Rays of the Carolinas Frank Joseph Schwartz, 1984 The reproduction and development of sharks, skates, rays and ratfishes Leo S. Demski, John P. Wourms, 2013-06-29 This volume had its origin in a symposium on the Reproduction and Development of Cartilaginous Fishes that was held at the annual meetings of the American Elasmobranch Society and the American Society of Ichthyologists and Herpetologists in Charleston South Carolina in 1990 The cartilaginous fishes class Chondrichthyes are a large and diverse group of fishes that include approximately 900 to 1100 living species of sharks skates rays and ratfishes Throughout their history which dates back at least 400 million years they have been a successful major component of the marine ecosystem The chondrichthyan fishes occupy a pivotal position in comparative and evolutionary studies of vertebrate reproduction and development They are the oldest surviving group of jawed vertebrates and they possess both the adult vertebrate Bauplan and the vertebrate program of embryonic development The major features of the female reproductive system including its embryonic origin structure physiological function and biochemistry apparently were established early in vertebrate evolution and are fully developed in chondrichthyan fishes These features of the female reproductive system have been retained during the evolution of the other classes of vertebrates Much the same can be said for the male reproductive system Moreover viviparity placental nourishment of developing embryos and the hormonal regulation of these events made an initial appearance in this group The 22 articles presented in this volume bring together a wide variety of complementary research by investigators from seven countries allowing us to broaden the scope and implications of our studies while identifying opportunities for future research The appearance of a volume on the reproduction and development of cartilaginous fishes is quite opportune The continued existence of these fishes which survived the great extinction events of Earth's history is now threatened by overexploitation unless immediate steps for their conservation are undertaken Knowledge of their reproduction and development not only is an end in itself but is of critical importance in devising successful conservation and resource management strategies The Sharks and Rays of Beaufort, North Carolina Lewis Radcliffe, 1916 Sharks, Skates, and Rays William C. Hamlett, 1999-05-21 Successor to the classic work in shark studies The Elasmobranch Fishes by John Franklin Daniel first published 1922 revised 1928 and 1934 Sharks Skates and Rays provides a comprehensive and up to date overview of elasmobranch morphology Coverage has been expanded from anatomy to include modern information on physiology and biochemistry The new volume also provides equal treatment for skates and rays The authors present general introductory material for the relative novice but also review the latest technical citations making the book a valuable primary reference resource More than 200 illustrations supplement the text

Sharks in the Shallows W. Clay Creswell, 2021-06-14 A detailed account of over one hundred shark related incidents on the coast of the Carolinas from a shark bite investigator Powerful and mysterious sharks inspire both fascination and fear Worldwide oceans are home to some five hundred species and of those fifty six are known to reside in or pass through the waters off the coast of both North and South Carolina At any given time waders swimmers and surfers enjoying these waters are frequently within just one hundred feet of a shark While it s unnerving to know that sharks often swim just below the surface in the shallows W Clay Creswell a shark bite investigator for the Shark Research Institute s Global Shark Attack File explains that attacks on humans are extremely rare In 2019 the International Shark Attack File confirmed sixty four unprovoked attacks on humans including three in North Carolina and one in South Carolina While acknowledging that they pose real dangers to humans Creswell believes the fear of sharks is greatly exaggerated During his sixteen year association with the Shark Research Institute he has investigated more than one hundred shark related incidents and has maintained a database of all shark human encounters along the Carolina coastlines back to 1817 Creswell uses this data to expose the truth and history of this often sensationalized topic Beyond the statistics related to attacks in the Carolina waters Sharks in the Shallows offers a history of shark human interactions and an introduction to the world of shark attacks Creswell details the conditions that increase a person s chances of an encounter profiles the three species most often involved in attacks and reveals the months and time of day with the highest probability of an encounter With a better understanding of sharks responses to their environment and what motivates them to attack humans he hopes people will develop a greater appreciation of the invaluable role sharks play
