in Britain in the twentieth century Accessibly arranged by theme with helpful introductions to each chapter a huge range of topics is covered There is a comprehensive index The First Industrialists François Crouzet, 1985-02-21 This book is focused on the social and occupational origins of the founders of modern British industry what kind of families did they come from What was their occupation before they set up as industrialists In discussing these and other issues this study makes an important contribution to the problem of social mobility during the Industrial Revolution Inventing the Industrial Revolution Christine MacLeod, 2002-05-09 This book examines the development of the English patent system and its relationship with technical change during the period between 1660 and 1800 when the patent system evolved from an instrument of royal patronage into one of commercial competition among the inventors and manufacturers of the Industrial Revolution It analyses the legal and political framework within which patenting took place and gives an account of the motivations and fortunes of patentees who obtained patents for a variety of purposes beyond the simple protection of an invention It includes the first in depth attempt to gauge the reliability of the patent statistics as a measure of inventive activity and technical change in the early part of the Industrial Revolution and suggests that the distribution of patents is a better guide to the advance of capitalism than to the centres of inventive activity It also queries the common assumption that the chief goal of inventors was to save labour and examines contemporary criticism of the patent system in the light of the changing conceptualisation of invention among natural scientists and political economists Family Fortunes Leonore Davidoff, Catherine Hall, 2013-04-15 Family Fortunes has become a seminal text in class and gender history Published to wide critical acclaim in 1987 its influence in the field continues to be extensive It has cast new light on the perception of middle class society and gender relations between 1780 and 1850 This revised edition contains a substantial new introduction placing the original survey in its historiographical context Leonore Davidoff and Catherine Hall evaluate the readings their text has received and broaden their study by taking into account recent developments and shifts in the field They apply current perceptions of history to their original project and see new motives and meanings emerge that reinforce their argument Debrett's Bibliography of Business History Stephanie Zarach, 1987-06-18 Trademarked: A History of Well-known Brands David Newton, 2008-02-01 In the first thirty years of trade registration between 1876 and 1906 over 250 000 marks were registered in Britain In this book David Newton formerly Head of Patents Information at the British Library has selected 220 of the most interesting and curious of those early brands Shell originated with one Marcus Samuel selling antiques and curios including sea shells in Smithfield in 1833 it was only when his son visited the Caspian Sea and saw an opportunity to export oil from Russia that trade in the better known product began An advertising campaign for Listerine mouthwash originally a disinfectant for surgical procedures coined the phrase always a bridesmaid never a bride From Carlsberg beer to Triumph cars from Lea and Perrin sauces to Beecham's pills we learn the history of these brands the companies which registered them and how the brands have developed over the years

The Building Society Promise
Antoninus Samy, 2016-08-18 The permanent building societies of England grew from humble beginnings as a multitude of small and localized institutions in the nineteenth century to become the dominant players in the house mortgage market by the inter war period Throughout the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries the movement cultivated an image of being a champion of home ownership for the working classes but housing historians have questioned whether building societies really lived up to this claim This study fills a major gap in the historiography of the movement by investigating the class profile of building society members and how the design of different building societies affected their accessibility efficiency and risk taking practices between 1880 and 1939 These themes are explored using case studies of several building societies from this period and drawing upon extensive archival records The Building Society Promise shows that building societies did lend to working class households before the First and Second World Wars with some societies showing a greater commitment to working class home ownership than others What ultimately affected the outreach of individual societies was the quality of information they possessed which in turn was largely determined by the types of agency networks they used to find and select borrowers The phenomenal growth of some of these institutions in the inter war period however and the ensuing competition which emerged between them brought about profound changes in their firm structure which impaired their ability to reach out to lower income households as efficiently as before The findings of this research are relevant to both past and present debates about the optimal design of financial institutions in overcoming social exclusion in credit markets and the deleterious effects that firm growth market competition and managerial self interest can have on their performance and stability
