Manufacturing Citizenship:

Organisational Justice and Citizenship Behaviour in Malaysia Hooi Lai Wan, 2015-12-22 This book presents the current state of knowledge concerning developments in organisational behaviour and human capital management in the new millennium. It features an in-depth study among managerial staff in the manufacturing sector in Malaysia to reflect employee perceptions of organisational justice, organisational citizenship behaviour, job satisfaction and manager-employee exchanges. Specifically, it seeks to establish the relationships between these constructs to better manage human capital. With globalisation and the increased career mobility of young talents, organisational citizenship behaviour is of paramount importance in order to retain these workers. The study's greatest contribution is its identification of key indicators that influence organisational citizenship behaviour. Knowing which type of organisational justice is salient for each construct allows the management to proactively improve conditions at the workplace. In essence, this book is intended to draw attention to those aspects of managing human capital that ought to receive the most attention but are often overlooked in practice. In light of ongoing global challenges, it seeks to improve governance at the workplace. It offers a valuable resource for researchers and practitioners alike as well as graduate students writing their dissertations. Training for Model Citizenship

Molly Sundberg, 2016-04-29 This book explores the state in post-genocide Rwanda through an ethnography of a state-run civic education program and everyday forms of government. In 2007, the Rwandan government introduced a nationwide civic education program called Itorero to teach all inhabitants about its vision of the model Rwandan citizen. Since then, this ideal has been pursued through remote training camps, village assemblies and daily government practices. Based on ethnographic research of the life and workings of Itorero camps and the day-to-day administration of a local neighborhood in Kigali, this book investigates how such a pursuit has come to affect Rwandans' relation to the state and what it may tell us about modern forms of authoritarian rule. Manufacturing Citizenship

Veronique Benei, 2007-04-11 In recent years, citizenship has emerged as a very important topic in the sciences, mainly as a result of the effects of migration, population displacements and cultural heterogeneity. This book focuses on educational enterprise and how it affects national ambitions, cultural preferences and political trends. It also examines the major effects of globalisation, the large-scale movements of populations and the impact this all has in terms of education and citizenship. With contributions from an array of international scholars, including Etienne Balibar, and featuring various international case studies, Manufacturing Citizenship will be extremely interesting to the education academic community as well as many readers within cultural studies and politics. Citizenship in Antiquity

Jakub Filonik, Christine Plastow, Rachel Zelnick-Abramovitz, 2023-06-30 Citizenship in Antiquity brings together scholars working on the multifaceted and changing dimensions of citizenship in the ancient Mediterranean from the second millennium BCE to the first millennium CE, adopting a multidisciplinary and comparative perspective. The chapters in this volume cover numerous periods and regions from the Ancient Near East through the Greek and Hellenistic worlds and pre

Roman North Africa to the Roman Empire and its continuations and with excursions to modernity The contributors to this book adopt various contemporary theories demonstrating the manifold meanings and ways of defining the concept and practices of citizenship and belonging in ancient societies and in turn of non citizenship and non belonging Whether citizenship was defined by territorial belonging or blood descent by privileged or exclusive access to resources or participation in communal decision making or by a sense of group belonging such identifications were also open to discursive redefinitions and manipulation Citizenship and belonging as well as non citizenship and non belonging had many shades and degrees citizenship could be bought or faked or even removed By casting light on different areas of the Mediterranean over the course of antiquity the volume seeks to explore this multi layered notion of citizenship and contribute to an ongoing and relevant discourse Citizenship in Antiquity offers a wide ranging comprehensive collection suitable for students and scholars of citizenship politics and society in the ancient Mediterranean world as well as those working on citizenship throughout history interested in taking a comparative approach Chapters 47 and 48 of this book are freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

Disputing Citizenship John Clarke, Kathleen Coll, Evelina Dagnino, Catherine Neveu, 2014-01-27 Available Open Access under CC BY NC licence Citizenship is always in dispute in practice as well as in theory but conventional perspectives do not address why the concept of citizenship is so contentious This unique book presents a new perspective on citizenship by treating it as a continuing focus of dispute The authors dispute the way citizenship is normally conceived and analysed within the social sciences developing a view of citizenship as always emerging from struggle This view is advanced through an exploration of the entanglements of politics culture and power that are both embodied and contested in forms and practices of citizenship This compelling view of citizenship emerges from the international and interdisciplinary collaboration of the four authors drawing on the diverse disputes over citizenship in their countries of origin Brazil France the UK and the US The book is essential reading for anyone interested in the field of citizenship no matter what their geographical political or academic location

The Single Currency and European Citizenship Giovanni Moro, 2013-02-28 Established in 2002 the Euro is now the currency of 17 countries used by over 335 million people daily Although the single currency is much discussed in terms of macroeconomics and global finances policymakers rarely address its impact on European citizenship in social cultural political and everyday life economics terms This hidden side of the single currency is the focus of the essays which use various approaches from economic history and political sociology to citizenship and legitimacy to reveal the connections between the Euro and European citizenship This timely contribution by renowned experts provides a greater understanding of the Euro at a time when it is not clear whether it should be celebrated or commemorated and looks into aspects of the single currency that are the base of the social trust that supports it and that is at stake in the present crisis It will be an essential tool to anyone studying the political social and economic development of the E U

The Meaning of Citizenship in Contemporary Chinese Society Sicong Chen,2017-09-13 This book is a direct and empirical response to the mounting official interest in citizenship education increasing dynamics between state and society and growing citizenship awareness and practice in society in contemporary China Placing the focus on society the book investigates the meaning of the Chinese term gongmin equivalent to citizen in non official media discourses and in university students and migrant workers perceptions through the constructed analytical lens of Western citizenship conception By laying out the complex details of how the meaning of the term resembles and deviates in and between collective social discourses and individual citizens understandings with reference to state discourses the book makes clear that there is discrepancy in the meaning of gongmin between state and society and that the meaning varies in contemporary Chinese society Cutting across multiple topics this book is a valuable resource for students and researchers interested in Chinese citizenship East West citizenship citizenship education the media university students and migrant workers in China

Producing Good Citizens Amy J. Wan, 2014-03-30 Recent global security threats economic instability and political uncertainty have placed great scrutiny on the requirements for U S citizenship The stipulation of literacy has long been one of these criteria In Producing Good Citizens Amy J Wan examines the historic roots of this phenomenon looking specifically to the period just before World War I up until the Great Depression During this time the United States witnessed a similar anxiety over the influx of immigrants economic uncertainty and global political tensions Early on educators bore the brunt of literacy training while also being charged with producing the right kind of citizens by imparting civic responsibility and a moral code for the workplace and society Literacy quickly became the credential to gain legal economic and cultural status In her study Wan defines three distinct pedagogical spaces for literacy training during the 1910s and 1920s Americanization and citizenship programs sponsored by the federal government union sponsored programs and first year university writing programs Wan also demonstrates how each literacy program had its own motivation the federal government desired productive citizens unions needed educated members to fight for labor reform and university educators looked to aid social mobility Citing numerous literacy theorists Wan analyzes the correlation of reading and writing skills to larger currents within American society She shows how early literacy training coincided with the demand for laborers during the rise of mass manufacturing while also providing an avenue to economic opportunity for immigrants This fostered a rhetorical link between citizenship productivity and patriotism Wan supplements her analysis with an examination of citizen training books labor newspapers factory manuals policy documents public deliberations on citizenship and literacy and other materials from the period to reveal the goal and rationale behind each program Wan relates the enduring bond of literacy and citizenship to current times by demonstrating the use of literacy to mitigate economic inequality and its lasting value to a productivity based society Today as in the past educators continue to serve as an integral part of the literacy training and citizen making process
