Nelson, 2020-11-17 This volume is the first in depth analysis of how infirm bodies were represented in Italy from c 1400 to 1650 Through original contributions and methodologies it addresses the fundamental yet undiscussed relationship between images and representations in medical religious and literary texts Looking beyond the modern category of disease and viewing infirmity in Galenic humoral terms each chapter explores which infirmities were depicted in visual culture in what context why and when By exploring the works of artists such as Caravaggio Leonardo and Michelangelo this study considers the idealized body altered by diseases including leprosy plague goitre and cancer In doing so the relationship between medical treatment and the depiction of infirmities through miracle cures is also revealed The broad chronological approach demonstrates how and why such representations change both over time and across different forms of media Collectively the chapters explain how the development of knowledge of the workings and structure of the body was reflected in changed ideas and representations of the metaphorical allegorical and symbolic meanings of infirmity and disease The interdisciplinary approach makes this study the perfect resource for both students and specialists of the history of art medicine and religion and social and intellectual history across Renaissance Europe Strategies of Sanity and Survival Jussi Hanska, 2002-06-17 It is an unusual book in many respects It is a specific study based on original and in most cases unedited sources but it can also be read as a general introduction It crosses boundaries between different fields of learning and traditionally accepted time periods of history Even if it is essentially a book on medieval man it stretches far beyond the middle ages as conventionally understood The final chapter traces the slow disappearance of the medieval mentality until the early nineteenth century Beholding Violence in Medieval and Early Modern Europe Allie Terry-Fritsch, 2017-07-05 Interested in the ways in which medieval and early modern communities have acted as participants observers and interpreters of events and how they ascribed meaning to them the essays in this interdisciplinary collection explore the concept of beholding and the experiences of individual and collective beholders of violence during the period Addressing a range of medieval and early modern art forms including visual images material objects literary texts and performances the contributors examine the complexities of viewing and the production of knowledge within cultural political and theological contexts In considering new methods to examine the process of beholding violence and the beholder's perspective this volume addresses such questions as How does the process of beholding function in different aesthetic conditions Can we speak of such a thing as the period eye or an acculturated gaze of the viewer If so does this particularize the gaze or does it risk universalizing perception How do violence and pleasure intersect within the visual and literary arts How can an understanding of violence in cultural representation serve as means of knowing the past and as means of understanding and potentially altering the present
