Santali Basic Lexicon with Grammatical Notes M. Minigishi, Ganesh Murmu, 2001 South Asian Languages

Kārumūri V. Subbārāo, 2012-03-26 South Asian languages are rich in linguistic diversity and number. This book explores the similarities and differences of about forty languages from the four different language families: Austro Asiatic, Dravidian, Indo Aryan, Indo European, and Tibeto Burman, Sino Tibetan. It focuses on the syntactic typology of these languages and the high degree of syntactic convergence with special reference to the notion of India as a linguistic area. Several areas of current theoretical interest such as anaphora, control theory, case and agreement, relative clauses, and the significance of thematic roles in grammar are discussed. The analysis presented has significant implications for current theories of syntax, verbal semantics, first and second language acquisition, structural language typology, and historical linguistics. The book will be of interest to linguists working on the description of South Asian languages as well as syntacticians wishing to discover more about the common structure of languages within this region. Annual Review of South Asian Languages and Linguistics

Rajendra Singh, 2009-12-15 South Asia is home to a large number of languages and dialects. Although linguists working on this region have made significant contributions to our understanding of language, society, and language in society on a global scale, there is as yet no recognized international forum for the exchange of ideas amongst linguists working on South Asia. The Annual Review of South Asian Languages and Linguistics is designed to be just that forum. It brings together empirical and theoretical research and serves as a testing ground for the articulation of new ideas and approaches which may be grounded in a study of South Asian languages but which have universal applicability. Each volume will have three major sections: I. Invited contributions consisting of state-of-the-art essays on research in South Asian languages; II. Refereed open submissions focusing on relevant issues and providing various viewpoints; III. Reports from around the world, book reviews, and abstracts of doctoral theses. Linguistic Landscaping in India with Particular Reference to the New States N. H.

Itagi, Shailendra Kumar Singh, 2002 Contributed articles. Study with reference to Jharkhand, Uttaranchal, and Chhattisgarh, India. Corpus-based Analysis and Diachronic Linguistics Yuji Kawaguchi, Makoto Minegishi, Wolfgang Viereck, 2011

Nowadays linguists do not question the existence of synchronic variation and the dichotomy between synchrony and diachrony. They recognize that synchrony can be motivated regionally (diatopic variation), sociolinguistically (diastratic variation), or stylistically (diaphasic variation). But further, they can also recognize the hybrid nature of synchrony which is referred to as dynamic synchrony. This conception of synchrony assumes that similar patterns of usage can coexist in a community during a certain period and that their mutual relations are not static but conflicting enough to result in a future systematic change through symptomatic synchronic variation. Emergence of a large corpus of written texts for some languages has enabled quantitative as well as qualitative analyses of the synchronic conditions for diachronic changes over both long and short spans of time. Most of the 14 papers in this volume represent studies on synchronic and diachronic variations based on such
