Megapodes Status Survey And Conservation Action Plan 20002004:

Megapodes René W. R. J. Dekker, Gillian C. Baker, 2000 Equids--zebras, Asses, and Horses Patricia Des Roses Moehlman, IUCN/SSC Equid Specialist Group, 2002 The new Equid Action Plan provides current knowledge on the biology ecology and conservation status of wild zebras asses and horses It specifies what information is lacking and prioritizes needed conservation actions The Action Plan also provides chapters on equid taxonomy genetics reproductive biology and population dynamics These chapters highlight unsolved issues of taxonomy and genetics They also provide information and insight into the special demographic and genetic challenges of managing small populations The chapter on disease provides a review of documented equine disease and epidemiology and focuses on priorities for equid conservation health The final chapter deals with the importance of developing an assessment methodology that explicitly considers the role of equids in ecosystems and the ecological processes that are necessary for ecosystem viability The approach of combining ecological field studies and ecosystem modeling should prove useful for the scientific management and conservation of wild equids worldwide These chapters provide research and conservation practitioners with new information and paradigms

Microchiropteran Bats Anthony Michael Hutson, Anthony M. Hutson, Simon P. Mickleburgh, P. A. Racey, 2001

Pheasants Richard Anthony Fuller, Peter J. Garson, 2000 Links Between Biodiversity Conservation, Livelihoods and Food Security Sue Mainka, Mandar Trivedi, 2002 The global use of wild animals for meat is now the primary illegal activity in many protected areas and growing human populations and a lack of livelihood options suggest that demand for wild meat is likely to continue to rise This Occasional Paper contains the background information presented to participants at a workshop jointly organized by IUCN FAO and TRAFFIC in Yaound Cameroon The workshop aimed to forge functional links among the various stakeholders concerned with the unsustainable use of wild fauna for food and it contains the communiqué and a summary of the discussions related to problems and solutions Antelopes David P. Mallon, Steven Charles Kingswood, 2001 Antelope herds numbering in the tens of thousands formerly occurred across the steppes and semideserts of Eurasia and India but these have nearly all been reduced to fractions of their earlier size antelope populations are now fragmented across the region and during recent decades several species have disappeared altogether Threats include hunting loss of habitat population fragmentation inadequate protected area coverage poorly developed administrative structures under resourcing of conservation programmes and lack of enforcement of existing legislation Rising human population growth and economic development constantly increases pressure on land and natural resources There is a consequent need for integrated rural development and community based conservation projects which have the full participation of local people at the planning and execution stages This publication Part 4 of the Global Antelope Survey covers 37 countries in the region and actions to conserve antelope populations are listed in each country report

Chimpanzés d'Afrique de l'ouest Rebecca Kormos, IUCN/SSC Primate Specialist Group, 2004 Partridges, Quails, Francolins, Snowcocks, Guineafowl, and Turkeys Richard Anthony Fuller, John P. Carroll, Philip J. K. McGowan, 2000 These species a group of about 150 ground dwelling gamebird are found on every continent apart from Antarctica They live in a wide variety of habitats from tropical forests high altitude alpine zones temperate forests open country to desert environment Although widespread little is known of the species occurring outside Europe and North America but several species are considered at grave risk of extinction Since publication of the first action plan in 1995 a large increase in the amount and quality of conservation work has taken place This document provides an update on the current situation identifies the most threatened species with this group prioritizes conservation action needed and outlines project briefs for the most urgent cases Parrots Noel F. R. Snyder, 2000 Annual Review of the World Pheasant Association, 2001

Canids Claudio Sillero-Zubiri, Michael Hoffmann, David Whyte Macdonald, 2004 The new Canid Action Plan synthesizes the current knowledge on the biology ecology and status of all wild canid species and outlines the conservation actions and projects needed to secure their long term survival Aiming at conservation biologists ecologists local conservation officials administrators educators and all others dealing with canids in their jobs the authors aspire to stimulate the conservation of all canids by highlighting problems debating priorities and suggesting action Ecology of Sulawesi Tony Whitten, Greg S. Henderson, 2012-06-19 The Ecology of Sulawesi is a comprehensive ecological survey of one of Indonesia s least populated and most diverse islands It is hoped that it will prove useful to resource managers ecologists environmental scientists and local government personnel and be enlightening to Sulawesi s inhabitants and visitors Sulawesi is one of the least known islands of Indonesia and wise environmental management including the proper assessment of environmental management including the proper assessment of environmental impacts arising from development projects and other activities is currently very difficult West African Chimpanzees Rebecca Kormos,2003 Wild chimpanzees are only found in tropical Africa where their populations have declined by more than 66% in the last 30 years This Action Plan focuses on one of the four chimpanzee subspecies the western chimpanzee which is one of the two subspecies most threatened with extinction This publication presents a plan for action that represents a consensus among all parties concerned with the conservation of chimpanzees

Cycads John Sydney Donaldson,2003 The IUCN SSC Cycad Action Plan brings together the best available information on this ancient and fascinating group of plants Cycads were a dominant part of the earth s flora during the age of the dinosaurs and many species were common even in more recent times However many of the 297 species and subspecies dealt with in the Cycad Action Plan have been badly affected by habitat destruction and plant collecting within the last century As a result more than half the known species are now classified as threatened and the cycads stand out as one of the most threatened groups of plants in this world The Action Plan provides an overview of all the cycads and the threats to their survival This is followed by separate assessments for the four broad regions where cycads now occur namely Africa and the Indian Ocean Islands Australia Asia and the New World Trade in cycads has had a substantial impact on wild cycad populations and there is a separate chapter on trade and the effectiveness of control measures such as CITES In addition with so many species facing extinction in the wild garden collections have become increasingly important and we have assessed the global status of cycad collections Finally the Cycad Action Plan presents a set of objectives and actions to reduce the threat to cycads in the wild and to provide ex situ conservation for those that almost certainly will become extinct in the wild Wherever possible we have tried to identify and build on innovative projects such as community based nurseries and to link cycad consideration with other global and local initiatives such as the conservation of biodiversity hotspots Pheasants Philip J. K. McGowan,1995 Wildlife Research ,2003 Grzimek's Animal Life Encyclopedia Bernhard Grzimek,2003 Provides a comprehensive reference on animals around the world including their life cycles predators food systems overall ecology and more Australian Field Ornithology ,2005
