Against Self-Reliance William Hunting Howell,2015-03-03 Individualism is arguably the most vital tenet of American national identity American cultural heroes tend to be mavericks and nonconformists and independence is the fulcrum of the American origin story But in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries a number of American artists writers and educational philosophers cast imitation and emulation as central to the linked projects of imagining the self and consolidating the nation Tracing continuities between literature material culture and pedagogical theory William Hunting Howell uncovers an America that celebrated the virtues of humility contingency and connection to a complex whole over ambition and distinction Against Self Reliance revalues and rethinks what it meant to be repetitive derivative or pointedly generic in the early republic and beyond Howell draws on such varied sources as Benjamin Franklin s programs for moral reform Phillis Wheatley s devotional poetry David Rittenhouse s coins and astronomical machines Benjamin Rush s psychological and political theory Susanna Rowson s schoolbooks and the novels of Charles Brockden Brown and Herman Melville to tease out patterns of dependence in early America With its incisive critique of America s storied heroic individualism Against Self Reliance argues that the arts of dependence were and are critical to the project of American independence Les Parisiennes Anne Sebba,2016-10-18

What did it feel like to be a woman living in Paris from 1939 to 1949 These were years of fear power aggression courage deprivation and secrets until finally renewal and retribution Even at the darkest moments of Occupation with the Swastika flying from the Eiffel Tower and pet dogs abandoned howling on the streets glamour was ever present French women wore lipstick Why It was women more than men who came face to face with the German conquerors on a daily basis perhaps selling them their clothes or travelling alongside them on the Metro where a German soldier had priority over seats By looking at a wide range of individuals from collaborators to resisters actresses and prostitutes to teachers and writers Anne Sebba shows that women made life and death decisions every day and often did whatever they needed to survive Her fascinating cast of characters includes both native Parisian women and those living in Paris temporarily American women and Nazi wives spies mothers mistresses and fashion and jewellery designers Some women like the heiress B atrice de Camondo or novelist Ir ne N mirovsky converted to Catholicism others like lesbian racing driver Violette Morris embraced the Nazi philosophy only a handful like Coco Chanel retreated to the Ritz with a German lover A young medical student Anne Spoerry gave lethal injections to camp inmates one minute but was also known to have saved the lives of Jews But this is not just a book about wartime In enthralling detail Sebba explores the aftershock of the Second World War and the choices demanded How did the women who survived to see the Liberation of Paris come to terms with their actions and those of others Although politics lies at its heart Les Parisiennes is a fascinating account of the lives of people of the city and specifically in this most feminine of cities its women and young girls From publisher s website Stitching the World:

Embroidered Maps and Women's Geographical Education Judith A. Tyner,2016-12-05 From the late eighteenth century until about 1840 schoolgirls in the British Isles and the United States created embroidered map samplers and even silk globes Hundreds of British maps were made and although American examples are more rare they form a significant collection of artefacts Descriptions of these samplers stated that they were designed to teach needlework and geography The focus of this book is not on stitches and techniques used in drafting the maps but rather why they were developed how they diffused from the British Isles to the United States and why they were made for such a brief time The events of the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries stimulated an explosion of interest in geography The American and French Revolutions the wars between France and England the War of 1812 Captain Cook s voyages and the explorations of Lewis and Clark made the study of places exciting and important Geography was the first science taught to girls in school This period also coincided with major changes in educational theories and practices especially for girls and this book uses needlework maps and globes to chart a broader discussion of women s geographic education In this light map samplers and embroidered globes represent a transition in women s education from accomplishments in the eighteenth century to challenging geographic education and conventional map drawing in schools and academies of the second half of the nineteenth century There has been little serious study of these maps by cartographers and moreover historians of cartography have largely neglected the role of women in mapping Children s maps have not been studied although they might have much to offer about geographical teaching and perceptions of a period and map samplers have been dismissed because they are the work of schoolgirls Needlework historians likewise have not done in depth studies of map samplers until recently Stitching the World is an interdisciplinary work drawing on cartography needlework and material culture This book for the first time provides a critical analysis of these artefacts showing that they offer significant insights into both eighteenth and nineteenth century geographic thought and cartography in the USA and the UK and into the development of female education
