Meeting Anthropology Phase To Phase:

Anthropological Approaches To Resettlement Michael M. Cernea, 2019-04-08 This book is about people who have been forced to resettle because of development projects. It takes stock of recent applied social science research on involuntary resettlement and forms a part of an international discussion on theories of resettlement and what social scientists can do about it.

Unbound Richard L. Currier, 2017-08-08 Like Guns, Germs, and Steel, a work of breathtaking sweep and originality that reinterprets the human story. Although we usually think of technology as something unique to modern times, our ancestors began to create the first technologies millions of years ago in the form of prehistoric tools and weapons. Over time, eight key technologies gradually freed us from the limitations of our animal origins. The fabrication of weapons, the mastery of fire, and the technologies of clothing and shelter radically restructured the human body, enabling us to walk upright, shed our body hair, and migrate out of tropical Africa. Symbolic communication transformed human evolution from a slow biological process into a fast cultural process. The invention of agriculture revolutionized the relationship between humanity and the environment, and the technologies of interaction led to the birth of civilization. Precision machinery spawned the industrial revolution, and the rise of nation states, and in the next metamorphosis, digital technologies may well unite all of humanity for the benefit of future generations. Synthesizing the findings of primatology, paleontology, archeology, history, and anthropology, Richard Currier reinterprets and retells the modern narrative of human evolution that began with the discovery of Lucy and other Australopithecus fossils. But the same forces that allowed us to integrate technology into every aspect of our daily lives have also brought us to the brink of planetary catastrophe. Unbound explains both how we got here and how human society must be transformed again to achieve a sustainable future.

Technology: The deliberate modification of any natural object or substance with forethought to achieve a specific end or to serve a specific purpose

The Psychology of Cultural Experience Carmella C. Moore, Holly F. Mathews, 2001-09-06 The essays in this volume, first published in 2001, focus upon the relationship of individual experience to culture and chart a research agenda for psychological anthropology in the twenty-first century. Drawing upon fieldwork in diverse cultural settings, the authors use a range of contemporary perspectives in the field, including person-centred ethnography, activity theory, attachment theory, and cultural schema theory, to describe the ways in which people think, feel, remember, and solve problems. Fascinating insights emerge from these fine-grained accounts of personal experience. The research demonstrates that it is possible to identify cross-cultural universals in psychological development and mental states, and that individual psychology is not determined solely by unique cultural patterns.

21st Century Anthropology: A Reference Handbook H. James Birx, 2010-06-10 Highlighting the most important topics, issues, questions, and debates, these two volumes offer full coverage of major subthemes and subfields within the discipline of anthropology.

Intentional Community Susan Love Brown, 2001-12-20 Although anthropologists have studied intentional communities in the past, they have seldom exerted a concerted effort to evaluate the intentional community in terms of the anthropological language of cultural change Drawing from the work of Victor Turner Gregory Bateson and Anthony F C Wallace Intentional Community examines historic and contemporary intentional communities within the United States leading to a better understanding of these communities the larger nation state of which they are a part and the ways in which the two interact Applying classical anthropological theory to elements of western society the contributors discuss how the individuals function the ways in which these communities come into being and disappear the various forms these communities take how their members reinterpret features of the larger culture and the ways in which outsiders relate to people within them

Astronomical Pulses to History's Phases Michael A. Susko, 2025-09-26 Bringing together seven volumes of research Michael A Susko presents a grand synthesis of astronomical biological and cultural evolution Using a logarithmic model he shows how the universe has unfolded in accelerating pulses from galaxies and planets to the rise of life and symbolic humanity This rhythm of time is then extended through the Neolithic tells and into recorded history where generational phases reveal cultures growing and transforming in their own natural cycles Three distinct measures of time logarithmic pulses triadic generational units and fifteen year historical generations converge to reveal a patterned fabric of change Across billions of years and into the present moment the author demonstrates how time is not a smooth line but a structured unfolding marked by phases of complexity consciousness and cultural renewal The result is both a sweeping map of our past and a reflection on the nature of time itself its rhythms its surprises and its promise of transformations yet to come

Changing Perspectives on the Archaeology of the Central Mississippi Valley Michael J. O'Brien, Robert C. Dunnell, 1998-03-25 Fourteen experts examine the current state of Central Valley prehistoric research and provide an important touchstone for future archaeological study of the region The Mississippi Valley region has long played a critical role in the development of American archaeology and continues to be widely known for the major research of the early 1950s To bring the archaeological record up to date fourteen Central Valley experts address diverse topics including the distribution of artifacts across the landscape internal configurations of large fortified settlements human bone chemistry and ceramic technology The authors demonstrate that much is to be learned from the rich and varied archaeological record of the region and that the methods and techniques used to study the record have changed dramatically over the past half century Operating at the cutting edge of current research strategies these archaeologists provide a fresh look at old problems in central Mississippi Valley research

Design Anthropology Wendy Gunn, Ton Otto, Rachel Charlotte Smith, 2020-05-26 Design is a key site of cultural production and change in contemporary society Anthropologists have been involved in design projects for several decades but only recently a new field of inquiry has emerged which aims to integrate the strengths of design thinking and anthropological research This book is written by anthropologists who actively participate in the development of design anthropology Comprising both cutting edge explorations and theoretical reflections it provides a much needed introduction to the concepts methods practices and challenges of the new field Design Anthropology moves from observation and interpretation to collaboration intervention and co creation Its practitioners participate in multidisciplinary design teams working towards concrete solutions for problems that are sometimes ill defined The authors address the critical potential of design anthropology in a wide range of design activities across the globe and query the impact of design on the discipline of anthropology This volume will appeal to new and experienced practitioners in the field as well as to students of anthropology innovation science and technology studies and a wide range of design studies focusing on user participation innovation and collaborative research Current Catalog
