Mapping Vulnerability Disasters Development And People:

Mapping Vulnerability Greg Bankoff, Georg Frerks, Dorothea Hilhorst, 2013-06-17 Raging floods massive storms and cataclysmic earthquakes every year up to 340 million people are affected by these and other disasters which cause loss of life and damage to personal property agriculture and infrastructure So what can be done The key to understanding the causes of disasters and mitigating their impacts is the concept of vulnerability Mapping Vulnerability analyses vulnerability as a concept central to the way we understand disasters and their magnitude and impact Written and edited by a distinguished group of disaster scholars and practitioners this book is a counterbalance to those technocratic approaches that limit themselves to simply looking at disasters as natural phenomena Through the notion of vulnerability the authors stress the importance of social processes and human environmental interactions as causal agents in the making of disasters They critically examine what renders communities unsafe a condition they argue that depends primarily on the relative position of advantage or disadvantage that a particular group occupies within a society's social order The book also looks at vulnerability in terms of its relationship to development and its impact on policy and people's lives through consideration of selected case studies drawn from Africa Asia and Latin America Mapping Vulnerability is essential reading for academics students policymakers and practitioners in disaster studies geography development studies economics environmental studies and sociology

Mapping Vulnerability Greg Bankoff, Georg Frerks, Dorothea Hilhorst, 2004 The Causes and Behavioral Consequences of Disasters Sasha Rudenstine, Sandro Galea, 2011-09-18 The Causes and Behavioral Consequences of Disasters brings a public health perspective to the literature reflecting the increasing importance of the field in both disaster preparedness and disaster response Arguing that a disaster is not only the event but its aftermath as well the authors apply salient local content to the study of scenarios ranging from the Cuzco Peru earthquake of 1950 to the Columbine school shooting the Oklahoma City bombing and 9 11 These case studies form the basis for models of vulnerabilities to disasters and population behavior following disasters illustrating how careful pre event planning and coordinated post event response strategies can minimize the initial damage and negative aftereffects The Causes and Behavioral Consequences of Disasters will further professional discussion and understanding among a wide range of professionals and students across public health mental health education health administration and policy social work and the social sciences

Disaster Risk Management Prof. Dr. Vladimir M. Cvetković, 2024-04-22 The textbook is intended for students of basic and master academic studies as well as to a wider professional audience members of the emergency services etc who are increasingly faced with the need for a more thorough understanding of the problem of a multidisciplinary approach in the identification process disaster risk analysis and treatment The content of the textbook is in line with the curriculum of the subject Disaster Risk Management which is taught in the third year of basic academic studies of the Faculty of Security In the writing of the textbooks great attention was paid to meeting high standards in terms of scientific and professional and pedagogical and didactic requirements and extensive scientific and professional material of all relevant foreign and domestic authors was used Besides the author used a fair treasure trove of his scholarly and professional papers which have been scientifically verified by numerous international and national reviewers Also the author incorporated most of his research findings in the country and abroad into the text of the textbook to enrich it with scientifically verified facts Also invaluable experience in working with students has helped to release the textbook from the additional scientific reflection that would make it difficult to acquire basic knowledge in the field of disaster risk management The first edition of the textbook also has its limitations which are reflected in the insufficient theoretical development of the scientific discipline which is relatively young and should contribute to creating additional conditions for the construction of the theory I would like to emphasize that the textbook represents the first such publication published in the Serbian language in our region which will greatly improve the knowledge and professional competencies of the general professional public

Handbook of Hazards and Disaster Risk Reduction Ben Wisner, JC Gaillard, Ilan Kelman, 2012-03-29 The Handbook provides a comprehensive statement and reference point for hazard and disaster research policy making and practice in an international and multi disciplinary context It offers critical reviews and appraisals of current state of the art and future development of conceptual theoretical and practical approaches as well as empirical knowledge and available tools Organized into five inter related sections this Handbook contains sixty five contributions from leading scholars Section one situates hazards and disasters in their broad political cultural economic and environmental context Section two contains treatments of potentially damaging natural events phenomena organized by major earth system Section three critically reviews progress in responding to disasters including warning relief and recovery Section four addresses mitigation of potential loss and prevention of disasters under two sub headings governance advocacy and self help and communication and participation Section five ends with a concluding chapter by the editors The engaging international contributions reflect upon the politics and policy of how we think about and practice applied hazard research and disaster risk reduction This Handbook provides a wealth of interdisciplinary information and will appeal to students and practitioners interested in Geography Environment Studies and Development Studies

Post-Tsunami Recovery in Thailand Monica Lindberg Falk, 2014-09-19 Of all the huge natural disasters that claimed the lives of thousands in Asia the Indian Ocean tsunami in 2004 was the largest estimated to have killed more than 230 000 people The scope of damage brought about by this natural disaster urges focus on recovery and post disaster reconstruction from several perspectives Here we find an in depth ethnography of Thailand and the role of culture and religion as an underpinning issue in post disaster recovery Following the post tsunami recovery over five years the book provides knowledge on socio cultural responses from affected local communities after natural hazards and is based on original material collected in Thailand after the 2004 tsunami With a focus on how culture and religion interplay in the processes of building resilience and decreasing vulnerability it gives a deeper understanding of how disasters are experienced and dealt with on a local level It examines survivors experiences of rituals and ceremonies that became a part of the survivors lives in new ways after the tsunami offering psychological reassurance and religious efficaciousness as well as communication links between themselves and the deceased Using observations narratives and material from in depth interviews with survivors relatives relief workers officials and Buddhist monks and nuns this book contributes to the research on anthropology of disaster and to the development of research on cultural resilience and religion in post disaster recovery It will be of interest to scholars of Disaster Studies Buddhist Studies and Asian Studies

Humanitarian Aftershocks in Haiti Mark Schuller, 2016-01-12 The 2010 earthquake in Haiti was one of the deadliest disasters in modern history sparking an international aid response with pledges and donations of 16 billion that was exceedingly generous But now five years later that generous aid has clearly failed In Humanitarian Aftershocks in Haiti anthropologist Mark Schuller captures the voices of those involved in the earthquake aid response and they paint a sharp unflattering view of the humanitarian enterprise Schuller led an independent study of eight displaced persons camps in Haiti compiling more than 150 interviews ranging from Haitian front line workers and camp directors to foreign humanitarians and many displaced Haitian people The result is an insightful account of why the multi billion dollar aid response not only did little to help but also did much harm triggering a range of unintended consequences rupturing Haitian social and cultural institutions and actually increasing violence especially against women The book shows how Haitian people were removed from any real decision making replaced by a top down NGO dominated system of humanitarian aid led by an army of often young inexperienced foreign workers Ignorant of Haitian culture these aid workers unwittingly enacted policies that triggered a range of negative results Haitian interviewees also note that the NGOs planted the flag and often tended to just do something always with an eye to the photo op in no small part due to the competition over funding Worse yet they blindly supported the eviction of displaced people from the camps forcing earthquake victims to relocate in vast shantytowns that were hotbeds of violence Humanitarian Aftershocks in Haiti concludes with suggestions to help improve humanitarian aid in the future perhaps most notably that aid workers listen to and respect the culture of the victims of catastrophe

Disaster Management and Human Health Risk V C.A. Brebbia,

Wessex Institute, UK, 2017-09-07 The contents of this book consist of papers presented at the 5th International Conference on Disaster Management and Human Health Reducing Risk Improving Outcomes part of a series of conferences convened to assess the potential risk from various disasters and discuss ways to prevent or alleviate damage These latest developments contained in this volume have been contributed by academics and experts on public health security and disaster management in order to exchange knowledge and experience on the way to handle the increasing risk of natural and human made disasters As the human population has continued to concentrate in urban areas the number of people and the value of property affected by both natural and man produced disasters has also grown Earthquakes floods hurricanes cyclones tornadoes and forest fires have all taken their toll as have man made catastrophes such as industrial spillages and terrorist attacks The included paper cover various subject areas including Disaster analysis Disaster monitoring and mitigation Emergency preparedness Risk mitigation Risk and security Resilience Socio economic issues Health risk Human factors Multi hazard risk assessment Case studies Learning from disasters and man made disasters From Landscape Research to Landscape Planning Bärbel Tress,Gunther Tres,Gary Fry,Paul Opdam,2005-10-25 This book provides guidelines for those pursuing landscape projects based on integrative concepts interdisciplinarity and transdisciplinarity whether they are members of an integrative research team or individuals working on a problem that demands integration They must define terminology choose appropriate methodologies overcome epistemological barriers and cope with the high expectations of some stakeholders while encouraging others to participate at all Geomorphological Hazards and Disaster Prevention Irasema Alcántara-Ayala,Andrew S. Goudie,2010-03-04 Human activities have had a huge impact on the environment and landscape through industrialisation and land use change leading to climate change deforestation desertification land degradation and air and water pollution These impacts are strongly linked to the occurrence of geomorphological hazards such as floods landslides snow avalanches soil erosion and others Geomorphological work includes not only the understanding but the mapping and modelling of Earth s surface processes many of which directly affect human societies In addition geomorphologists are becoming increasingly involved with the dimensions of societal problem solving through vulnerability analysis hazard and risk assessment and management The work of geomorphologists is therefore of prime importance for disaster prevention An international team of geomorphologists have contributed their expertise to this volume making this a scientifically rigorous work for a wide audience of geomorphologists and other Earth scientists including those involved in environmental science hazard and risk assessment management and policy Disaster Risk Irasema Alcántara-Ayala,Christopher Gomez,Ksenia Chmutina,Dewald van Niekerk,Emmanuel Raju,Victor Marchezini,Jake Rom Cadag,JC Gaillard,2022-10-13 The text offers a comprehensive and unique perspective on disaster risk associated with natural hazards It covers a wide range of topics reflecting the most recent debates but also older and pioneering discussions in the academic field of disaster studies as well as in the policy and practical areas of disaster risk reduction DRR This book will be of particular interest to undergraduate students studying geography and environmental studies science It will also be of relevance to students professionals from a wide range of social and physical science disciplines including public health and public policy sociology anthropology political science and geology Achieving Net Zero David Crowther,Shahla Seifi,2023-09-06 Achieving Net Zero brings together chapters to examine these challenges from a range of perspectives various regions and industries From steps on the journey to net zero and sustainability rhetoric to case studies in Angola and Mauritius this collection helps facilitate best practice that can be adopted on a global scale Rebuilding Sustainable Communities after Disasters in China, Japan and Beyond Adenrele Awotona,2014-06-02 This volume examines lessons learned in reducing the impact of disasters on communities in China Japan and other countries world wide Asia is the most disaster prone continent The 2012 data on natural disasters in 28 Asian countries released by the United Nations Office for Disaster Risk Reduction and the Belgian based Centre for Research on the Epidemiology of Disasters on December 11th 2012 showed that from 1950 to 2011 nine out of ten people affected by disasters globally were in Asia that of the top five disasters that created the most damage in 2012 three were in China that China led the list of most disasters in 2012 and that China was the only multi hazard prone country Similarly the March 2011 Tohoku earthquake was the greatest known earthquake ever to have hit Japan and one of the five strongest ever recorded earthquakes in the world since 1900 Subsequently the Center for Rebuilding Sustainable Communities after Disasters at the University of Massachusetts Boston organized a conference in November 2012 to survey the best practices in post disaster rebuilding efforts in China and Japan This edited book consists of selected papers from the proceedings of that event and previously invited contributions from leading scholars in post disaster rebuilding in China Japan and Namibia

Climate Change Adaptation and Social Resilience in the Sundarbans Anna O'Donnell, Quentin Wodon, 2015-03-24 Household vulnerability to weather shocks and changing climatic conditions has become a major concern in developing countries Yet the empirical evidence remains limited on the impact that changing environmental conditions have on households This book explores climate change adaptation using a social resilience approach The book is based on primary data from the Sundarbans a densely populated area located across parts of Bangladesh and India West Bengal which is highly vulnerable to extreme weather events and climate change The focus is on assessing how households are affected by cyclones whether they are able to cope with adapt to and recover from events and changes whether they are warned ahead of time whether they benefit from government safety nets and other social programs and finally whether they are driven to either temporary or permanent migration This assessment leads to a better understanding of how exposure to an area of climate change vulnerability and risk affects and shapes human responses

Resilience and the Brown Babe's Burden Tracy Llanera, 2024-11-19 This volume examines the concept and practice of resilience from the perspective of Filipina philosophers It investigates the double edged nature of resilience and other key assumptions and ideas about human resilience and resilient cultures and institutions The chapters in the collection are intersectional in approach drawing from feminist theory social and political philosophy critical theory pragmatism virtue theory social epistemology and decolonial theory in their engagement of the theme Part of the Academics Politics and Society in the Post Covid World series the book will be of interest to scholars and students of philosophy political theory feminist theory philosophy of education cultural studies and development studies It will be valuable to academics in Philippine Studies Asian and Southeast Asian Studies and Global South Studies

Climate Change and Indigenous Peoples in the United States Julie Koppel Maldonado, Benedict Colombi, Rajul Pandya, 2014-04-05 With a long history and deep connection to the Earth's resources indigenous peoples have an intimate understanding and ability to observe the impacts linked to climate change Traditional ecological knowledge and tribal experience play a key role in developing future scientific solutions for adaptation to the impacts The book explores climate related issues for indigenous communities in the United States including loss of traditional knowledge forests and ecosystems food security and traditional foods as well as water Arctic sea ice loss permafrost thaw and relocation The book also highlights how tribal communities and programs are responding to the changing environments Fifty authors from tribal communities academia government agencies and NGOs contributed to the book Previously published in Climatic Change Volume 120 Issue 3 2013 Under Pressure? Marcel Bradtmöller, Sonja B. Grimm, Astrid J. Nyland, Noa Lavi, 2025-08-07 This open access book gathers different case studies of resilience and coping strategies in hunter gatherer societies who were confronted with natural hazards Joined in this book authors display a range of strategies how people could face natural hazards and climate change how they manage stress at a group or personal level and how they transmit their knowledge about dreadful events and successful responses to later generations Consequently this book is primarily for a scientific audience focused on hunter gatherers but will also provide insights for those interested in human responses to crisis and change Displaced by Disaster Ann-Margaret Esnard, Alka Sapat, 2014-05-23

Displacement has traditionally been conceptualized as a phenomenon that results from conflict or other disruptions in developing or unstable countries Hurricane Katrina shattered this notion and highlighted the various dilemmas of population displacement in the United States The dilemmas stem from that of inconsistent terminology and definitions lack of efforts to quantify displacement risk potential and that factor displacement vulnerability into community plans lack of understanding of differential needs of displacees especially during long term recovery periods and policy and institutional responses or lack thereof especially as it relates to post disaster sheltering and housing Incorporating relevant examples cases and policies Esnard and Sapat look at the experience of other countries and how the international community has dealt with hundreds of thousands of individuals who have been forced to leave their homes Displaced by Disaster addresses such issues from a planning and policy perspective informed by scholarship in disciplines such as emergency management political science sociology and anthropology It is ideal for students and practitioners working in the areas of disaster management planning public administration and policy housing and the many disciplines connected to disaster issues Handbook of Disaster Research Havidán Rodríguez, William Donner, Joseph E. Trainor, 2017-11-16 This timely Handbook is based on the principle that disasters are social constructions and focuses on social science disaster research It provides an interdisciplinary approach to disasters with theoretical methodological and practical applications Attention is given to conceptual issues dealing with the concept disaster and to methodological issues relating to research on disasters These include Geographic Information Systems as a useful research tool and its implications for future research This seminal work is the first interdisciplinary collection of disaster research as it stands now while outlining how the field will continue to grow

Environmental Hazards and Disasters Bimal Kanti Paul, 2011-11-30 Environmental Hazards and Disasters Contexts Perspectives and Management focuses on manifested threats to humans and their welfare as a result of natural disasters The book uses an integrative approach to address socio cultural political and physical components of the disaster process Human and social vulnerability as well as risk to environmental hazards are explored within the comprehensive context of diverse natural hazards and disasters In addition to scientific explanations of disastrous occurrences people and governments of hazard prone countries often have their own interpretations for why natural disasters occur In such interpretations they often either blame others in order to conceal their inability to protect themselves or they blame themselves attributing the events to either real or imagined misdeeds The book contains a chapter devoted to the neglected topic of such reactions and explanations Includes chapters on key topics such as the application of GIS in hazard studies resiliency disasters and poverty climate change and sustainability and development This book is designed as a primary text for an interdisciplinary course on hazards for upper level undergraduate and Graduate students Although not targeted for an introductory hazards course students in such a course may find it very useful as well Additionally emergency managers planners and both public and private organizations involved in disaster response and mitigation could benefit from this book along with hazard researchers It not only includes traditional and popular hazard topics e g disaster cycles disaster relief and risk and vulnerability it also includes neglected topics such as the positive impacts of disasters disaster myths and different accounts of disasters and disasters and gender
