Voices of pedagogical development - Expanding, enhancing and exploring higher education language learning Juha Jalkanen, Elina Jokinen, Peppi Taalas, 2015-09-15

Voices of Pedagogical Development is a collection of articles written by teacher-researchers at the University of Jyväskylä Language Centre. It shares the fruits of their ideas and development work in the areas of academic literacies, new forms of teaching and learning, and internationalisation. Part one aims at establishing and expanding perspectives on the multilayered and multivoiced reality of pedagogical development in higher education. Part two looks at how practices can be enhanced by engaging teachers, students, and other cooperating partners in reflection and development. Part three focuses on exploring perceptions of language, language learning, and literature. As a whole, the collection represents a spectrum of approaches and shows the various stages of pedagogical thinking and perception. It provides insights into pedagogical development in higher education, language teaching, through an examination of policies, perceptions, and practices.

Inside Relationships Sandra Faulkner, 2021-12-29

The second edition of this book again uses original case studies as a means to bring home to students through lived experiences the theories and concepts of interpersonal communication. Each piece takes an arts-based approach, spanning essays, short stories, scripts, photographs, poetry, and has been newly written for this edition by communication researchers, writers, and artists. The case studies focus on the aesthetic dimensions of relating to illustrate to students the workings of relationship management with regards to friendship race class gender family interaction sexuality and other key topics in relational communication The case studies are framed from a critical interpersonal perspective to encourage students to consider how power and cultural discourses about relationships influence their relating Faulkner's introduction to each section provides important pedagogical content to give context and meaning to the cases that follow Each case closes with questions for discussion activities and additional resources to help students analyze the material The book is suited as core or supplemental reading for courses in interpersonal or relational communication

Creating Restorative Justice Gregory D. Paul, Ian M. Borton, 2021-04-07 Discussion of the histories meanings and assumptions of restorative justice have enriched the development of its theory research and practices While some of this work has addressed the role of communication the treatment of communication within restorative justice remains rather under developed Communication plays a central role in processes of restoration and justice and a constitutive role in making restorative justice what it is In Creating Restorative Justice A Communication Perspective of Justice Restoration and Community Gregory D Paul and Ian M Borton argue that by centering communication in restorative justice as it occurs in various contexts from families to schools to communities we can simultaneously deepen our understanding enrich our practice and amplify our study of restoration and justice From a communication perspective restorative contexts both use and are created by the communication present

Any outcomes from restorative processes are thus the product of the communication both within and between restorative practices participants. As the world addresses the challenges presented by injustice, inequality, and insecurity, it is incumbent on us to expand our understanding of restorative processes to account for the vital role of communication.
