Meeting The Change Challenge:

Meeting the Challenges of Change in Postgraduate Education Trevor Kerry, 2010-06-24 This text takes a radical look at the nature of adult learning in the postgraduate context and at the implications of this for universities and their courses While over recent decades schools have had to undergo major re assessments about how learning is developed into curriculum how learning is delivered to students and how that learning is assessed universities have remained very largely detached from these pedagogical andragogical issues However the circumstances of higher education provision have changed There is also real pressure now from vocationalism Meeting the Challenges of Change in Postgraduate Education places these movements in both a UK and a wider context examines the nature of learning and teaching in postgraduate education and opens up the debate for rethinking university provision The book examines concepts such as integration as ways of retaining the higher order skills of a university education over against narrower technicist approaches and suggest a continuum of provision but one in which the learner takes centre stage

Marine Ecosystem Assessment for the Southern Ocean: Meeting the Challenge for Conserving Earth Ecosystems in the Long Term Monica M. C. Muelbert, 2024-12-24. National and international agencies need assessments of change in ecosystems and their drivers in order to sustain natural systems to maintain the delivery of services and to meet the challenge for conserving Earth ecosystems in the long term. In marine systems, change may arise directly from human activities, e.g., fisheries, indirectly from local or global activities cascading effects through food webs from fisheries or changing environments from climate change and/or ocean acidification, or from naturally varying processes. A particular challenge for managers is to identify how dangerous future climate change will be for ecosystems and their services and whether mitigation or adaptation may be needed in advance in order to achieve the conservation requirements. For regions of international attention, particularly those that have the attention of many management or policy-oriented bodies, a standardized process is needed to harmonize the scientific information on the status and trends in ecosystems used by the different bodies. That process also needs to ensure the information is available in a timely manner. For example, assessments of change in habitats, species, and/or food webs in the Southern Ocean are currently compiled separately for at least ten different international organizations or processes. A Marine Ecosystem Assessment for the Southern Ocean (MEASO) aims to harmonize that information for policy makers. This assessment began with an international conference in April 2018 (<http://www.measo2018.aq>) where it was agreed to undertake the first MEASO over 2018-2019 with the view to provide the outcomes to relevant bodies such as the Scientific Committee for the Conservation of Antarctic Marine Living Resources soon after.
