Matres Lectionis in Ancient Hebrew Epigraphs Ziony Zevit, 1980      Ancient Hebrew Periodization and the Language of the Book of Jeremiah Aaron Hornkohl, 2014-04-24 In Ancient Hebrew Periodization and the Language of the Book of Jeremiah Aaron Hornkohl defends the diachronic approach to Biblical Hebrew and the linguistic dating of biblical texts Applying the standard methodologies to the Masoretic version of the biblical book of Jeremiah he seeks to date the work on the basis of its linguistic profile determining that though composite Jeremiah is likely a product of the transitional time between the First and Second Temple Periods Hornkohl also contributes to unraveling Jeremiah's complicated literary development arguing on the basis of language that its short edition as reflected in the book's Old Greek translation predates that supplementary material preserved in the Masoretic edition but unparalleled in the Greek Nevertheless he concludes that neither is written in Late Biblical Hebrew proper      The Recent Study of Hebrew Nahum M. Waldman, 1989      The Historical Depth of the Tiberian Reading Tradition of Biblical Hebrew Aaron D. Hornkohl, 2023-02-06 This volume explores an underappreciated feature of the standard Tiberian Masoretic tradition of Biblical Hebrew namely its composite nature Focusing on cases of dissonance between the tradition's written consonantal and reading vocalic components the study shows that the Tiberian spelling and pronunciation traditions though related interdependent and largely in harmony at numerous points reflect distinct oral realisations of the biblical text Where the extant vocalisation differs from the apparently pre-exilic pronunciation presupposed by the written tradition the former often exhibits conspicuous affinity with post-exilic linguistic conventions as seen in representative Second Temple material such as the core Late Biblical Hebrew books the Dead Sea Scrolls Ben Sira rabbinic literature the Samaritan Pentateuch and contemporary Aramaic and Syriac material On the one hand such instances of written reading disharmony clearly entail a degree of anachronism in the vocalisation of Classical Biblical Hebrew compositions On the other since many of the innovative and secondary features in the Tiberian vocalisation tradition are typical of sources from the Second Temple Period and in some cases are documented as minority alternatives in even earlier material the Masoretic reading tradition is justifiably characterised as a linguistic artefact of profound historical depth

Diachrony in Biblical Hebrew Cynthia Miller-Naudé, Ziony Zevit, 2012-10-25 Diachrony in Biblical Hebrew is an indispensable publication for biblical scholars whose interpretations of scriptures must engage the dates when texts were first composed and recorded and for scholars of language who will want to read these essays for the latest perspectives on the historical development of Biblical Hebrew For Hebraists and linguists interested in the historical development of the Hebrew language it is an essential collection of studies that address the language's development during the Iron Age in its various subdivisions the Neo-Babylonian and Persian periods and the Early Hellenistic period Written for both text people and language people this is the first book to address established Historical Linguistics theory as it applies to the study of Hebrew and to focus on the methodologies most appropriate for Biblical Hebrew and Aramaic The book provides exemplary case studies of orthography lexicography morphology syntax language contact dialectology and sociolinguistics and because of its depth of coverage has broad implications for the linguistic dating of Biblical texts The presentations are rounded out by useful summary histories of linguistic diachrony in Aramaic Ugaritic and Akkadian the three languages related to and considered most crucial for Biblical research The Development of the Biblical Hebrew Vowels Benjamin Suchard, 2019-09-24 The Development of the Biblical Hebrew Vowels investigates the sound changes affecting the Proto Northwest Semitic vocalic phonemes and their reflexes in Tiberian Biblical Hebrew Contrary to many previous approaches Benjamin Suchard shows that these developments can all be described as phonetically regular sound laws This confirms that despite its unique transmission history Hebrew behaves like other languages in this regard Many Hebrew sound changes have traditionally been explained as reflecting non phonetic conditioning These include the Canaanite Shift of tonic and pre tonic lengthening diphthong contraction Philippi's Law the Law of Attenuation and the apocope of short unstressed vowels By reconsidering reconstructions and re evaluating phonetic conditions this work shows how the Biblical Hebrew forms regularly derive from their Proto Northwest Semitic precursors Dialect Geography of Syria-Palestine, 1000-586 B.C.E. W. Randall Garr, 2004 Garr's classic study on dialect geography of the Levant was the first book length attempt to follow in the steps of Zellig Harris The Development of the Canaanite Dialects in 45 years This Eisenbrauns reprint makes the book out of print for several years available once again to students of the Canaanite languages The book opens with an introduction that gives the methodology used a survey of past studies the corpus of texts used in the study and Garr's goals The next three chapters provide a comprehensive list of phonological morphological and syntactical features which are then gathered into a comprehensive table and analyzed for their relevance to dialectical classification Conclusions and a rich bibliography follow as well as indexes of subject texts cited and words Write that They May Read Daniel Isaac Block, David C. Deuel, C. Dobbs-Allsopp,2015-08-19 On Biblical Poetry considers the characteristics of biblical Hebrew Poetry beyond its currently best known feature parallelism F W Dobbs Allsopp demonstrates the many interesting and valuable interpretations that yield from a series of programmatic essays on major facets of biblical verse careful attention to prosody and close reading Job 1 - 21 C. L. Seow,2013-07-04 The Hebrew book of Job is by all accounts an exquisite piece of literary art that holds its rightful place among the most outstanding compositions in world literature Yet it is also widely recognized as an immensely difficult text to understand In elucidating that ancient text this inaugural Illuminations commentary by C L Seow pays close attention to the reception history of Job including Jewish Muslim Christian and Western secular interpretations as expressed in theological philosophical and literary writings and in the visual and performing arts Seow offers a primarily literary theological interpretation of Job a new translation and detailed commentary Linguistic Evidence for the Pre-exilic Date of the Yahwistic Source Rick Wright,2005-05-01 For the past few decades a growing number of scholars have attempted to overthrow the traditional Wellhausian view that the so called Yahwist or J source of the Pentateuch is the oldest of the four major sources These scholars have argued that J was composed during the exilic or post exilic periods of ancient Israel Their arguments have focused on the literary historiographic and theological characteristics of J This book attempts to re evaluate on linguistic grounds such efforts to place the Yahwist source in the exilic or post exilic periods The study employs the methodology developed most prominently by Avi Hurvitz for identifying characteristic features of post exilic Hebrew Late

Biblical Hebrew This divides the language of the Hebrew Bible into three main chronological stages Archaic Biblical Hebrew ABH Standard Biblical Hebrew SBH and Late Biblical Hebrew LBH Wright examines 40 features of J for which useful comparisons can be made to LBH and finds no evidence of LBH in the entire Yahwist source Therefore it is unlikely that J was composed during the post exilic period Moreover since Hurvitz has shown that the exilic period was a time of transition between SBH and LBH such that late features began to occur in exilic texts the author concludes on linguistic grounds that J was most likely composed during the pre exilic period of ancient Israel

In the Beginning Joel Hoffman, 2006-03 Written in language simple enough for everyone to learn this sweeping history traces the Hebrew language's development and covers the dramatic story of the rebirth of Hebrew as a modern spoken language

The Provenance of Deuteronomy 32 Paul Sanders, 2021-11-15 This study offers an extensive survey of previous literature dealing with the provenance of the song in Deuteronomy 32 a renewed discussion of its text and language as well as an analysis of its poetic structure with the help of a new method The author tests the tenability of older theories and proposes a new theory based on systematic research into the intertextual links with other parts of the Hebrew Bible and extra biblical literature of the Ancient Near East Separate sections are dedicated to the song's descriptions of the relationship between YHWH and the gods and to the identity of the hostile people to which the song refers The author concludes that a pre exilic date is extremely likely for the song in its entirety
