The Reading of Russian Literature in China M. Gamsa, 2010-05-24

This book traces the profound influence that Russian literature which was tied inseparably to the political victory of the Russian revolution had on China during a period that saw the collapse of imperial rule and the rise of the Communist Party

The Oxford Handbook of the Russian Novel Julie A. Buckler, Justin Weir, 2025 The Oxford Handbook of the Russian Novel brings together top specialists in Russian literature to treat the Russian novel from the late 18th to the 21st century using a range of interpretive perspectives The Russian novel is a distinctive tradition by virtue of its formal eccentricities as well as the boldness with which these works approached the most complex philosophical political and moral questions This Handbook treats well known works and authors but also explores the much broader tradition of the Russian novel up to the present The essays in the Handbook provide cultural and historical perspectives on the Russian novel as well as showcasing emergent modes of analysis including postcolonialism ecocriticism and posthumanism

Contemporary Russian Literature Prince D. S. Mirsky, 1926

Russian Music since 1917 Patrick Zuk, Marina Frolova-Walker, 2017-09-28

These essays bring into clearer focus the transformation in the study of Russian music that has occurred since glasnost Concentrating on Russian music since 1917 the volume shows how censorship in the USSR hindered developments in scholarship and explains some difficulties experienced by musicians and scholars in the post soviet era

Writing in Red Nergis Ertürk, 2024-05-21 The republic of Turkey and the Soviet Union both emerged from the wreckage of empires surrounding World War I and pathways of literary exchange soon opened between the two revolutionary states Even as the Turkish government pursued a friendly relationship with the USSR it began to persecute communist writers Whether going through official channels or fleeing repression many Turkish writers traveled to the Soviet Union during the 1920s and 1930s publishing original work editing prominent literary journals and translating both Russian classics and Soviet literature into Turkish Writing in Red traces the literary and exilic itineraries of Turkish communist and former communist writers examining revolutionary aesthetics and politics across Turkey and the Soviet Union from the mid 1920s through the 1960s Nergis Ertürk considers a wide range of texts spanning genres such as erotic comedy historical fiction and film and socialist realist novels and theater by writers including Nâzım Hikmet Vâzî Nureddin Nizâmettin Nazîfî Suat Dervî and Abidin Dino She argues that these works belong simultaneously to modern Turkish literature a transnational Soviet republic of letters and the global literary archive of world revolution alongside those of other writers who made the magic pilgrimage to Moscow Exploring how Turkish communist writers on the run produced a remarkable transnational literature of dissent Writing in Red offers a new account of global revolutionary literary culture

Translating England into Russian Elena

Goodwin, 2019-12-26 From governesses with supernatural powers to motor car obsessed amphibians the iconic images of English children's literature helped shape the view of the nation around the world But as Translating England into Russian reveals Russian translators did not always present the same picture of Englishness that had been painted by authors In this book Elena Goodwin explores Russian translations of classic English children's literature considering how representations of Englishness depended on state ideology and reflected the shifting nature of Russia's political and cultural climate. As Soviet censorship policy imposed restrictions on what and how to translate, this book examines how translation dealt with and built bridges between cultures in a restricted environment in order to represent images of England. Through analysing the Soviet and post-Soviet translations of Rudyard Kipling, Kenneth Grahame, J. M. Barrie, A. A. Milne and P. L. Travers, this book connects the concepts of society, ideology and translation to trace the role of translation through a time of transformation in Russian society. Making use of previously unpublished archival material, Goodwin provides the first analysis of the role of translated English children's literature in modern Russian history and offers fresh insight into Anglo-Russian relations from the Russian Revolution to the present day. This ground-breaking book is therefore a vital resource for scholars of Russian history and literary translation.
