Making History An Introduction To The Practices Of History:

Making History Peter Lambert,2017 Making History Peter Lambert,Phillipp Schofield,2004-08-02 Making History offers a fresh perspective on the study of the past It is an exhaustive exploration of the practice of history historical traditions and the theories that surround them Discussing the development and growth of history as a discipline and of the profession of the historian the book encompasses a huge diversity of influences organized around the following themes the professionalization of the discipline the most significant movements in historical scholarship in the last century including the Annales School the increasing interdisciplinary trends in scholarship theory in historical practice including Marxism post modernism and gender history historical practice outside the academy The volume offers a coherent set of chapters to support undergraduates postgraduates and others interested in the historical processes that have shaped the discipline of history Making History Institute of American Indian Arts,2020-10-15 Written by scholars actively producing Native art resources this book guides readers students educators collectors and the public in how to learn about Indigenous cultures as visualized in our creative endeavors Making History Peter Lambert,2017 Making History Jorma Kalela,2011-11-18 Everyone has a personal connection to the past independent of historical inquiry So what is the role of the historian Making History argues that historians have damagingly dissociated the discipline of history from the everyday nature of history defining their work only in scholarly terms Exploring the relationship between history and society Kalela makes the case for a more participatory historical research culture in which historians take account of their role in society and the ways in which history making as a basic social practice is present in their work Making History not only asks provocative questions about the role of the historian it also provides practical guidance for students and historians on planning research projects with greater public impact This book is vital reading for all historians lay and professional and will be an essential text for undergraduate and postgraduate courses on historiography and research methods History in Practice 2nd edition Ludmilla Jordanova,2016-07-28 History in Practice explores the discipline s breadth its complexities and the tasks it takes on This study by one of the liveliest and most acute practitioners in the field demystifies what historians do It looks at history as an academic discipline but also engages with the use of historical ideas in the wider world Historical work has public consequences and draws considerable energy from contemporary preoccupations For this new edition of her respected and widely used book Ludmilla Jordanova has revised the text and added a new chapter that takes into account recent world events She discusses the role of the internet globalisation world history and the current enthusiasm for military history This book is essential reading for all students needing an understanding of history as a discipline Research Methods for History Simon Gunn,2011-11-30 Providing a lively critical survey of methods for historical research at all levels this textbook covers well established sources and methods together with those that are less widely known It reflects current theoretical and technical approaches to hist Making History Greg Clingham,1998 By identifying a dialogical rather than monological relation between postmodern and Enlightenment discourses and texts Making History offers a theoretically and historically nuanced account of eighteenth century cultures and makes a timely and original contribution to the study of the eighteenth century and its dialogue with postmodernism Research Methods for History Lucy Faire,2016-07-08

Historians have become increasingly sensitive to social and cultural theory since the 1980s yet the actual methods by which research is carried out in History have been largely taken for granted Research Methods for History encourages those researching the past to think creatively about the wide range of methods currently in use to understand how these methods are used and what historical insights they can provide This updated new edition has been expanded to cover not only sources and methods that are well established in History such as archival research but also those that have developed recently such as the impact of digital history research The themes of the different chapters have been selected to reflect new trends in the subject including landscape studies material culture and ethics Every chapter presents new insights and perspectives and will open researchers minds to the expanding possibilities of historical research Making History with Manuscripts in

Medieval and Early Modern Europe Johannes Junge Ruhland,2025-06-02 This volume interrogates the role of the manuscript medium in conveying history to medieval and early modern readers The contributors adopt a capacious understanding of history to explore history writing in its materiality from a variety of methodological and disciplinary perspectives The core contentions of this book are that the material features of manuscripts helped shaping historical narratives and defining history conceptually and that therefore the makers of these manuscripts played an instrumental role in history writing alongside authors Ranging from the ninth to the sixteenth centuries and comprising materials from across Western Europe in Latin and the vernaculars the ten chapters of this volume uncover stakes and strategies tied to highly specific contexts such as late thirteenth century Corbie or fifteenth century Zurich yet partaking in a shared practice of history writing with manuscripts Manuscript makers made history through layout rewriting illumination compilation choice of script and annotation and conferred history writing its material dimension This volume therefore situates the writing of history in its material dimension and invites us to consider medieval and early modern historiography in its medium

History Peter Claus,John Marriott,2014-01-14 Why should history students care about theory What relevance does it have to the proper role of the historian Historiography and historical theory are often perceived as complex subjects which many history students find frustrating and difficult Philosophical approaches postmodernism anthropology feminism or Marxism can seem arcane and abstract and students often struggle to apply these ideas in practice Starting from the premise that historical theory and historiography are fascinating and exciting topics to study Claus and Marriott guide the student through the various historical theories and approaches in a balanced comprehensive and engaging way Packed with intriguing anecdotes from all periods of history and supported by primary extracts from original historical writings History An Introduction to Theory Method and Practice is the student friendly text which demystifies the subject with clarity and verve

Key features Written in a clear and witty way Presents a balanced view of the subject rather than the polemical view of one historian Comprehensive covers the whole range of topics taught on historiography and historical theory courses in suitable depth Full of examples from different historical approaches from social cultural and political history to gender economic and world history Covers a wide chronological breadth of examples from the ancient and medieval worlds to the twentieth century Shows how students can engage with the theories covered in each chapter and apply them to their own studies via the In Practice feature at the end of each chapter Includes Discussion Documents numerous extracts from the primary historiographical texts for students to read and reflect upon Doing Spatial History Riccardo Bavaj, Konrad

Lawson, Bernhard Struck, 2021-12-30 This volume provides a practical introduction to spatial history through the lens of the different primary sources that historians use It is informed by a range of analytical perspectives and conveys a sense of the various facets of spatial history in a tangible case study based manner The chapter authors hail from a variety of fields including early modern and modern history architectural history historical anthropology economic and social history as well as historical and human geography highlighting the way in which spatial history provides a common forum that facilitates discussion across disciplines The geographical scope of the volume takes readers on a journey through central western and east central Europe to Russia the Mediterranean the Ottoman Empire and East Asia as well as North and South America and New Zealand Divided into three parts the book covers particular types of sources different kinds of space and specific concepts tools and approaches offering the reader a thorough understanding of how sources can be used within spatial history specifically but also the different ways of looking at history more broadly Very much focusing on doing spatial history this is an accessible guide for both undergraduate and postgraduate students within modern history and its related fields

A Short Guide to Writing about History Melvin E. Page, Brian J. Maxson, 2023-03-27 This widely used guide for students has long emphasized the excitement of historical discovery rooted in writing about the past This new edition continues that emphasis while also affirming the contemporary significance of the search for truth in historical writing It includes new and revised sections related to electronic technologies as well as updated examples of recent historical scholarship throughout It maintains the welcoming accessible and inclusive tone of previous editions while walking students through complex ideas and established writing standards As it has since its inception the tenth edition of A Short Guide to Writing about History helps students confront and conquer any of the challenges they might face in writing about history

Making History Move Kim Nelson, 2024-03-15 Making History Move Five Principles of the Historical Film builds upon decades of scholarship investigating history in visual culture by proposing a methodology of five principles to analyze history in moving images in the digital age It charts a path to understanding the form of history with the most significant impact on public perceptions of the past The book develops insights across these fields including philosophical considerations of film and history to clarify the form and function of history in moving images It addresses the implications of the historical film on public historical consciousness presenting criteria to engage and assess the truth status of depictions of the past Each chapter offers a detailed aspect of this methodology for analyzing history in moving images Together they propose five principles to organize past and future scholarship in this vital interdisciplinary field of study Making History in Banda Ann Brower Stahl,2001-08-02 Drawing on evidence from several disciplines Ann Brower Stahl reconstructs the daily lives of Banda villagers of west central Ghana from the time that they were drawn into the Niger trade around AD 1300 until British overrule was established early in the twentieth century The case study aims to closely integrate perspectives drawn from archaeology history and anthropology in African studies History, Memory and Public Life Anna Maerker,Simon Sleight,Adam Sutcliffe,2018-07-06 History Memory and Public Life introduces readers to key themes in the study of historical memory and its significance by considering the role of historical expertise and understanding in contemporary public reflection on the past Divided into two parts the book addresses both the theoretical and applied aspects of historical memory studies Approaches to history and memory introduces key methodological and theoretical issues within the field such as postcolonialism sites of memory myths of national origins and questions raised by memorialisation and museum presentation Difficult pasts looks at history and memory in practice through a range of case studies on contested complex or traumatic memories including the Northern Ireland Troubles post apartheid South Africa and the Holocaust Examining the intersection between history and memory from a wide range of perspectives and supported by guidance on further reading and online resources this book is ideal for students of history as well as those working within the broad interdisciplinary field of memory studies Making History Alex Callinicos,2004-01-01 Making History seeks systematically to address the problem widely discussed by social scientists and historians of the relative roles played by social structures and human agency in social change Alex Callinicos has added an introduction to this new edition updating the argument of this influential book first published in 1987 How Things Make History Astrid Oyen,2025-10-01 Bright red terra sigillata pots dating to the first three centuries CE can be found throughout the Western Roman provinces The pots widespread distribution and recognisability make them key evidence in the effort to reconstruct the Roman Empire s economy and society Drawing on recent ideas in material culture this book asks a radically new question what was it about the pots themselves that allowed them to travel so widely and be integrated so quickly into a range of contexts and practices To answer this question Van Oyen offers a fresh analysis in which objects are no longer passive props but rather they actively shape historical trajectories The Pursuit of History John Tosh,2021-08-11 This classic introduction to the study of history invites the reader to stand back and consider some of its most fundamental questions what is the point of studying history How do we know about the past Does an objective historical truth exist and can we ever access it In answering these central questions John Tosh argues that despite the impression of fragmentation created by Postmodernism in recent years history is a coherent discipline which still bears the imprint of its nineteenth century origins Consistently clear sighted he

provides a lively and compelling guide to a complex and sometimes controversial subject while making his readers vividly aware of just how far our historical knowledge is conditioned by the character of the sources and the methods of the historians who work on them History does not stand still and this updated seventh edition deals with complex and wide ranging material in a clear and accessible way that is up to date with current historiographical trends A fuller treatment is given to the importance of digitization both in the section on source criticism and in relation to public history reflecting its growing importance within historical study Both the text and references have been expanded to include a fuller range of both American and global scholarship and the book concludes with a forthright reminder that historical perspective illuminates major problems in the present Lucid and engaging this edition retains the user friendly features that make it a favourite with both students and lecturers including marginal glosses illustrations and suggestions for further reading Along with its companion website this is an essential guide to the theory and practice of history

Doing History Mark Donnelly, Claire Norton, 2012-05-23 History as an academic discipline has dramatically changed over the last few decades and has become much more exciting and varied as a result of ideas from other disciplines the influence of postmodernism and historians incorporation of their own theoretical reflections into their work The way history is studied at university level can vary greatly from history at school or as represented in the media and Doing History bridges that gap Aimed at undergraduate and postgraduate students of history this is the ideal introduction to studying history as an academic subject at university Doing History presents the ideas and debates that shape how we do history today covering arguments about the nature of historical knowledge and the function of historical writing whether we can really ever know what happened in the past what sources historians depend on and whether historians versions of history have more value than popular histories This practical and accessible introduction to the discipline introduces students to these key discussions familiarises them with the important terms and issues equips them with the necessary vocabulary and encourages them to think about and engage with these questions Clearly structured and accessibly written it is an essential volume for all students embarking on the study of history
