String Figures as Mathematics? Eric Vandendriessche, 2015-01-02 This book addresses the mathematical rationality contained in the making of string figures It does so by using interdisciplinary methods borrowed from anthropology mathematics history and philosophy of mathematics The practice of string figure making has long been carried out in many societies and particularly in those of oral tradition It consists in applying a succession of operations to a string knotted into a loop mostly using the fingers and sometimes the feet the wrists or the mouth This succession of operations is intended to generate a final figure The book explores different modes of conceptualization of the practice of string figure making and analyses various source material through these conceptual tools it looks at research by mathematicians as well as ethnographical publications and personal fieldwork findings in the Chaco Paraguay and in the Trobriand Islands Papua New Guinea which all give evidence of the rationality that underlies this activity It concludes that the creation of string figures may be seen as the result of intellectual processes involving the elaboration of algorithms and concepts such as operation sub procedure iteration and transformation String Games Richard Darsie, 2005 Provides directions illustrated with photographs for making many different string figures from the fairly simple Jacob's Ladder to more complex Mt Fuji along with information about their history and meaning String Figures and how to Make Them Caroline F. Jayne, 1962-01-01 Diagrams and text illustrate the steps involved in creating over one hundred string figures while providing information on their origin and cultural background Tikopia String Figures Raymond Firth, Honor Maude, 1970

tacking and a tactical methodology Louisa Bufardec, 2024-10-02 How can artists and others who find themselves in positions of privilege think differently about the way they do what they do in order to create the conditions for better more just relations to flourish Finding an answer to that question is at the heart of this book After critiquing the relationship between contemporary art race and privilege the author brings together First Nation and feminist philosophies of relationality the game of string figuring and her own history as an artist to propose an alternate methodology that puts relation at the centre of practice She introduces the multivalent concept of tacking a movement at an oblique angle to
