increasingly outdated and will lead you nowhere The new view in contrast understands that a human error problem is actually an organizational problem Finding a human error by any other name or by any other human is only the beginning of your journey not a convenient conclusion The new view recognizes that systems are inherent trade offs between safety and other pressures for example production People need to create safety through practice at all levels of an organization Breaking new ground beyond its successful predecessor The Field Guide to Understanding Human Error guides you through the traps and misconceptions of the old view It explains how to avoid the hindsight bias to zoom out from the people closest in time and place to the mishap and resist the temptation of counterfactual reasoning and judgmental language But it also helps you look forward It suggests how to apply the new view in building your safety department handling questions about accountability and constructing meaningful countermeasures It even helps you in getting your organization to adopt the new view and improve its learning from failure So if you are faced by a human error problem abandon the fallacy of a quick fix Read this book     Manual for Community Health Workers ,1983     Disaster Response and Recovery Diane Garaventa Myers,1994 A resource on basic practical issues related to planning implementing disaster mental health services Provides specific concrete information for managers who are involved in planning services as well as practitioners who are delivering services Chapters include checklists of actions to take before during after a disaster to help staff in carrying out important actions Provides specific activities to engage in with disaster victims List of training manuals materials videotapes suggested outreach materials books for children
