Patterns Of Economic Restructuring For Eastern Europe:

Patterns of Economic Restructuring for Eastern Europe S. I. Cohen, 1993 The economies of Eastern European countries under communist rule for the last four decades or more are presently faced with a number of interdependent but yet distinct policy issues The issues concern the normal structural patterns for Eastern Europe the size of transitional gaps the choice between steady and shock approaches the scale and scope of privatization and the form and pace of external re integration in the world economy The present volume is devoted to an exposition of these policy issues and the propagation of several analytical devices which are found useful The volume reports on the construction and analysis of six Social Accounting Matrices for Eastern and Western European countries Corresponding models featuring general equilibrium and structural restrictions for Eastern Europe are found relevant in this context The research underlying the contributions to this volume was supported by a generous grant from the Commission of the European Communities in the context of the Community Action for Cooperation in the field of Economics ACE The American Bibliography of Slavic and East European Studies Patt Leonard, Rebecca Routh, 2020-02-27 This bibliography first published in 1957 provides citations to North American academic literature on Europe Central Europe the Balkans the Baltic States and the former Soviet Union Organised by discipline it covers the arts humanities social sciences life sciences and technology Economic Transformation in Eastern Europe and the Distribution of Income Anthony Barnes Atkinson, John Micklewright, 1992-10 This book first published in 1992 examines the distribution of income under Communism in Eastern Europe and its implications for economic transformation Economic Developments in Countries of Eastern Europe United States. Congress. Joint Economic Committee. Subcommittee on Foreign Economic Policy, 1970 Economic Adjustment and Reform in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union Franklyn D. Holzman, 1988 Economic reform structural adjustment macroeconomic stabilization and participation in the world economy are interconnected aspects of the same issue the long term economic viability of centrally planned economies in the rapidly changing economic environment of the modern world Any economic strategy that focuses on only one or two of these aspects at the expense of the others is likely to fail yet even strategies that build on all of these bases may well fail unless political leaders can muster exceptional skill garner international support and enjoy some good luck The contributions to this volume reflect the recent research on this issue by various specialists on the economies of the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe Each author emphasizes macroeconomic stabilization structural adjustment participation in the larger world economy or economic reform East-Central European Economies in Transition John P. Hardt, Richard F. Kaufman, 2016-09-16 This volume makes JEC commissioned expert studies of economic developments in East Central Europe available to business people educators and students Coverage includes economic political and social reform issues regional relations and the impact of Western assistance programmes The Emerging Economic Geography in EU Accession Countries Peter Nijkamp, 2017-11-30 This title was first published in 2003 Since 1990

Central and Eastern European countries have experienced increased economic integration with the European Union. The spatial implications of this process have been little investigated so far. Have patterns of regional specialization and industrial concentration changed during the 1990s? How does regional specialization relate to economic performance? How has access to Western markets affected the regional wage structure? What types of regions are winners and what types of regions are losers? This book poses and answers such policy relevant questions. It is organized into three parts. The first introduces the main features of economic integration and transition processes in Central and Eastern Europe and discusses the theoretical and methodological framework of the research. The second part examines the cases of five countries: Bulgaria, Estonia, Hungary, Romania and Slovenia, and the final part includes three comparative analyses which explain the underlying factors that determine the changing patterns of location of manufacturing activity, the adjustment pattern of regional wages and adaptation processes in border regions in the five countries. East-Central European Economies in Transition, 1994. Distributed to some depository libraries in microfiche. Transformation of Cities in Central and Eastern Europe. F. E. Ian Hamilton, Kaliopa Dimitrovska Andrews, Nataša Pichler-Milanović, 2005. Annotation: This volume is one in a series initiated by the United Nations University Institute of Advanced Studies on the inter-relationship between globalisation and urban transformation. It identifies and describes the inter and intra urban transformations of Central and Eastern European cities and considers their pre 1945 historic legacies, the socialist period and their contemporary transition towards market oriented and democratic systems. The dramatic changes since 1989, including the collapse of Communist ideology, the break up of the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, the end of the Cold War and the impact of globalisation and European integration have reconfigured this region and affected their re integration into European and global networks. This book first examines the similarities and differences between significant Central and Eastern European cities, comparing the differing patterns of historical context and socialist legacies before 1990 and the impacts of internal and external forces on re-shaping these cities and their paths of transformation since 1990. It also examines the role of contemporary planning within the overall development of Central and Eastern European cities. The conclusion demonstrates the similarities and differences between Central and Eastern European cities and their re integration into global networks. The Successes and Failures of Economic Transition. H. Gabrisch, J. Hölscher, 2006-08-25. This book takes a macroeconomic approach to the issue of transformation from communist economies into market economies. At the centre of the analysis stands the role of the state and the definition within a dramatically changing environment. Particular emphasis is given to the emerging role of money and the financial sector.
