Preventive Strategies on Suicide Diekstra, Gulbinat, Kienhorst, Leo, 2023-07-31 Recent estimates by The World Health Organisation and The World Bank indicate that throughout the world each and every year more than 800 000 persons die as a consequence of suicide This means that the death toll of suicide equals and in many countries even exceeds that of road traffic accidents In addition to the number of suicidal deaths at least ten times as many persons make non fatal attempts to take their lives or harm themselves often seriously enough to require medical attention and not infrequently resulting in irreversible disability But still these figures inadequately describe the magnitude of human loss and suffering caused by suicide If one assumes that for every suicidal death there are at least five persons whose lives are profoundly and often for many years affected by the event emotionally socially and economically by the event then each year millions of survivor victims are added to the tens of millions already out there Hence suicide is an ever recurring catastrophe of the first degree It is not a phenomenon that first and foremost forms a dubious privilege of the so called highly developed countries Suicide also occurs in the developing countries and there is more than suggestive evidence that in several of these countries the suicide rate equals or even surpasses the highest national rates shown by official statistics It follows that suicide is an extremely important public health problem It is however a problem that is painfully neglected Throughout the world resources devoted to the prevention of suicide are only a tiny fraction of those devoted to the prevention of comparable problems such as road traffic accidents or to problems of lesser magnitude at least in the industrialized countries such as HIV infection and Aids This volume produced under the supervision and auspices of the World Health Organization brings together for the first time information on epidemiological clinical and preventive intervention aspects regarding suicide that have global significance and applicability After a detailed description of the epidemiology of suicide and suicidal behaviour

on an international scale a large part of the book is devoted to the how to s of developing and organizing suicide prevention programs and services in different national and cultural settings both at clinical and community level In addition a wealth of practical information for health care workers and volunteers is provided on how to evaluate and deal with acute suicide risk Examples of successful preventive intervention programs and projects from the developed as well as the developing world are provided Legal and ethical problems involved in suicide prevention are also discussed Finally both cultural and biological aspects of suicidal behaviour as well as their clinical practice relevance are examined

National Strategy for Suicide Prevention U. S. Department of Health and Human Services,2012-07-10 Suicide exacts an enormous toll from the American people Our Nation loses 30 000 lives to this tragedy each year another 650 000 receive emergency care after attempting to take their own lives The devastating trauma loss and suffering is multiplied in the lives of family members and friends This document National Strategy for Suicide Prevention Goals and Objectives for Action lays the foundation of our Nation s strategy to confront this serious public health problem At this document s source are countless dedicated individuals representing every facet of our Nation s communities They include representatives to a 1993 United Nations World Health Organization Conference who played key roles in establishing guidelines for national suicide prevention strategies They include the passionate grassroots activists whose work stimulated Congressional Resolutions declaring suicide prevention a national priority and calling for our own national strategy They include dedicated public servants and private individuals who jointly organized and participated in the first National Suicide Prevention Conference in 1998 to consolidate a scientific base for this critical endeavor These people and their efforts led directly to publication of the Surgeon General's Call to Action to Prevent Suicide 1999 with its most important recommendation the completion of the National Strategy for Suicide Prevention After listening to the concerns of the American people Government leaders helped bring stakeholders together in a shining example of public private collaboration to achieve this major milestone in public health Those who have invested their hearts and minds in this effort believe it effectively points the way for organizations and individuals to curtail the tragedy of suicide and suicidal behavior Though it does not specify all the details it provides essential guidance and suggests the fundamental activities that must follow activities based on the best available science Nearly half of the States are engaged in suicide prevention and many have already committed significant resources to implement programs Their leadership in evaluating the effectiveness of these programs will help guide the efforts of States that follow in their paths Most of these plans recognize that much of the work of suicide prevention must occur at the community level where human relationships breathe life into public policy American communities are also home to scores of faith based and secular initiatives that help reduce risk factors and promote protective factors associated with many of our most pressing social problems including suicide As you read further keep in mind that the National Strategy for Suicide Prevention is not the Surgeon General's strategy or the Federal government's strategy rather it is the strategy of the American people for improving their health and well being through the prevention of suicide
