Making Our Research Useful Case Studies In The Utilization Of Anthropological Knowledge:

Making Our Research Useful John van Willigen, 2019-04-11 This book presents case studies that address how to improve the use of applied or policy research done by anthropologists. It documents the applications of anthropology and in so doing improves practice. The case studies treat the problem of knowledge use from a variety of perspectives.

Making Our Research Useful John Van Willigen, Barbara Rylko-Bauer, Ann McElroy, 2019 Speaking the language of power David Fetterman, 2014-04-08 First Published in 1993 Speaking the Language of Power is about how a group of socially concerned scholars are making their ethnographic insights and findings useful to decision makers. They address a host of significant issues including conflict resolution, the dropout problem, environmental health and safety, homelessness, educational reform, the situation of American Indians, AIDS, and the education of gifted children. Myriad strategies are being used by practicing anthropologists to ensure that they have an impact on sponsors and policy decision makers. The book focuses on the use of language and rhetorical style to enhance communication and effectiveness. Within that framework, the approaches presented in this collection range from translating qualitative information into quantitative forms to testifying about specific legislation on Capitol Hill. The chapters artfully blend the three themes of this book: communication, collaboration, and advocacy. Building on the enormous contributions made by qualitative researchers throughout the world, the aim of this discourse is to explore successful strategies, share lessons learned, and enhance the ability to communicate with an educated citizenry and powerful policymaking bodies. The spirit driving the dedication displayed in each chapter is simple: to improve the world we live in, to make it a better place for our children and our children's children.

Inventing Indigenous Knowledge Lynn Swartley, 2018-10-24 This volume provides a multi-sited and multivocalic investigation of the dynamic social, political, and economic processes in the creation and implementation of an agricultural development project. The raised field rehabilitation project attempted to introduce a pre-Columbian agricultural method into the contemporary Lake Titicaca Basin.

The Applied Anthropology of Obesity Alexandra G. Lancey, Chad T. Morris, 2015-12-24 The increasing global prevalence of obesity and nutrition-based non-communicable disease has many causes, including food availability, social norms, as evidenced in local foodways, genetic predisposition, economic circumstance, cultural variation in norms surrounding body composition, and policies affecting production, distribution, and consumption of food locally and globally. The Applied Anthropology of Obesity: Prevention, Intervention, and Identity advances understanding of the many cultural factors underlying increased global obesity prevalence. This collection of chapters showcases the value of anthropology's holistic approach to human interaction by exploring how human identity associated with obesity/overweight is affected by cultural norms, policy decisions, and perceptions of cultural change. They also demonstrate best practices for the application of anthropological skillsets to develop culturally appropriate nutritional behavior change across multiple levels of analysis, from local programming to policy decisions at local and national levels. In addition to soliciting explanatory models used by respondents in different cultures, and situations anthropologists find themselves on the front lines of public health and policy attempts at affecting behavioral change As such this applied focused volume will be of utility to scholars and practitioners in applied and medical anthropology as well as to scholars and professionals in public health and other disciplines The volume s authors are professional and student anthropologists from both public health practice and academia Chapters are geographically diverse containing lessons learned from attempts to combat obesity by anthropologically focusing on culture history economy and power relative to obesity causation prevention and intervention The Applied Anthropology of Obesity Prevention Intervention and Identity candidly provides rich information about social identity obesity and treatment
