Research on Teaching Literacy Through the Communicative and Visual Arts, Volume II James Flood, Shirley Brice Heath, Diane Lapp, 2015-04-22 The Handbook of Research on Teaching Literacy Through the Communicative and Visual Arts Volume II brings together state of the art research and practice on the evolving view of literacy as encompassing not only reading writing speaking and listening but also the multiple ways through which learners gain access to knowledge and skills It forefronts as central to literacy education the visual communicative and performative arts and the extent to which all of the technologies that have vastly expanded the meanings and uses of literacy originate and evolve through the skills and interests of the young A project of the International Reading Association published and distributed by Routledge Taylor

International Companion Encyclopedia of Children's Literature Peter Hunt, 2004-08-02 Children's publishing is a huge international industry and there is ever growing interest from researchers and students in the genre as cultural object of study and tool for education and socialization

The Important Books Joseph Stanton, 2005-08-18 The Important Books takes a look at some of the most significant and talked about authors illustrators and titles in the genre including Maurice Sendak Margaret Wise Brown William Joyce and Chris Van Allsburg While focusing on those books that are distinguished by some degree of originality in both word and image the author points out that the importance of picture books is not primarily pedagogical they are not intended to serve as dumbed down versions of young adult or adult novels and the audience for these great books is not solely children Because the children's picture book is designed to provide the context for an intimate transaction involving the imaginations of both parent and child there is a social value to the form that lends a special poignancy to the pleasure it provides

Second-Generation Memory and Contemporary Children's Literature Anastasia Ulanowicz, 2013-09-02 Winner of the Children's Literature Association Book Award This book visits a range of textual forms including diary novel and picturebook to explore the relationship between second generation memory and contemporary children's literature Ulanowicz argues that second generation memory informed by intimate family relationships textual mediation and technology is characterized by vicarious rather than direct experience of the past As such children's literature is particularly well suited to the representation of second generation memory insofar as children's fiction is particularly invested in the transmission and reproduction of cultural memory and its form promotes the formation of various complex intergenerational relationships Further children's books that depict second generation memory have the potential to challenge conventional Western notions of selfhood and ethics This study shows how novels such as Lois Lowry's The Giver 1993 and Judy Blume's Starring Sally J. Freedman as Herself 1977 both of which feature protagonists who adapt their elders memories into their own mnemonic repertoires implicitly reject Cartesian notions of the unified subject in favor of a view of identity as always already social relational and dynamic in character This book not only questions how and why second generation memory is represented in books for young people but whether such representations of memory might be considered radical or conservative Together these analyses address a topic that has not been explored fully within the fields of children's literature trauma and memory studies and Holocaust studies
