Reader Response in Secondary and College Classrooms Nicholas J. Karolides, 2013-04-15 This text based on Louise M Rosenblatt s transactional model of literature focuses on the application of transactional reader response theory in the classroom It grows from frequent requests from secondary school and college teachers for teaching suggestions on how to put theory into practice This is not a What should I do on Monday cookbook but an expression of the practice of theory in college and secondary school classrooms The chapters portray a spectrum of strategies including biopoems expressive and imaginative writing journal writing readers theater role playing and unsent letters using as examples individual works from several genres Recognizing that teachers who may have been trained in other theories and methodologies may be hesitant about their quite different role and expectations in the reader centered classroom the authors provide stepping stones to develop readiness and confidence suggestions and insights to ease the transition to the transactional model of teaching and learning Pedagogical features An explanatory introduction to each section defines its orientation and describes the content and direction of the chapters it contains Invitations elicit engagement of readers with concepts attitudes or strategies presented in the chapters they invite readers as individuals or members of a small group to consider ideas or to practice a strategy among other activities in order to enhance understandings A glossary defines key concepts and strategies discussed in the text A bibliography provides an extensive list of resources books and journal articles both theoretical and applied New in the second edition Six new chapters three deal with the roles of film as literature in the English classroom and three with enhancing multicultural understandings Updates and revisions to several chapters that appeared in the first edition Invitations new in this edition have been added to focus and expand readers thinking

American Dream, American Nightmare Kathryn Hume, 2022-08-15 In this celebration of contemporary American fiction Kathryn Hume explores how estrangement from America has shaped the fiction of a literary generation which she calls the Generation of the Lost Dream In breaking down the divisions among standard categories of race religion ethnicity and gender Hume identifies shared core concerns values and techniques among seemingly disparate and unconnected writers including T Coraghessan Boyle Ralph Ellison Russell Banks Gloria Naylor Tim O'Brien Maxine Hong Kingston Walker Percy N Scott Momaday John Updike Toni Morrison William Kennedy Julia Alvarez Thomas Pynchon Leslie Marmon Silko and Don DeLillo Hume explores fictional treatments of the slippage in the immigrant experience between America's promise and its reality She exposes the political link between contemporary stories of lost innocence and liberalism's inadequacies She also invites us to look at the literary challenge to scientific materialism in various searches for a spiritual dimension in life The expansive future promised by the American Dream has been replaced Hume finds by a sense of tarnished morality and a melancholy loss of faith in America's exceptionalism American Dream American Nightmare examines the differing critiques of America embedded in nearly a hundred novels and points to the source for recovery that appeals to many of the authors

Anthropological Approaches to Reading Migrant Writing Deborah Reed-Danahay, Helena Wulff, 2023-10-24 This book brings fresh perspectives to the anthropology of migration It focuses on what migrants write and how anthropologists may incorporate insights gained from engagement with this writing into research methods and writing practices The volume includes a range of contributions from leading scholars in the field all organized around a striking set of questions about the conditions in which migrant narratives are written and translated the audiences for which they are intended the genres and media through which they are disseminated and what such stories include or leave out The contributors to this volume demonstrate an innovative shift in anthropological methods by showing how fiction and nonfiction graphic memoir and autoethnography song lyrics as well as social media posts and images unsettle the power dynamics in the study of migration narrative This book will serve as important supplemental reading for courses on migration literary anthropology ethnographic methods and sociocultural anthropology in general Its interdisciplinary perspective will appeal to a broad range of scholars and students with interests in migration narrative and anthropological writing genres The Girls' History and Culture Reader Miriam Forman-Brunell, Leslie Paris, 2011 Provides scholars instructors and students with the most influential essays that have defined the field of American girls history and culture and illustrates girls centrality to major twentieth century forces such as immigration labor feminism consumerism and civil rights from cover Change Is Gonna Come Patricia A. Edwards, Gwendolyn Thompson McMillon, Jennifer D. Turner, 2015-04-17 While many books decry the crisis in the schooling of African American children they are often disconnected from the lived experiences and work of classroom teachers and principals In this book the authors look back to move forward providing specific practices that K 12 literacy educators can use to transform their schools The text addresses four major debates the fight for access to literacy supports and roadblocks to success best practices theories and perspectives on teaching African American students and the role of African American families in the literacy lives of their children Throughout the authors highlight the valuable lessons learned from the past and include real stories from their own diverse family histories and experiences as teachers parents and community members
