Then you're suffering from what's called Foe mind. It's when you have that voice inside you that wants to achieve big goals. Make more money. Take care of your family. Achieve generational success. But there's a louder voice inside that throws all kinds of negative thoughts at you. Look at you, you're not like the others, there's no way you can build a legacy like that. Stop being delusional, not everyone is meant to succeed, and perhaps you're not too. What's so wrong with living an average life? It's when your mind is now acting like an enemy and that's the main reason you end up alone, lazy, and with a boring lifestyle. If you want to turn your life around, your mind must switch sides and be on YOUR team instead of opposing you. And reading books or listening to more advice on YouTube will NOT help. You've been doing that all along, and here you are, nothing has changed. Stop wasting more time. You could've been on the path to becoming a successful real estate investor or a high ranking scientist by now, if not for the Foe Mind syndrome. I'm the one who discovered it after 165 days of research, came up with that name, and I'm the only one who can cure it for you. I put in everything you need in this 21 day challenge. You will find the origin of your limiting beliefs and cure your brain. Learn more about minimization, magnification, and personalization of thoughts, and how to change your mindset. Remove the fog in your head and think more clearly. Activate your neuromuscular pathways and infuse your mind with positive affirmations. Just know that if you close this tab and decide to not invest in yourself, for the next months that you're going to waste, don't blame anyone but YOU. 2/99, but it's going up soon. No one serious about being in control over their minds would waste this opportunity. So what is it gonna be? A. Wasting another year with no real achievement while others have your dream life. B. Finally taking the next step and gaining full control over your thoughts and behavior. Mathematical Practitioners and the Transformation of Natural Knowledge in Early Modern Europe Lesley B. Cormack, Steven A. Walton, John A. Schuster, 2017-03-15. This book argues that we can only understand transformations of nature studies in the Scientific Revolution if we take seriously the interaction between practitioners (those who know by doing) and scholars (those who know by thinking). These are not in opposition; however, theory and practice are end points on a continuum with some participants interested only in the practical, others only in the theoretical, and most in the murky intellectual and material world in between. It is this borderland where influence, appropriation, and collaboration have the potential to lead to new methods, new subjects of enquiry, and new social structures of natural philosophy and science. The case for connection between theory and practice can be most persuasively drawn in the area of mathematics, which is the focus of this book. Practical mathematics was a growing field in early modern Europe, and these essays are organised into three parts which contribute to the debate about the role of mathematical practice in the Scientific Revolution. First, they demonstrate the variability of the identity of practical mathematicians and of the practices involved in their activities in early modern Europe Second readers are invited to consider what practical mathematics looked like and that although practical mathematical knowledge was transmitted and circulated in a wide variety of ways participants were able to recognize them all as practical mathematics Third the authors show how differences and nuances in practical mathematics typically depended on the different contexts in which it was practiced social cultural political and economic particularities matter Historians of science especially those interested in the Scientific Revolution period and the history of mathematics will find this book and its ground breaking approach of particular interest

Theodore R. Weeks,2015-12-04 The inhabitants of Vilnius the present day capital of Lithuania have spoken various languages and professed different religions while living together in relative harmony over the years The city has played a significant role in the history and development of at least three separate cultures Polish Lithuanian and Jewish and until very recently no single cultural linguistic group composed the clear majority of its population Vilnius between Nations 1795 2000 is the first study to undertake a balanced assessment of this particularly diverse city Theodore Weeks examines Vilnius as a physical entity where people lived worked and died as the object of rhetorical struggles between disparate cultures and as a space where the state attempted to legitimize a specific version of cultural politics through street names monuments and urban planning In investigating these aspects Weeks avoids promoting any one national narrative of the history of the city while acknowledging the importance of national cultures and their opposing myths of the city's identity The story of Vilnius as a multicultural city and the negotiations that allowed several national groups to inhabit a single urban space can provide lessons that are easily applied to other diverse cities This study will appeal to scholars of Eastern Europe urban studies and multiculturalism as well as general readers interested in the region Kith, Kin, and Neighbors David A.

of this bewildering array of peoples languages and faiths In Kith Kin and Neighbors David Frick shows how Wilno s inhabitants navigated and negotiated these differences in their public and private lives This remarkable book opens with a walk through the streets of Wilno offering a look over the royal quartermaster s shoulder as he made his survey of the city s intramural houses in preparation for King W adys aw IV s visit in 1636 These surveys Lustrations provide concise descriptions of each house within the city walls that in concert with court and church records enable Frick to accurately discern Wilno s neighborhoods and human networks ascertain the extent to which such networks were bounded confessionally and culturally determine when citizens crossed these boundaries and conclude which kinds of cross confessional constellations were more likely than others These maps provide the backdrops against which the dramas of Wilno lives played out birth baptism education marriage separation or divorce guild membership poor relief and death and funeral practices Perhaps the most complete reconstruction ever written of life in an early modern European city Kith Kin and Neighbors sets a new standard for urban history and for work on the religious and communal life of Eastern Europe
