America Needs Human Rights Anuradha Mittal, Peter Rosset, 1999 The time has come to stand up for what's right in America We may be in the middle of economic recovery but millions of Americans are not sharing the benefits The growing ranks of those without adequate food jobs shelter or health care challenge our fundamental notions of right and wrong America Needs Human Rights makes a powerful case that both the letter and spirit of universally recognized human rights are routinely violated in America by government policies that safeguard profits rather than people Topics includes understanding human rights basic needs and human rights the new American crisis poverty in America welfare reform and human rights policy options and movement building

The Study of Nonprofit Enterprise Helmut K. Anheier, Avner Ben-Ner, 2012-12-06 This volume addresses the need to revisit the economic theories from the last two decades that have contributed to the development of a concentrated research agenda on nonprofit organizations Long neglected as a topic of theorizing and empirical investigation by mainstream economics in particular these initial theories of nonprofit organizations from the late 1970s and early 1980s continue to shape theoretical and conceptual efforts Importantly their influence extends beyond economics and informs sociological and political science approaches to the set of organizations and institutions located between the market firm and the state agency as well While the theoretical map of nonprofit research has expanded beyond these early attempts and now include several other major theories such as stakeholder approaches supply side or entrepreneurial theories institutional theories and comparative approaches This work suggests that it is time to take stock and reexamine some of the basics from which these economic theories operate

Drawing on sources from a wide range of disciplines this first volume of a two volume tutorial on systems theory focuses on non linear dynamical techniques for analysis of feedback processes information flow decision making control theory and modeling of human behavioral systems Resources in Education ,1984 Excellence and Equity Stephen Miller,2021-12-14 Since its establishment in 1965 the National Endowment for the Humanities has distributed many millions of dollars in grants Has the money been well spent What impact have the Endowment s programs had on the academic community the schools and the public at large In this first book length study of the Endowment Stephen Miller offers a trenchant analysis of the agency s origins its accomplishments and the criticisms leveled against it In the political maneuvering that led to its establishment Miller sees a basic misunderstanding between those in academia who lobbied for NEH and those in Congress who were its most enthusiastic supporters The inevitable result was a confused mandate that has made the work of the Endowment and the policies of its four chairmen the focus of congressional and public criticism One group of critics has found NEH too elitist awarding too many grants to scholars at a few major universities Others have regarded it as too populist expending too much on organizations that have little to do with the humanities Still others regard its programs as simply a waste of the taxpayers money Excellence and Equity explores the continuing political controversy surrounding NEH and its chairmen and assesses in detail its impact on the humanities in four major program areas research teaching preservation and public programs The book concludes with recommendations for restructuring the Endowment for revising its review procedures and for improving the process by which its chairman is selected Only through such changes Miller argues can we hope to foster humanistic scholarship in the coming decades Targeted Jobs Tax Credit United States. Backlash against Welfare Mothers Ellen Reese, 2005-07-29 Backlash against Welfare Mothers is a forceful examination of how and why a state level revolt against welfare begun in the late 1940s was transformed into a national level assault that destroyed a critical part of the nation's safety net with tragic consequences for American society With a wealth of original research Ellen Reese puts recent debates about the contemporary welfare backlash into historical perspective She provides a closer look at these early antiwelfare campaigns showing why they were more successful in some states than others and how opponents of welfare sometimes targeted Puerto Ricans and Chicanos as well as blacks for cutbacks Her research reveals both the continuities and changes in American welfare opposition from the late 1940s to the present Reese brings new evidence to light that reveals how large farmers and racist politicians concerned about the supply of cheap labor appealed to white voters racial resentments and stereotypes about unwed mothers blacks and immigrants in the 1950s She then examines congressional failure to replace the current welfare system with a more popular alternative in the 1960s and 1970s which paved the way for national assaults on welfare Taking a fresh look at recent debates on welfare reform she explores how and why politicians competing for the white vote and right wing think tanks promoting business interests appeased the Christian right and manufactured consent for cutbacks through a powerful racially coded discourse Finally through firsthand testimonies Reese vividly portrays the tragic consequences of current welfare policies and calls for a bold new agenda for working families

Fractured Cities Brian D. Jacobs, 2003-09-02 Anglo American cities face economic decline social polarisation and racial conflict Their fate is increasingly decided by the global actions of transnational corporations and market forces Community groups find it difficult to gain access to the political system Ethnic minorities strive for empowerment while indebted city governments battle to maintain basic services Such is the urban crisis of the 1990s

Fractured Cities describes the political economy of urban change and explores the future of the city Journal of Human Services Abstracts, 1983

Urban Affairs,1989 Research Report ,1988 Youth, Unemployment and Training Rob Fiddy,2024-09-18 Originally published in 1985 this book brings together diverse perspectives of global policy and experience concerning threatened or high levels of youth unemployment and the measures taken in the countries concerned From the examples quoted it is obvious that there was little consensus concerning what one is led to believe life after school is about or what one would like life after school to be about and how these expectations and aspirations may be accommodated
