Pachomius The Making Of A Community In Fourth Century Egypt:

Pachomius Philip Rousseau, 1985 Pachomius who died in 346 has long been regarded as the founder of monasticism Available again Philip Rousseau's careful reading of the available texts reveals that Pachomius's pioneering enterprise has been consistently misread in light of later monastic practices Rousseau not only provides a fuller and more accurate portrait of this great teacher and spiritual director but also gives a new perspective on the development of monasticism In a new preface Rousseau reviews the scholarly developments that have modified his views and emphases since the book was published The result is to make Pachomius an even less assured pioneer a man likely to have been more involved in the village and urban society of his time than previously thought The Monastic Origins of the Nag Hammadi Codices Hugo Lundhaug, Lance Jenott, 2015-10-19 Hugo Lundhaug and Lance Jenott offer a sustained argument for the monastic provenance of the Nag Hammadi Codices They examine the arguments for and against a monastic Sitz im Leben and defend the view that the Codices were produced and read by Christian monks most likely Pachomians in the fourth and fifth century monasteries of Upper Egypt Eschewing the modern classification of the Nag Hammadi texts as Gnostic the authors approach the codices and their ancient owners from the perspective of the diverse monastic culture of late antique Egypt and situate them in the context of the ongoing controversies over extra canonical literature and the theological legacy of Origen Through a combination of sources including idealized hagiographies travelogues monastic rules and exhortations and the more quotidian details revealed in documentary papyri manuscript collections and archaeology monasticism in the Thebaid is brought to life and the Nag Hammadi codices situated within it The cartonnage papyri from the leather covers of the codices which bear witness to the monastic culture of the region are closely examined while scribal and codicological features of the codices are analyzed and compared with contemporary manuscripts from Egypt Special attention is given to the codices scribal notes and colophons which offer direct evidence of their producers and users The study ultimately reveals the Nag Hammadi Codices as a collection of books completely at home in the monastic manuscript culture of late antique Egypt

Letters and Asceticism in Fourth-Century Egypt Bernadette McNary-Zak, 2000-03 In Letters and Asceticism in Fourth Century Egypt Bernadette McNary Zak analyzes collections of ascetic letters written by prominent fourth century Egyptian bishops ascetics and monks arguing that this neglected body of evidence deserves primary source recognition alongside hagiographic sources Focusing principally on the works of Ammonas Antony Athanasius Horsisios Pachomius Serapion of Thmuis and Theodore Letters and Asceticism begins with the analysis of the current state of scholarship on ascetic letters McNary Zak then moves into a discussion of the Antonian and Pachomian movements and assesses the authorship of the Life of Antony She concludes with a succinct summation of the value of the ascetic letters in relation to the traditional contemporary hagiographic desert ascetic sources A powerful argument for the use of ascetic letters this book will be a boon to professors of theology and history as well as students interested in research of Egyptian asceticism Topos in Utopia: A peregrination to early modern utopianism's space Sotirios Triantafyllos, 2021-09-07 Topos in Utopia examines early modern literary utopias and intentional communities social and cultural conception of space Starting from Thomas More's seminal work published in 1516 and covering a period of three centuries until the emergence of Enlightenment's eudaimonia this work provides a thorough yet concise examination of the way space was imagined and utilised in the early modern visions of a better society Dealing with an aspect usually ignored by the scholars of early modern utopianism this book asks us to consider if utopias imaginary lands are based not only on abstract ideas but also on concrete spaces Shedding new light on a period where reformation zeal humanism's optimism colonialism's greed and a proto scientific discourse were combined to produce a series of alternative social and political paradigms this work transports us from the shores of America to the search for the Terra Australis Incognita and the desire to find a new and better world for us

Ordering Women's Lives Julie Ann Smith, 2016-12-05 This book takes an innovative approach to the study of the penitentials and nunnery rules and the ways in which these texts impinged upon the lives of female audiences The study emphasises the importance of the texts for the promotion of Christian values and of the expectations of churchmen in the construction of appropriate Christian behaviour for women in the early medieval West These texts constitute the only written works which would have had direct influence upon the lives of lay and religious women The work focuses upon the elements of the penitentials which provided female specific expectations and these fall largely into two categories of sexuality and pre Christian practices The nunnery rules seldom provided comprehensive sets of behavioural expectations Rather rules emphasised expectations relating to issues of enclosure work and abstinence which came to be perceived as the defining characteristics of religious women

Emotions in Ancient and Medieval Philosophy Simo Knuuttila, 2004 The first part of the book covers the theories of the emotions of Plato and Aristotle and later ancient views from Stoicism to Neoplatonism Ch 1 and their reception and transformation by early Christian thinkers from Clement and Origen to Gregory of Nyssa Cassian and Augustine Ch 2 The basic ancient alternatives were the compositional theories of Plato and Aristotle and their followers and the Stoic judgement theory These were associated with different conceptions of philosophical therapy Ancient theories were employed in early Christian discussions of sin Christian love mystical union and other forms of spiritual experience The most influential theological themes were the monastic idea of supernaturally caused feelings and Augustine's analysis of the relations between the emotions and the will The first part of Ch 3 deals with the twelfth century reception of ancient themes through monastic theological medical and philosophical literature The subject of the second part is the theory of emotions in Avicenna's faculty psychology which to a great extent dominated the philosophical discussion of emotions in early thirteenth century. This approach was combined with Aristotelian ideas in later thirteenth century particularly in Thomas Aquinas' extensive taxonomical theory. The increasing interest in psychological voluntarism led many Franciscan authors to abandon the traditional view that emotions belong only to the lower psychosomatic level. John Duns Scotus, William Ockham and their followers argued that there are also emotions of the will. Chapter 4 is about these new issues introduced in early fourteenth century discussions with some remarks on their influence on early modern thought.

Biblica et Apocrypha, orientalia, ascetica Elizabeth A. Livingstone, 1993 Papers presented at the Eleventh International Conference on Patristic Studies held in Oxford 1991 see also Studia Patristica 24, 26, 27 and 28. The successive sets of Studia Patristica contain papers delivered at the International Conferences on Patristic Studies which meet for a week once every four years in Oxford; they are held under the aegis of the Theology Faculty of the University. Members of these conferences come from all over the world and most offer papers. These range over the whole field, both East and West, from the second century to a section on the Nachleben of the Fathers. The majority are short papers dealing with some small and manageable point they raise and sometimes resolve questions about the authenticity of documents, dates of events and such like, and some unveil new texts. The smaller number of longer papers put such matters into context and indicate wider trends. The whole reflects the state of Patristic scholarship and demonstrates the vigour and popularity of the subject.

Imperial Rome AD 284 to 363 Jill Harries, 2012-03-07 This book is about the reinvention of the Roman Empire during the eighty years between the accession of Diocletian and the death of Julian How had it changed The emperors were still warriors and expected to take the field Rome was still the capital at least symbolically There was still a Roman senate though with new rules brought in by Constantine There were still provincial governors but more now and with fewer duties in smaller areas and military command was increasingly separated from civil jurisdiction and administration The neighbours in Persia Germania and on the Danube were more assertive and better organised which had a knock on effect on Roman institutions The achievement of Diocletian and his successors down to Julian was to create a viable apparatus of control which allowed a large and at times unstable area to be policed defended and exploited The book offers a different perspective on the development often taken to be the distinctive feature of these years namely the rise of Christianity Imperial endorsement and patronage of the Christian god and the expanded social role of the Church are a significant prelude to the Byzantine state The author argues that the reigns of the Christian supporting Constantine and his sons were a foretaste of what was to come but not a complete or coherent statement of how Church and State were to react with each other

Byzantine Monastic Foundation Documents John Philip Thomas, Angela Constantinides Hero, Giles Constable, 2000 The nature of the typika discussed by John Thomas in the introduction was one of flexible and personal documents which differed considerably in form length and content Not all of them were foundation documents in the strict sense since they could be issued at any time in the history of an institution Some were wills others were reform decrees and rules yet others were primarily liturgical in character
