e.g. class clowns, psychiatric patients or whether or not they can be trained. We also welcomed contributions from adjacent disciplines e.g. education, leisure studies or therapy counseling and different regions of the earth. The outcome is a set of 33 manuscripts from altogether 101 authors. Not all areas are covered and not all aims were met while we made progress, there is much left to do. In this sense, the merging of these topics may be the first milestone, but like every milestone, it only marks the beginning of a long journey.

Gender and Humor Delia Chiaro, Raffaella Baccolini, 2014-05-09. In the mid-seventies, both gender studies and humor studies emerged as new disciplines with scholars from various fields undertaking research in these areas. The first publications that emerged in the field of gender studies came out of disciplines such as philosophy, history and literature, while early works in the area of humor studies initially concentrated on language, linguistics and psychology. Since then, both fields have flourished but largely independently. Understanding Laughter and Humor John Charles Simon, Jennalee Donian, 2025-07-01. This book puts forward a revolutionary and comprehensive theoretical approach to understanding laughter and the humor we use to inspire it. This new perspective applies an evolutionary and biological lens through which we can fully appreciate these complex, universal human behaviors. It distinguishes itself from all classical and contemporary theories by revealing laughter's singular message rather than simply its causes and effects and makes clear why perceptions of vulnerability and status are ever present in our conscious and subconscious thoughts. The theory underscores our innate desire to cooperate, our respect for those who compete fairly and our disdain for those who do not. And it sheds light on the social dynamics governing human interactions, both positive and negative, by recognizing laughter not as a reflexive reaction to a certain class of stimuli but as a vital form of nonverbal communication, not only for us but for our great ape cousins as well.
