Vakoch, 2013-09-14 Extraterrestrial Altruism examines a basic assumption of the Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence SETI that extraterrestrials will be transmitting messages to us for our benefit This question of whether extraterrestrials will be altruistic has become increasingly important in recent years as SETI scientists have begun contemplating transmissions from Earth to make contact Technological civilizations that transmit signals for the benefit of others but with no immediate gain for themselves certainly seem to be altruistic But does this make biological sense Should we expect altruism to evolve throughout the cosmos or is this only wishful thinking Is it dangerous to send messages to other worlds as Stephen Hawking has suggested or might humankind benefit from an exchange with intelligence elsewhere in the galaxy Would extraterrestrial societies be based on different ethical principles or would we see commonalities with Earthly notions of morality Extraterrestrial Altruism explores these and related questions about the motivations of civilizations beyond Earth providing new insights that are critical for SETI Chapters are authored by leading scholars from diverse disciplines anthropology astronomy biology chemistry computer science cosmology engineering history of science law philosophy psychology public policy and sociology The book is carefully edited by Douglas Vakoch Director of Interstellar Message Composition at the SETI Institute and professor of clinical psychology at the California Institute of Integral Studies The Foreword is by Frank Drake This interdisciplinary book will benefit everybody trying to understand whether evolution and ethics are unique to Earth or whether they are built into the fabric of the universe

Star Ark Rachel Armstrong, 2016-11-13 As space ventures have become more numerous leading scientists and theorists have offered ways of building a living habitat in a hostile environment taking an ecosystems view of space colonization The contributors to this volume take a radical multi disciplinary view of the challenge of human space colonization through the ongoing project Persephone This book fundamentally challenges prevalent ideas about sustainability and proposes a new approach to resource austerity and conservation and providing truly sustainable approaches that are life promoting Readers will learn the details of the plans for Persephone a real project that is part of the company Icarus Interstellar's plans for the design and engineering of a living interior on a worldship to be constructed in Earth's orbit within 100 years Although the timeframe itself is only an estimate since it is contingent on many significant developments including funding and technological advances the industry consensus is that within 100 years we will see manned space exploration beyond our solar system This notion is shared by organizations such as the Initiative for Interstellar Studies and the DARPA funded 100 year starship project This book specifically develops the principles for the construction of a living habitat within a worldship a multi generational starship that contains its own world that supports colonists as it travels across great distances between stars at a speed much slower than light Far from being a sterile industrial setup such as the ISS or even being a bucolic suburbia as proposed by Gerard O Neill in the 1970s this worldship will provide the pre conditions for sustaining life beyond Earth s environment which may also lead to the evolution of non terrestrial ecologies Drawing on the principles of ecopoiesis and insights offered by the Biosphere 2 experiment that demonstrated what we have to learn about ecosystem construction this book proposes first designing the soils of such a space It should then be possible to set up the conditions that a first generation of colonists may experience in leaving our solar system to find new worlds to settle perhaps in spreading life throughout the universe Although the book takes a unique view of ecology and sustainability within the setting of a traveling starship it is equally concerned with the human experience on artificial worlds Chapters come from a range of multi disciplinary thinkers who shed light on the brave new future ahead from different angles Sad Planets Dominic Pettman, Eugene Thacker, 2024-03-28 Everything is sad wrote the Ancient poets But is this sadness merely a human experience projected onto the world or is there a gloom attributable to the world itself Could the universe be forever weeping the tears of things In this series of meditations Dominic Pettman and Eugene Thacker explore some of the key negative affects both eternal and emergent associated with climate change environmental destruction and cosmic solitude In so doing they unearth something so obvious that it has gone largely unnoticed the question of how we should feel about climate change Between the information gathered by planetary sensors and the simple act of breathing the air new unsettling moods are produced for which we currently lack an adequate language Should we feel grief over the loss of our planet Or is the strange feeling of witnessing mass extinction an indicator that the planet was never ours to begin with Sad Planets explores this relationship between our all too human melancholia and a more impersonal sorrow nestled in the heart of the cosmic elements Spanning a wide range of topics from the history of cosmology to the existential threat of climate change this book is a reckoning with the limits of human existence and comprehension As Pettman and Thacker observe never before have we known so much about the planet and the cosmos and yet never before have we felt so estranged from that same planet to say nothing of the stars beyond
