Making Of Memory:

The Making Of Memory Steven Rose, 2012-09-30 Steven Rose's The Making of Memory is about just that in both its senses the biological processes by which we humans and other animals learn and remember and how researchers can explore these mechanisms But it is also about much more When the first edition of this fascinating book won the Science book Prize in 1993 the judges described it as a riveting read a first hand account by a practicing scientist working at the forefront of medical research and Rose does not duck the issues which that raises Now ten years on research has itself moved forward and Rose has taken the opportunity to fully revise the book But this is more than mere revision Where ten years ago he argued the case for research on memory because it is the most extraordinary of human attributes Rose's own research has now opened the doors to a potential new treatment for Alzheimer's Disease undreamed of a decade ago and in an entirely new chapter he describes how this potential breakthrough has occurred The Making of Memory Steven Peter Russell Rose, 1992 The recipes included in this book range from family dinners centred around pot roast pheasant with grilled polenta or red mullet with rosemary to lavish buffets and menus for special occasions like oysters and passion fruit fool on St Valentine's Day By the author of Portrait of Pasta

The Making of Memory Steven Rose, 1992 Traumatic Storytelling and Memory in Post-Apartheid South Africa Christopher J. Colvin, 2018-12-14 This book explores the practice of traumatic storytelling that emerged out of the South African Truth and Reconciliation Commission and came to play a key role in the lives of the members of the Khulumani Support Group for victims of apartheid era political violence Group members found traumatic storytelling both frustrating and yet also an important form of memory work that shaped how they saw themselves in the post apartheid era Drawing on ethnographic fieldwork the author examines how traumatic storytelling functioned not only as a kind of psychological healing and national political theatre but also as a potent form of social relation economic exchange political activism and expressive practice With emphasis on the personal social and political significance of the act of traumatic storytelling this volume asks why members of Khulumani despite their many disappointments continued to engage intensively in storying their experiences for themselves and others Examining what powers storytelling held for both group members and their witnesses and considering the ways in which storytelling enabled new senses of self and new understandings of what was possible in the years after the end of apartheid this book considers what we might learn more broadly from the experiences of Khulumani about the possibilities and limits of traumatic memory making as an instrument of personal social and political repair As such it will appeal to scholars of sociology anthropology and criminology with interest in justice and post conflict societies

British Cultural Memory and the Second World War Lucy Noakes, Juliette Pattinson, 2013-11-21 Few historical events have resonated as much in modern British culture as the Second World War It has left a rich legacy in a range of media that continue to attract a wide audience film TV and radio photography and the visual arts journalism and propaganda architecture museums music and literature The enduring presence of the war in the public world is echoed in its ongoing centrality in many personal and family memories with stories of the Second World War being recounted through the generations This collection brings together recent historical work on the cultural memory of the war examining its presence in family stories in popular and material culture and in acts of commemoration in Britain between 1945 and the present

Recovering Lost Species in the Modern Age Dolly Jorgensen, 2019-10-29 A groundbreaking study of how emotions motivate attempts to counter species loss This groundbreaking book brings together environmental history and the history of emotions to examine the motivations behind species conservation actions In Recovering Lost Species in the Modern Age Dolly Jorgensen uses the environmental histories of reintroduction rewilding and resurrection to view the modern conservation paradigm of the recovery of nature as an emotionally charged practice Jorgensen argues that the recovery of nature identifying that something is lost and then going out to find it and bring it back is a nostalgic practice that looks to a historical past and relies on the concept of belonging to justify future oriented action The recovery impulse depends on emotional responses to what is lost particularly a longing for recovery that manifests itself in such emotions as guilt hope fear and grief Jorgensen explains why emotional frameworks matter deeply both for how people understand nature theoretically and how they interact with it physically The identification of what belongs the lost nature and our longing the emotional attachment to it in the present will affect how environmental restoration practices are carried out in the future A sustainable future will depend on questioning how and why belonging and longing factor into the choices we make about what to recover

Shin,2020-03-27 This book analyses the cultural politics of urban development in Gwangju South Korea and illustrates the implementation of state led arts based urban boosterism efforts in the context of political trauma and the desire for economic growth The book explores urban development that is complicated by the recent history of democratic uprising in Gwangju and it examines the dichotomy between cities as growth machines and progressive metropolises Actor oriented qualitative research methods are used to show how culture and economies can evolve from territorial conflicts The author argues that the quest for both growth and social justice can coexist in intertwined ways and create urban development Moreover recent events in Gwangju such as the May 18 Democratic Uprising and massacre are shown to act as a backdrop for state led urban boosterism and desire for economic growth at the same time as depicting a resistance to state corporate marketing plans which culminates in the eventual emergence of relatively coherent places of memory These convergences and divergences are comparable to the urban boosterism characteristic of Western cities The book contributes to the dialogue surrounding geography urban studies and postcolonial urban development and will be of interest to academics working in these fields as well as human geography planning urban politics and East Asian studies Handbook of Research Methods in Human Memory Hajime Otani,Bennett L. Schwartz,2018-10-09 The Handbook of Research Methods in Human Memory presents a collection of chapters on methodology used by researchers in investigating human memory Understanding the basic cognitive function of human memory is critical in a wide variety of fields such as clinical psychology developmental psychology education neuroscience and gerontology and studying memory has become particularly urgent in recent years due to the prominence of a number of neurodegenerative diseases such as Alzheimer s However choosing the most appropriate method of research is a daunting task for most scholars This book explores the methods that are currently available in various areas of human memory research and serves as a reference manual to help guide readers own research Each chapter is written by prominent researchers and features cutting edge research on human memory and cognition with topics ranging from basic memory processes to cognitive neuroscience to further applications The focus here is not on the what but the how how research is best conducted on human memory Architects of Memory Nathan R.

Johnson,2020-05-26 Probes the development of information management after World War II and its consequences for public memory and human agency We are now living in the richest age of public memory From museums and memorials to the vast digital infrastructure of the internet access to the past is only a click away Even so the methods and technologies created by scientists espionage agencies and information management coders and programmers have drastically delimited the ways that communities across the globe remember and forget our wealth of retrievable knowledge In Architects of Memory Information and Rhetoric in a Networked Archival Age Nathan R Johnson charts turning points where concepts of memory became durable in new computational technologies and modern memory infrastructures took hold He works through both familiar and esoteric memory technologies from the card catalog to the book cart to Zotocoding and keyword indexing as he delineates histories of librarianship and information science and provides a working vocabulary for understanding rhetoric's role in contemporary memory practices This volume draws upon the twin concepts of memory infrastructure and mnemonic technique to illuminate the seemingly opaque wall of mundane algorithmic techniques that determine what is worth remembering and what should be forgotten Each chapter highlights a conflict in the development of twentieth century librarianship and its rapidly evolving competitor the discipline of information science As these two disciplines progressed they contributed practical techniques and technologies for making sense of explosive scientific advancement in the wake of World War II Taming postwar science became part and parcel of practices and information technologies that undergird uncountable modern communication systems including search engines algorithms and databases for nearly every national clearinghouse of the twenty first century

Susan Gathercole, Tracy Packiam Alloway, 2008-01-09 Dr Tracy Alloway has been awarded the prestigious Joseph Lister Award from the British Science Association The authors have written a guide for practitioners that is both highly practical and yet based upon sound theoretical principles This book achieves a successful yet often elusive link between theory research and practice and deserves to have a high readership I will have no hesitation in recommending it to a range of readers Jane Mott Support for Learning This book fulfils its aim to explain working memory and the limits it places on children's classroom learning For teachers it gives a very clear guide and fills a gap in understanding that can only lead to more child centred approaches to teaching and learning Lynn Ambler Support for Learning A clear and accessible account of current theory and research which is then applied to children's learning in the classroom The range of strategies are well grounded in theory derived from research and sit within a coherent conceptual model The Psychologist An easy to read yet informative book that explains the concepts clearly and offers practitioners ways to support those with poor working memory in the classroom SNIP The topic of working memory nowadays tends to dominate discussions with teachers and parents and both groups can helpfully be directed to this easy to read but serious text it is likely to prove a turning point in the management and facilitation of hard to teach children In a situation muddled by ever multiplying syndromes and disorders this book delivers a clarifying and reassuring isolation of the major cognitive characteristic that cuts across all the boundaries and leaves the class teacher and SENCO empowered I think very highly of the book and shall be recommending it steadily Martin Turner Child Center for Evaluation and Teaching Kuwait Susan Gathercole is winner of the British Psychological Society's President's Award for 2007 A good working memory is crucial to becoming a successful learner yet there is very little material available in an easy to use format that explains the concept and offers practitioners ways to support children with poor working memory in the classroom This book provides a coherent overview of the role played by working memory in learning during the school years and uses theory to inform good practice Topics covered include the link between working memory skills and key areas of learning such as literacy numeracy the relationship between working memory and children with developmental disorders assessment of children for working memory deficits strategies for supporting working memory in under performing children This accessible guide will help SENCOs teachers teaching assistants speech and language therapists and educational psychologists to understand and address working memory in their setting Handbook of Culture and Memory Brady Wagoner,2017-10-16 In Handbook of Culture and Memory an interdisciplinary group of contributors provide new models of the complex interrelationships between people s memory and their social relationships group stories and history monuments rituals and material artifacts
