Matres Lectionis In Ancient Hebrew Epigraphs:

Matres Lectionis in Ancient Hebrew Epigraphs Ziony Zevit, 1980 Ancient Hebrew Periodization and the Language of the Book of Jeremiah Aaron Hornkohl, 2014-04-24 In Ancient Hebrew Periodization and the Language of the Book of Jeremiah Aaron Hornkohl defends the diachronic approach to Biblical Hebrew and the linguistic dating of biblical texts Applying the standard methodologies to the Masoretic version of the biblical book of Jeremiah he seeks to date the work on the basis of its linguistic profile determining that though composite Jeremiah is likely a product of the transitional time between the First and Second Temple Periods Hornkohl also contributes to unraveling Jeremiah's complicated literary development arguing on the basis of language that its short edition as reflected in the book's Old Greek translation predates that supplementary material preserved in the Masoretic edition but unparalleled in the Greek Nevertheless he concludes that neither is written in Late Biblical Hebrew proper A Research Guide to the Ancient World John M. Weeks, Jason de Medeiros, 2014-11-25

The archaeological study of the ancient world has become increasingly popular in recent years A Research Guide to the Ancient World Print and Electronic Sources is a partially annotated bibliography The study of the ancient world is usually although not exclusively considered a branch of the humanities including archaeology art history languages literature philosophy and related cultural disciplines which consider the ancient cultures of the Mediterranean world and adjacent Egypt and southwestern Asia Chronologically the ancient world would extend from the beginning of the Bronze Age of ancient Greece ca 1000 BCE to the fall of the Western Roman Empire ca 500 CE This book will close the traditional subject gap between the humanities Classical World Egyptology and the social sciences anthropological archaeology Near East in the study of the ancient world This book is uniquely the only bibliographic resource available for such holistic coverage The volume consists of 17 chapters and seven appendixes arranged according to the traditional types of library research materials bibliographies dictionaries atlases etc The appendixes are mostly subject specific including graduate programs in ancient studies reports from significant archaeological sites numismatics and paleography and writing systems These extensive author and subject indexes help facilitate ease of use The Recent Study of Hebrew Nahum M. Waldman, 1989

The Historical Depth of the Tiberian Reading Tradition of Biblical Hebrew Aaron D. Hornkohl, 2023-02-06 This volume explores an underappreciated feature of the standard Tiberian Masoretic tradition of Biblical Hebrew namely its composite nature Focusing on cases of dissonance between the tradition's written consonantal and reading vocalic components the study shows that the Tiberian spelling and pronunciation traditions though related interdependent and largely in harmony at numerous points reflect distinct oral realisations of the biblical text Where the extant vocalisation differs from the apparently pre-exilic pronunciation presupposed by the written tradition the former often exhibits conspicuous affinity with post-exilic linguistic conventions as seen in representative Second Temple material such as the core Late Biblical Hebrew books the Dead Sea Scrolls Ben Sira rabbinic literature the Samaritan Pentateuch and contemporary

Aramaic and Syriac material On the one hand such instances of written reading disharmony clearly entail a degree of anachronism in the vocalisation of Classical Biblical Hebrew compositions On the other since many of the innovative and secondary features in the Tiberian vocalisation tradition are typical of sources from the Second Temple Period and in some cases are documented as minority alternatives in even earlier material the Masoretic reading tradition is justifiably characterised as a linguistic artefact of profound historical depth Diachrony in Biblical Hebrew Cynthia

Miller-Naudé, Ziony Zevit, 2012-10-25 Diachrony in Biblical Hebrew is an indispensable publication for biblical scholars whose interpretations of scriptures must engage the dates when texts were first composed and recorded and for scholars of language who will want to read these essays for the latest perspectives on the historical development of Biblical Hebrew For Hebraists and linguists interested in the historical development of the Hebrew language it is an essential collection of studies that address the language's development during the Iron Age in its various subdivisions the Neo Babylonian and Persian periods and the Early Hellenistic period Written for both text people and language people this is the first book to address established Historical Linguistics theory as it applies to the study of Hebrew and to focus on the methodologies most appropriate for Biblical Hebrew and Aramaic The book provides exemplary case studies of orthography lexicography morphology syntax language contact dialectology and sociolinguistics and because of its depth of coverage has broad implications for the linguistic dating of Biblical texts The presentations are rounded out by useful summary histories of linguistic diachrony in Aramaic Ugaritic and Akkadian the three languages related to and considered most crucial for Biblical research The Development of the Biblical Hebrew Vowels Benjamin Suchard, 2019-09-24 The Development of the Biblical Hebrew Vowels investigates the sound changes affecting the Proto Northwest Semitic vocalic phonemes and their reflexes in Tiberian Biblical Hebrew Contrary to many previous approaches Benjamin Suchard shows that these developments can all be described as phonetically regular sound laws This confirms that despite its unique transmission history Hebrew behaves like other languages in this regard Many Hebrew sound changes have traditionally been explained as reflecting non phonetic conditioning These include the Canaanite Shift of tonic and pre tonic lengthening diphthong contraction Philippi's Law the Law of Attenuation and the apocope of short unstressed vowels By reconsidering reconstructions and re evaluating phonetic conditions this work shows how the Biblical Hebrew forms regularly derive from their Proto Northwest Semitic precursors Dialect Geography of Syria-Palestine, 1000-586 B.C.E. W. Randall

Garr, 2004 Garr's classic study on dialect geography of the Levant was the first book length attempt to follow in the steps of Zellig Harris The Development of the Canaanite Dialects in 45 years This Eisenbrauns reprint makes the book out of print for several years available once again to students of the Canaanite languages The book opens with an introduction that gives the methodology used a survey of past studies the corpus of texts used in the study and Garr's goals The next three chapters provide a comprehensive list of phonological morphological and syntactical features which are then gathered into a comprehensive table and analyzed for their relevance to dialectical classification Conclusions and a rich bibliography follow as well as indexes of subject texts cited and words

Studies in Hebrew and Aramaic Orthography David Noel Freedman, A. Dean Forbes, Francis I. Andersen, 1992 This book introduces the student to the textual study of the Hebrew Bible to help such a student perceive the work of the numberless and nameless scribes torn between tradition and fashion in their restrained attempts to update the orthography of Scripture Sixteen essays serve as the bridge from older methods for the study of orthography to newer ones using the computer to analyze large bodies of text

Provenance of Deuteronomy Thirty-two Paul Sanders, 1996 A survey of previous literature about the provenance of the song in Deuteronomy 32 and a discussion of its text and poetic structure The author concludes that the song dates from the pre exilic period The Provenance of Deuteronomy 32 Paul Sanders, 2021-11-15 This study offers an extensive survey of previous literature dealing with the provenance of the song in Deuteronomy 32 a renewed discussion of its text and language as well as an analysis of its poetic structure with the help of a new method The author tests the tenability of older theories and proposes a new theory based on systematic research into the intertextual links with other parts of the Hebrew Bible and extra biblical literature of the Ancient Near East Separate sections are dedicated to the song s descriptions of the relationship between YHWH and the gods and to the identity of the hostile people to which the song refers The author concludes that a pre exilic date is extremely likely for the song in its entirety Text and History Jens Bruun Kofoed, 2005-06-30 During the past two or three decades the value of the text of the Hebrew Bible as a testimony to the history of Israel has come under siege As the date of the final form of the text has been pushed later and later often into the Hellenistic era the text has been devalued accordingly what is late is viewed as having less value At the same time the connection between the text and extratextual information particularly from archaeology has been rendered less and less clear by both archaeological investigation itself and an increasing inability to connect text and artifact or to do so compellingly. Some of the foremost scholars who have argued that the biblical text contributes little to historical research have come from Copenhagen. Now from Copenhagen Jens Bruun Kofoed steps forward to address the methodological issues that must lie behind the use of the biblical text and its validation as a source for historical information. In this volume he sets out the methodological stepping stones necessary to an honest use of the biblical text and through discussion of presuppositions underlying various methodologies and by evaluating specific test cases shows among other things that the lateness of the extant text by itself is not a charge that reduces the text's value as a source of historical information. That taking modern genre research and authorial intent into account opens new vistas for evaluating the historiographical reliability of ancient texts and that a way forward from the current impasse is possible.
