Making Of A Special Relationship The Uni:

Japan's Cultural Policy Toward China, 1918-1931 See Heng Teow,2020-03-23 Most existing scholarship on Japan's cultural policy toward modern China reflects the paradigm of cultural imperialism In contrast this study demonstrates that Japan while motivated by pragmatic interests international cultural rivalries ethnocentrism moralism and idealism was mindful of Chinese opinion and sought the cooperation of the Chinese government Japanese policy stressed cultural communication and inclusiveness rather than cultural domination and exclusiveness and was part of Japan's search for an East Asian cultural order led by Japan China however was not a passive recipient and actively sought to redirect this policy to serve its national interests and aspirations The author argues that it is time to move away from the framework of cultural imperialism toward one that recognizes the importance of cultural autonomy internationalism and transculturation is the first comprehensive study of U S policy toward China during the presidency of Lyndon Johnson a critical phase of the Cold War immediately preceding the dramatic Sino American rapprochement of the early 1970s Based on a wide array of recently declassified government documents this study challenges the popular view that Johnson s approach to China was marked by stagnation and sterility exploring the administration s relationship to both the Vietnam War and the Cultural Revolution By documenting Johnson s contributions to the decision making process Lumbers offers a new perspective on both his capacity as a foreign policy leader and his role in the further development of the Cold War A major contribution to our understanding of both Sino American relations and the Vietnam War this book will be of great interest to students of the Cold War U S foreign relations Asian Politics and the Johnson Presidency Lyndon B. Sales to Israel Abraham Ben-Zvi,2004-02-05 Lyndon B Johnson and the Politics of Arms Sales to Israel seeks to reconstruct and elucidate the processes behind the decisions made by the Johnson Administration during the years 1965 68 to sell Israel M 48 tanks A 4 Skyhawk planes and F 4 Phantom planes This examination is based on a distinction between three factions which competed for influence within Washington s high policy elite the traditionalists whose major representative was Secretary of State Dean Rusk the pragmatists whose most outspoken representative was Robert Komer of the National Security Council and the domestically oriented policymakers the central decision maker who quintessentially exemplifies this category being President Johnson This book is a sequel to John F Kennedy and the Politics of Arms Sales to Israel which examined the first arms deal between the US and Israel Rivals in Arms Alice Pannier,2020-10-22 As the UK leaves the Immigration Act of 1924 to Japanese American internment during World War II the United States has a long history of anti Asian policies But Lon Kurashige demonstrates that despite widespread racism Asian exclusion was not the product of an ongoing national consensus it was a subject of fierce debate This book complicates the exclusion story by examining the organized and well funded opposition to discrimination that involved some of the most powerful public figures in American politics business religion and academia In recovering this opposition Kurashige explains the rise and fall of exclusionist policies through an unstable and protracted political rivalry that began in the 1850s with the coming of Asian immigrants extended to the age of exclusion from the 1880s until the 1960s and since then has shaped the memory of past discrimination In this first book length analysis of both sides of the debate Kurashige argues that exclusion era policies were more than just enactments of racism they were also catalysts for U S Asian cooperation and the basis for the twenty first century s tightly integrated Pacific world

Special Relationship in the Malay World Ho Ying Chan, 2018-07-31 Ho Ying Chan provides an expert analysis of Malaysia Indonesia relations He demystifies the concept of a special relationship rescuing it from woolly sentimental rhetoric that often emanates from political figures and popular commentators His well informed study shows how a state s will to survive in the amoral world of international relations drives its conduct even in circumstances of common identities and common strategic interests with other states He evaluates comparative evidence to shed light on how a special relationship leads to the emergence of a pluralistic security community This is a conclusion of insight and value not only to the field of Southeast Asian Studies but also to the wider community of International Relations scholars Professor Clinton Fernandes University of New South Wales Australia Empirically rich and theoretically interesting this book offers an illuminating account of how material and ideational dynamics shape the evolution of Malaysia Indonesia relations Focusing on what is arguably the most vital bilateral relationship in Southeast Asia it addresses the circumstances conditions and constraints that determine the double edged effects of the culturally bound special relationship Ho Ying Chan argues that while their shared serumpun identities and strategic interests do give rise to a considerable closeness between Malaysia and Indonesia the politics of power im balance have prevented the transformation of the special relationship into a pluralistic security community as their egoistic understanding averts the formation of collective self The book generates useful insights on the interplay of cross border cultural affinity and political necessity inviting readers to ponder the politics of identity and survivability at the international level It is a welcome addition to the growing literature of Southeast Asian international relations Dr Kuik Cheng Chwee National University of Malaysia UKM Ho Ying Chan s important study brings home the international and theoretical significance of the interaction between Malaysia and Indonesia the two major states of Muslim Southeast Asia products of the territorial division between the British and Dutch colonial empires This welcome and revealing review of the Malaysia Indonesia story deepens our understanding of the concept of a special relationship explaining both the cooperative and competitive dynamics that can be present and the way such relationships are influenced by state identities and power imbalances Anthony Milner University of Malaya University of Melbourne

Caught in the Middle East Peter L. Hahn, 2006-02-01 Postwar American officials desired in principle to promote Arab Israeli peace in order to stabilize the Middle East This book shows how during the Truman and Eisenhower administrations the desire for peace was not always an American priority Instead they consistently gave more weight to their determination to contain the Soviet Union

Knowledge, Desire and Power in Global Politics Chengxin Pan, 2012-01-01 China threat or China opportunity like beauty is in the eyes of the beholder Western imaginations of China come under close scrutiny in this book in a new philosophical depth seldom attempted before Dr Pan displays in full force his analytical skills and his mastery of knowledge both East and West Contrary to conventional approaches he takes a step back to exercise a powerful reflective process to watch the China watchers with illuminating results Dr Pan s book deserves wide and careful reading Professor Gerald Chan University of Auckland New Zealand The rise of China is largely seen as either a threat or an opportunity Chengxin Pan exposes both of these representations as expressions of Western fears and desires for certainty and predictability His call for a more reflective and culturally sensitive understanding of China offers an important contribution to one of the big political debates of our time Professor Roland Bleiker University of Queensland Australia This is a brilliant and insightful treatment of Western representations of China with a theoretical framework suggesting they come not only from China itself but also the West Although it is not the first treatment of this topic it is innovative in considering the China threat and China opportunity both aspects of the rise of China are of crucial importance for our times With provocative conclusions it is a truly path breaking contribution to the literature I recommend it highly Emeritus Professor Colin Mackerras Griffith University Australia Pan has produced a book which not only challenges some basic assumptions about the nature of China s rise but more importantly forces us to rethink the very basic starting points of how we know what we know about China Professor Shaun Breslin University of Warwick UK How is the rise of China perceived in the West Why is it often labelled as threat and or opportunity What are the implications of these China imageries for global politics Taking up these important questions this groundbreaking book argues that the dominant Western perceptions of China's rise tell us less about China and more about Western self imagination and its desire for certainty Chengxin Pan expertly illustrates how this desire masked as China knowledge is bound up with the political economy of fears and fantasies thereby both informing and complicating foreign policy practice in Sino Western relations Insofar as this vital relationship is shaped not only by China's rise but also by the way we conceptualise its rise this book makes a compelling case for critical reflection on China watching Knowledge Desire and Power in Global Politics is the first systematic and deconstructive analysis of contemporary Western representation of China's rise Setting itself apart from the mainstream empiricist literature its critical interpretative approach and unconventional and innovative perspective will not only strongly appeal to academics students and the broader reading public but also likely spark debate in the field of Chinese international relations

The Harvard-Yenching Institute and Cultural Engineering Shuhua Fan, 2014-08-21 Through an empirical multi archival study of a transnational foundation the Harvard Yenching Institute HYI from the 1920s to the early 1950s this book presents the story of transplanting Western American humanities scholarship into Asia China and addresses central questions in U S China relations This book focuses on the HYI s programs in teaching research and publication of Chinese humanities within China to the early 1950s and to a lesser extent its activities at Harvard that had close ties with its China side Through the HYI story the author examines in depth the cooperation tensions adaptation and integration in the operation management and governance of the HYI s programs on both sides of the Pacific and the complex multi layered interactions between American educators and their Chinese partners treating each side sympathetically but without losing sight of the big picture As the first comprehensive study on the subject the book adopts a concept of cultural engineering which is defined as a conscious design to use cultural heritage to recreate culture in order to promote a society s development to look at key issues in a way which accounts for interactions and initiatives on both sides and shows the difficult path toward developing common interests without neglecting tensions and conflicts thus going beyond the various one sided historiographies which pit Chinese against Americans or nativist rejection of modernity against cultural imperialism The HYI experience in China from the 1920s to the early 1950s resonates down to the present day in American relations with the world The United States faces many similar challenges in the Middle East Asia Africa and Latin America today as in revolutionary China of the 1920s to 1950s Therefore this study offers a window onto many issues relating to cross cultural interactions today especially between the United States and non Western nations
