Mathematical Reasoning Raymond Nickerson, 2011-02-25 The development of mathematical competence both by humans as a species over millennia and by individuals over their lifetimes is a fascinating aspect of human cognition This book explores when and why the rudiments of mathematical capability first appeared among human beings what its fundamental concepts are and how and why it has grown into the richly branching complex of specialties that it is today It discusses whether the truths of mathematics are discoveries or inventions and what prompts the emergence of concepts that appear to be descriptive of nothing in human experience Also covered is the role of esthetics in mathematics What exactly are mathematicians seeing when they describe a mathematical entity as beautiful There is discussion of whether mathematical disability is distinguishable from a general cognitive deficit and whether the potential for mathematical reasoning is best developed through instruction This volume is unique in the vast range of psychological questions it covers as revealed in the work habits and products of numerous mathematicians It provides fascinating reading for researchers and students with an interest in cognition in general and mathematical cognition in particular. Instructors of mathematics will also find the book's insights illuminating.

When the Englishman's sister a promising Surrey painter visits along with her husband and young son the ranch hands soon learn that this reunion is more than a family gathering. The brother in law who provided most of the investment money for the Rolling F Ranch has come to take over the ownership and management. As the crew ponders its shift of loyalty to such a man they begin to see signs that he is a wife beater. When Clayton attempts to interfere in this suppressed spousal abuse he finds himself in an awkward position with his present employer and future employer. His dedication to protecting this headstrong artistic woman leads to a surprising bond between ranch foreman and celebrated painter a relationship that totters between mutual respect and romance.
