Familiar Past? Sarah Tarlow, Susie West, 2002-01-08 The Familiar Past surveys material culture from 1500 to the present day Fourteen case studies grouped under related topics include discussion of issues such as the origins of modernity in urban contexts the historical anthropology of food the social and spatial construction of country houses the social history of a workhouse site changes in memorial forms and inscriptions the archaeological treatment of gardens The Familiar Past has been structured as a teaching text and will be useful to students of history and archaeology Learning from the Past Diane Ravitch, Maris A. Vinovskis, 1995-02 Many Americans view today's problems in education as an unprecedented crisis brought on by contemporary social ills In Learning from the Past a group of distinguished educational historians and scholars of public policy reminds us that many of our current difficulties as well as recent reform efforts have important historical antecedents What can we learn they ask from nineteenth century efforts to promote early childhood education or debates in the 1920s about universal secondary education or the curriculum reforms of the 1950s Reflecting a variety of intellectual and disciplinary orientations the contributors to this volume examine major changes in educational development and reform and consider how such changes have been implemented in the past They address questions of governance equity and multiculturalism curriculum standards school choice and a variety of other issues Policy makers and other school reformers they conclude would do well to investigate the past in order to appreciate the implications of the present reform initiatives A David Montgomery Reader David W. Montgomery, 2024-07-09 A foundational figure in modern labor history David Montgomery both redefined and reoriented the field This collection of Montgomery's most important published and unpublished articles and essays draws from the historian's entire five decade career Taken together the writings trace the development of Montgomery's distinct voice and approach while providing a crucial window into an era that changed the ways scholars and the public understood working people's place in American history Three overarching themes and methods emerge from these essays that class provided a rich reservoir of ideas and strategies for workers to build movements aimed at claiming their democratic rights that capital endured with the power to manage the contours of economic life and the capacities of the state but that workers repeatedly and creatively mounted challenges to the terms of life and work dictated by capital and that Montgomery's method grounded his gritty empiricism and the conceptual richness of his analysis in the intimate social relations of production and of community neighborhood and family life Reframing the Past Mia E. M. Treacey, 2016-02-26 Reframing the Past traces what historians have written about film and television from 1898 until the early 2000s Mia Treacey argues that historical engagement with film and television should be reconceptualised as Screened History an interdisciplinary international field of research to incorporate and replace what has been known as History and Film It draws from the fields of Film Television and Cultural Studies to critically analyse key works and connect past scholarship with contemporary research Reconsidered as Screened History the works of Pierre Sorlin Marc Ferro John O Connor Robert Rosenstone and Robert Toplin are explored alongside lesser known but equally important contributions This book identifies a number of common themes and ideas that have been explored by historians for decades the use of history on film and television as a way to teach the past the challenge of filmic and televisual history to more traditional historiography and an ongoing battle to find an appropriate historical way to engage with Film Studies and Theory Screened History offers an approach to exploring History Film and Television that allows room for future developments while connecting them to a rich and diverse body of past scholarship Combining a narrative of historical research on film and television over the past century with a reconceptualisation of the field as Screened History Reframing the Past is essential reading both for established scholars of History and Film Film History and other related disciplines and to students new to the field Reading the Past Ian Hodder, Scott Hutson, 2003-12-04 Table of contents
