Mapping Christian Rhetorics Michael-John DePalma, Jeffrey M. Ringer, 2014-10-10 The continued importance of Christian rhetorics in political social pedagogical and civic affairs suggests that such rhetorics not only belong on the map of rhetorical studies but are indeed essential to the geography of rhetorical studies in the twenty first century This collection argues that concerning ourselves with religious rhetorics in general and Christian rhetorics in particular tells us something about rhetoric itself its boundaries its characteristics its functionings In assembling original research on the intersections of rhetoric and Christianity from prominent and emerging scholars Mapping Christian Rhetorics seeks to locate religion more centrally within the geography of rhetorical studies in the twenty first century It does so by acknowledging work on Christian rhetorics that has been overlooked or ignored connecting domains of knowledge and research areas pertaining to Christian rhetorics that may remain disconnected or under connected and charting new avenues of inquiry about Christian rhetorics that might invigorate theory building teaching research and civic engagement In dividing the terrain of Christian rhetorics into four categories theory education methodology and civic engagement Mapping Christian Rhetorics aims to foster connections among these areas of inquiry and spur future future collaboration between scholars of religious rhetoric in a range of research areas

Christian Education and the Emerging Church Wendi Sargeant, 2015-07-24 All signs point to Christian education having lost its theological location and prominence in the life of the Western Protestant church The Emerging Church movement as an intentionally postmodern approach to ministry in the contemporary context may however offer insights to reinterpret Christian education This significant movement in today s church gives Christian education a new interpretive framework that is theologically located at an intersection of doxology and doctrine In her examination of postmodern faith formation Wendi Sargeant explores the importance of the Christian worshipping community as the most appropriate setting for Christian education Practitioners and students will benefit from the ready to use teaching and learning matrix and all those with interest in the formation of faith in themselves and others will draw much from the way Sargeant situates worship as the basis for enhancing Christian formation and ethos Foundations for Christian Education Eleanor Ann Daniel, John William Wade, 1999 Here is an excellent resource for your Christian Education program Daniel and Wade discuss the foundations of an effective Christian Education program and tackle organizational and administrative issues involved with such a program You will also find age specific information for all ages of learners If you are a Christian Ed Director or a teacher who wants to better understand the elements of a C E program that will make a difference in the lives of the teachers and the students this is the book for you Reframing Christian Education for a Global Generation Heesung Hwang, 2024-09-24 This groundbreaking book serves as a case study delving into the unique challenges faced by the global generation as they navigate the complexities of their hybrid identities Heesung Hwang drawing from her extensive experience as both a minister and theologian presents a compelling vision for religious education inspired by the traditional Korean concept of madang In this open space faith communities gather to engage in communal interaction fostering generative environments where all members are valued and their contributions esteemed Through the lens of madang Hwang invites readers to reimagine religious education as a holistic experience that transcends traditional boundaries encompassing storytelling conversation play and relationship building This transformative work challenges religious educators to embrace innovative approaches that honor the diverse cultural and religious backgrounds of young people ultimately paving the way for redemptive communities that empower the next generation to shape new cultural and religious expressions within society Reframing Christian Education for a Global Generation promises to ignite important conversations and inspire meaningful change within faith communities worldwide Proleptic Pedagogy Sondra H. Matthaei, Nancy R. Howell, 2014-06-17 Could we have imagined how much theological education would change in the new millennium Shifting needs of students classrooms and churches have demanded constant revisions of the curriculum course design classroom technology and pedagogical strategies Saint Paul School of Theology felt the tide of change within our own walls and designed a project called Proleptic Pedagogy to address three distinct pedagogical challenges for the future of theological education First instead of fitting new technologies into old pedagogies how are teaching and learning transformed by shifting needs of students who are digital natives digital immigrants or distance learners Second instead of reactive strategies what pedagogy proactively eliminates accommodations because courses are designed with flexibility and openness to diverse learning styles disabilities and needs Third instead of engaging student diversity with the tools of the 1960s what new teaching and learning strategies anticipate future student racial and ethnic demographics and interracial educational experiences This volume of essays narrates our classroom stories teases out pedagogical issues examines pedagogical literature reflects on theology of pedagogy and constructs pedagogical proposals with an open invitation for other theological educators to join our conversation about the future of theological education Religious Education and Christian Theologies Inter-European Commission on Church and School, Sturla Sagberg, Gaynor Pollard, Peter Schreiner, Peter Schreiner,

Regan, 2002 Penance Confirmation Eucharist Children participate in these sacraments and many other Catholic rites thanks to America's long standing model of parish catechesis. Once children become adults, however, what becomes of their faith formation? In Toward an Adult Church: A Vision of Faith Formation, Jane Regan explores the current structure of parish catechesis. Basing her ideas on contemporary theory and traditional practice, Regan sets forth an intriguing argument: the vitality of the Church depends on establishing a new education paradigm, one that is focused on adults. How can parishes design a framework for adult catechesis? Will such programs be accepted by local church communities? Where does children's faith formation fit into the new structure? Regan answers these questions and offers ideas for developing a balanced approach to religious education, one that addresses the ongoing faith life of adults.

And We Shall Learn through the Dance

Kathleen S. Turner, 2021-07-28. Liturgical dance is a way to present, reflect, instruct, learn, study, and share religious beliefs with one's self within one's worship community and with one's God. Such a belief is confirmed and witnessed within a variety of religious settings throughout the world from the beginning of time to this present age. However, there is a vacuum of resources that connect liturgical dance within the Christian context as a tool for religious learning within the field of religious education. With the continual rise of liturgical dance as an artistic form of expression, this book proposes that liturgical dance offers unique attributes conducive to the teaching and learning of faith and to faith formation. Kathleen S. Turner shows how liturgical dance is religious education in two very important ways: first by addressing the power and potential liturgical dance has in nourishing the faith life of Christian congregants through means that are both educative and reflective, and second by giving examples of how liturgical dance can be implemented as a religious education tool within the teaching life of the church.

Sacred Systems Eric J. Kyle, 2013-12-06. From early Jewish Christian texts such as the Didache, which present well-defined catechetical programs, to contemporary authors such as Dallas Willard who offer in-depth insights into the transformations of one's heart and soul, systematic texts on spiritual formation in the Western Christian tradition abound. These texts can offer ministers, researchers, and laypersons much clarity and guidance for their craft. However, the spiritual formation systems that we use are also always contextually influenced; such contextual factors may make them difficult to adapt to one's local work. Rather than turning to only a single text or community, then, it can be helpful for practitioners and theorists to look to a broader set of systematic presentations of spiritual formation. By turning to a group of specific individuals and communities in each era of Western Christian history, this book will help those working in this field to better understand how personal spiritual formation has been conceptualized and embodied. Such an exploration will help us not only to compile a more complete history of spiritual formation at the level of the individual but also to glean a better understanding of personal transformation so that we might engage this craft in more informed and systematic ways.

Biblical Narrative Learning Tung Chiew Ha, 2015-10-02. Biblical narrative learning is a non-critical educational approach for Christian communities with diverse learning backgrounds involving three sets of movement: inquire and invent, interpret and imagine, inspire and imitate, and impart. It is grounded in humankind's universal capacity to teach and learn through stories and built on practices in narrative learning along with biblical narratives The Gospel of John provides a model for this interpretive process that continues the teaching of living in a loving relationship with God and one another John uses many literary devices to enhance an affective and reflective learning The literary devices create the familiar strange effect John s narrative fosters remembrance of the Story and guides the learner to adequate faith in God It inculcates adequate faith to wait in suspense while the Jesus Story and our stories when they are remembered create new understanding and transform the life experiences of the person
