Schools How Parents Can Make A Difference:

Schools Making A Difference Thrupp, Martin, 1999-05-01 Does an effective school really come about through the actions of teachers and school leaders or does it also require an advantaged student intake This question reflects a longstanding research debate about whether or not the social class mix of a school s student intake has much effect on individual achievement Schools Making a Difference Let s Be Realistic presents new evidence which suggests that school mix is likely to be important because of the way many school processes are deeply influenced by student intake characteristics Low socioeconomic schools face numerous intake related constraints which make them highly resistant to improvement efforts By suggesting that failing schools are often overwhelmed rather than ineffective this book provides a sympathetic reappraisal of the performance of teachers and school leaders in such schools It also offers a critical response to the often unrealistic claims of the school effectiveness and school improvement movement and a fresh critique of market reforms in education The Contribution of Parents to School Effectiveness Sheila Wolfendale, John Bastiani, 2025-08-05 School and educational achievement is dependent on many complex factors and is usually seen as the key outcome measure by which school effectiveness can be judged Originally published in 2000 this book aimed to establish whether or not educational achievement can in part be ascribed to the quality and range of home school links It provided a timely contribution to the continuing debate at the time on the pivotal relationship between schools and the families which form their constituencies Government initiatives such as the Literacy and Numeracy Strategies and Sure Start acknowledged the importance of parental involvement This book enabled all those interested in education to evaluate the educational benefits of a home school relationship between pupils parents teachers and schools Schools, how Parents Can Make a Difference Ethel

L. Herr, 1981 Food and Nutrition , 1979-04 Choosing Schools Mark Schneider, Paul Teske, Melissa Marschall, 2021-02-09 School choice seeks to create a competitive arena in which public schools will attain academic excellence encourage individual student performance and achieve social balance In debating the feasibility of this market approach to improving school systems analysts have focused primarily on schools as suppliers of education but an important question remains Will parents be able to function as smart consumers on behalf of their children Here a highly respected team of social scientists provides extensive empirical evidence on how parents currently do make these choices Drawn from four different types of school districts in New York City and suburban New Jersey their findings not only stress the importance of parental decision making and involvement to school performance but also clarify the issues of school choice in ways that bring much needed balance to the ongoing debate The authors analyze what parents value in education how much they know about schools how well they can match what they say they want in schools with what their children get how satisfied they are with their children s schools and how their involvement in the schools is affected by the opportunity to choose They discover most notably that low income parents value education as much as if not more than high income parents but do not have access to the same quality of school information This problem comes under sensitive thorough scrutiny as do a host of other important topics from school performance to segregation to children at risk of being left behind Teach My Kid- I Dare You! Sherrell Bergmann, Judith Brough, David Shepard, 2013-11-07 This book shows you how to positively involve parents to raise student achievement It offers 10 steps for designing a comprehensive parent involvement program to increase communication between students parents and schools The authors offer practical strategies and activities for involving all parents monitoring under involved parents balancing over involved parents and assisting parents in urgent situations

Walsh, 2012-11-12 Education Reform and Social Change is about addressing and changing the structures policies and practices of schools that differentially advantage white middle class native English speakers over students of color for whom English may be a second or additional language It is also about helping people to think critically about what it is schools do and to consider more democratic participatory and equitable approaches The chapters in the text provide first hand documentation of the voices struggles and visions of students parent activists advocates attorneys and educators involved in educational and social change processes It chronicles real life efforts of people challenging the status quo and working to build a more participatory equitable and transformative future The goal of this book is twofold first to consider the structures policies and practices that shape and limit educational change and learning and teaching and second to document grassroots collaborative and creative efforts to change them It offers a critical framework both for conceptualizing and for actualizing educational change Organized into four sections this book provides a theoretical and practical framework for thinking about educational reform and social change one that moves from the broader structural concerns that are embedded in policy to case studies that document activism and collaborative efforts to change school city and state policies to classroom based directions and initiatives and to the construction of personal and collective visions for a more democratic equitable and just education Each section includes an overview of the chapters necessary background information to help the reader contextualize what follows and guiding questions to encourage reflective thought and engagement with the text and to invite personal linkages Two resource sections are included at the end of the volume Radical Educational Reform Critical Pedagogy and Multicultural Education Selected Readings and Resources and National Organization Networks and Resources with a Critical Perspective

The Construction of Disability in our Schools Kathryn Underwood, 2019-02-18 This book is about the meaning of disability in schools The experience of children with disabilities in schools has undergone substantial change over the last twenty years and more with many children who would have once been living in institutions now going to school alongside their peers With this monumental shift and the continuing increased participation of people with disabilities one might wonder what disability means In the age of institutionalisation disability referred to those people who were not able to actively participate in society As it turns out many of the people who were deemed unable to participate were so only because the society in which they lived had kept them from active participation through institutionalisation In Ontario Canada where the author lives and works many adults with disabilities continue to live in institutions and are also active in their communities So it is not just the institutions that disable people There are many reasons that people fall into the classification of disabled and for some this classification begins in an institution often in the institution of school This book explores the different beliefs that teachers and parents hold about disability and the types of barriers that cause disability and how these beliefs translate into education practice

What Can We Do When School's Not Working? Abigail Fisher, Naomi Fisher, Eliza Fricker, 2025-04-21 An increasing number of children are struggling to attend school The conventional approach prioritises a rapid return to their setting For some children this simply doesn't work They are stuck not attending school but not learning out of school either What happens then and what can we do about it This illustrated guide lifts the lid on the experiences of children and families who are struggling within the school system and explores how we can work with these young people to maximise their chances of a positive and fulfilled life The book encourages professionals to take a new perspective and to consider what can be done differently It explores the ways in which difficulties with school are understood by children parents and professionals and shows how things can go wrong and right using real life examples from a range of settings Chapters delve into common interventions and the impact these can have in practice before introducing alternative approaches which have the child at the centre The voices of young people are foregrounded throughout shedding light on their struggles with attendance including when placements have completely broken down and importantly showing how they have gone onto success Original illustrations are included to bring these ideas to life Placing authentic experiences at the core this book offers a valuable insight into the lives of children and families when school has gone wrong and will leave you with new ideas as to how to turn things around What Can We Do When School's Not Working is essential reading for professionals working with children who are struggling with school attendance from SENCOs and educational support workers to educational psychologists senior leadership teams and local authorities leaders are actively engaged in the transformation of the Singapore education system. It brings to attention crucial elucidations of the increasing demand and complexity placed on school leaders through the use of case studies. Each chapter in the book focuses on a particular issue which has become important or has gained renewed importance in the Singapore education system. The chapters first provide a background to the theme under examination and a theoretical basis for discussion. They then narrate the case that shows how school leaders interpret and implement policy initiatives in their respective schools or lead change in that area. The case studies span over a wide range of domains such as instructional leadership, assessment, leadership stakeholder engagement, professional learning communities and school branding. The data collected from these case studies came primarily from interviews of educators in their respective school contexts in addition to other sources of data such as artifacts. Each case study highlights descriptions, interpretations and perspectives across school contexts which is consistent with the proposition that school leadership is very much shaped by context. At the end of each chapter there are guiding questions to help readers critically analyse and reflect on the main learning points of the case.

Transforming Schools Through Systems Change Charles Salina, Suzann Girtz, Joanie Eppinga, 2016-09-08. Everyone wants to transform schools. The question is: How? This book, the second in the Powerless to Powerful series, provides answers. Comprehensively describing systems that support teachers and students in a holistic and humanistic way, Transforming Schools Through Systems Change offers a road map for those in struggling schools who want to see real change resulting in improved student achievement. Building on a conceptual framework that combines academic press, social support and relational trust, the authors describe how to create and implement systems at the district, school, wide, department and classroom levels that support each person within the school. The guidance offered is generalizable to all schools but is particularly potent for those struggling with low achievement and/or low morale. With the tools outlined in this book, stakeholders can see their hard work turn into enhanced relationships that result in improvements in student achievement. School leaders who have an overarching sense of what needs to happen but don't know how to integrate the nuts and bolts of transformation will be stimulated by the ideas in this book and encouraged by its practicability. New York Magazine, 1988-09-26.
