Patients, the Experience of Illness Mark L. Rosenberg, 1980 The Inner World of Medical Students Johanna Shapiro, 2009 A passerby may marvel And admire my molded form My every branch and twig and leaf Has learned how to conform Why are some medical students drawn to creative writing What issues does this writing address and what needs fears and experiences does it give expression to What can we learn about the future generation of physicians from examining their writing Until now no systematic examination of the links between medical education the students their poetry and the meanings that can be gleaned from these writings has been published In this comprehensive clearly argued book Shapiro explores contemporary academic thought on the topic and offers new insights on the medical education system It is a critical appraisal which independently explores the positive and negative aspects of medical culture student life socialisation and learning through the unique expressive medium of medical student poetry It sheds light on issues such as patient relationships that have become obscured over time and offers fresh insight on fundamental universal concerns such as mortality suffering acceptance and identity This book provides a practical comprehensive analysis of medical student poetry and is an invaluable resource for medical educators those with an interest in the medical humanities and medical students themselves

The Shared Experience Of Illness Susan H. Mcdaniel, Jeri Hepworth, William J. Doherty, H Mcdaniel, 2009-08-05 In the narrative of every human life and family illness is a prominent character Even if we have avoided serious illness ourselves we cannot escape its reach into our circle of family and friends Illness brings us closer to one another through caregiving and separates us through disability and death yet little attention has been paid to personal and family illness in psychotherapy Rather therapists tend to focus on the psychosocial realm leaving the biological realm to other physicians and nurses Susan H McDaniel Jeri Hepworth and William J Doherty invited therapists who work with individuals and families experiencing chronic illness and disability to describe clinical cases that illustrate their approach to medical family therapy Contributors then were asked to share a personal story about their experiences with illness and to explain how those experiences affect the way they work with their clients Vivid case studies dealing with a range of illnesses including cancer infertility schizophrenia AIDS heart disease diabetes asthma and multiple sclerosis show how the therapists own experiences of illness are relevant to their care of others and how these experiences can be used to form a healing bond in therapy Poignant honest and illuminating The Shared Experience of Illness allows us to understand more fully the relationship between the personal and the professional
