

What is Racial Discrimination?

Racial discrimination, at its core, means that a job applicant or employee is treated unfavorably because of their race or related characteristics. Related characteristics can include skin color, complexion, hair texture, and physical features, such as the shape of the eyes or nose.

Examples of race discrimination might include:

Not getting hired

Not getting a promotion or raise

Denial of benefits or bonuses

Unfavorable scheduling

Receiving a lower wage than employees of a different race

Receiving increased responsibility at work but not getting a higher job classification or pay raise

Getting a pay cut or reduction in benefits

Exclusion from work-related activities

Isolation

Harassment and stereotyping

Retaliation for speaking out against racial discrimination or harassment in the workplace

Wrongful termination

Employment policies that directly or indirectly have an adverse effect on applicants/employees of a particular race

Racial Discrimination Under Law:

Equality and Non-Discrimination under International Law Stephanie Farrior, 2017-07-05 The principles of equality and non discrimination lie at the heart of international human rights law They are the only human rights explicitly included in the UN Charter and they appear at the beginning of virtually every major human rights instrument This volume contains selected works by leading authors on the subject of equality and non discrimination under international law The selections are grouped into four sections The first presents essays that explore theoretical concepts of equality and non discrimination The next addresses the development of international legal standards on the subject The third presents articles analyzing how those standards have been interpreted and applied by UN and regional human rights bodies and the last contains works on what measures besides legal action States are to take to in order to achieve equality and non discrimination Making

Anti-Racial Discrimination Law Iyiola Solanke, 2012-08-21 Making Anti Racial Discrimination Law examines the evolution of anti racial discrimination law from a socio legal perspective Taking a comparative and interdisciplinary approach the book does not simply look at race and society or race and law but brings these areas together by drawing out the tension in the process in different countries by which race becomes a policy issue which is subsequently regulated by law Moving beyond traditional social movement theory to include the extreme right wing as a social actor the study identifies the role of extreme right wing confrontation in agenda setting and law making a feature often neglected in studies of social action In so doing it identifies the influence of both the extreme right and liberalism on anti racial discrimination law Focusing primarily on Great Britain and Germany the book also demonstrates how national politics feeds into EU policy and identifies some of the challenges in creating a high and uniform level of protection against racial discrimination throughout the EU Using primary archival materials from Germany and the UK the empirical richness of this book constitutes a valuable contribution to the field of anti racial discrimination law at both undergraduate and postgraduate level The book will interest specialists and academics in law sociology and political science as well as non specialists who will find this study stimulating and useful to expand their knowledge of anti racial discrimination law or pursue teaching goals policy objectives and reform agendas

The Development of Legal Instruments to Combat Racism in a Diverse Europe Jan Niessen, Isabelle Chopin, 2004-01-01 Europe has come a long way at least in the institutional response to racism This book describes the responses of the Council of Europe and the European Union to the worrying trends of racism and xenophobia in the 1990s and considers the prospects for combating discrimination in Europe using tools that have emerged as a result Part one looks at the evolution of the Council of Europe apparatus to combat discrimination and the anti discrimination standards prescribed by its institutions Part two considers the legislative measures recently adopted by the European Union The contributions in Part three take a comparative perspective of all measures adopted at European level to combat racial and ethnic discrimination Unequal under Law Doris Marie Provine, 2008-09-15 Race is clearly a factor in government efforts to control dangerous drugs but the precise ways that race affects drug laws remain difficult to pinpoint Illuminating this elusive relationship Unequal under Law lays out how decades of both manifest and latent racism helped shape a punitive U S drug policy whose onerous impact on racial minorities has been willfully ignored by Congress and the courts Doris Marie Provine s engaging analysis traces the history of race in anti drug efforts from the temperance movement of the early 1900s to the crack scare of the late twentieth century showing how campaigns to criminalize drug use have always conjured images of feared minorities Explaining how alarm over a threatening black drug trade fueled support in the 1980s for a mandatory minimum sentencing scheme of unprecedented severity Provine contends that while our drug laws may no longer be racist by design they remain racist in design Moreover their racial origins have long been ignored by every branch of government This dangerous denial threatens our constitutional guarantee of equal protection of law and mutes a much needed national discussion about institutionalized racism a discussion that Unequal under Law promises to initiate Race Discrimination and Management of Ethnic Diversity and Migration at Work Joana Vassilopoulou,Julienne Brabet,Victoria Showunmi,2019-08-28 Race Discrimination and Management of Ethnic Diversity and Migration at Work analyses nine countries perspectives on Diversity Management and their increasing awareness of diversity equality racism and discrimination within companies and organisations throughout Europe Law, Lawyers and Race Mathias Möschel,2014-09-15 Critical Race Theory CRT is virtually unheard of in European scholarship especially among legal scholars Law Lawyers and Race Critical Race Theory from the United States to Europe endeavours to fill this gap by providing an overview of the definition and consequences of CRT developed in American scholarship and describing its transplantation and application in the continental European context The CRT approach adopted in this book illustrates the reasons why the relationship between race and law in European civil law jurisdictions is far from anodyne Law plays a critical role in the construction subordination and discrimination against racial minorities in Europe making it comparable albeit in slightly different ways to the American experience of racial discrimination Anti Semitism Islamophobia anti Roma and anti Black racism constitute a fundamental factor often tacitly accepted in the relationship between law and race in Europe Consequently the broadly shared anti race and anti racist position is problematic because it acts to the detriment of victims of racism while privileging the White Christian male majority This book is an original exploration of the relationship between law and race As such it crosses the disciplinary divide furthering both legal scholarship and research in Race and Ethnicity Studies The International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination Patrick

Thornberry,2016-07-14 The Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination is the centrepiece of international efforts to address racial discrimination defined in broad terms to include discrimination based on skin colour descent ethnic and national origin Victims of discrimination within the scope of the Convention include minorities indigenous peoples non citizens and caste or descent groups Virtually all national societies are diverse in terms of ethnicity or race and none is free from discrimination making it one of the great issues of our time Against the background of international human rights standards and mechanisms to counter racial and ethnic discrimination this book provides the first comprehensive legal analysis of the provisions of the Convention on an article by article basis The book addresses the place of the Convention within the broader framework of United Nations action against discrimination The different chapters analyse and discuss broad topics of race ethnicity and international law the genesis and drafting of the Convention the aims and objectives of the Convention in light of its preamble and principles of non discrimination and equality In particular the book includes a critical appraisal of the contribution of the Convention to the eradication of racial discrimination It also reflects on whether there is scope for modification of the substance or procedures of the Convention in light of challenges arising from enhanced transnational population movements the intersection between discrimination on the ground of race and discrimination against religious communities and the intersection of racial and gender based discrimination

Race Relations in Britain Since 1945 Harry Goulbourne,1998-10-19 Race Relations in Britain since 1945 provides a critical overview of the origins development and present state of race relations in Britain Highly contentious the field of race relations is closely related to a number of issues which are regarded to be at the very heart of contemporary British life Professor Goulbourne draws on a variety of historical sociological anthropological and political analyses to construct and advance a convincing and persuasive argument about differential incorporation into British society or inequality based on colour in the imperial and colonial era as well as the contemporary period The Oxford Handbook of International Refugee

Law Cathryn Costello,Michelle Foster,Jane McAdam,2021 Provides a state of the art comprehensive analysis of the field of international refugee law Global in scope with 10 chapters focusing in detail on specific regions Critiques the status quo and sets the agenda for future academic research Book jacket Race Rights Reparations Fernne Brennan,2017-07-14 This book considers institutional racism as a problem that exists within modern societies Its roots lie with the transatlantic slave trade and slavery and the solution involves ridding society of the problem It is argued here that first there needs to be an acceptance of its existence then developing the tools needed to deal with it and finally to implement those tools so that institutional racism can be permanently removed from society The book has four themes the first considers the nature of institutional racism the second theme looks at instances of institutional racism through matters such as deaths in custody and skin lightening the third considers the concept of reparations and the final area looks at the development of social movements as a way of pushing institutional racism up the political agenda The development of a social movement is part of a social discourse which would for example push mentoring as a form of reparations There is a need for more research on the manifestations of institutional racism and this book is part of that discourse It is argued that the legacy of the slave trade and slavery is continuing and contemporary through the presence of institutional racism in society This problem has not been addressed through legislation and policies devised to combat racial discrimination Institutional racism needs to be understood as being located in the processes and procedures of societal institutions Clearinghouse Review ,1992

Race in the Shadow of Law Eddie Bruce-Jones,2016-12-01 Race in the Shadow of Law offers a critical legal analysis of European responses to institutional racism It draws connections between contemporary legal knowledge practices and colonial systems of thought arguing that many people of colour experience the law as a part of a racial problem rather than a solution to racial injustice Based on a critical legal ethnography of anti racism work in Europe and with an emphasis on the German context the book positions

Black and anti racist perspectives at the centre rather than the margins of critically thinking through the intersection of race and law Combining this ethnography with comparative legal analysis discourse analysis and critical race theory the book develops a critical discussion of the European legal frameworks aimed at regulating racism and particularly institutional racism in policy and policing In linking this critique to the transformative potential of social movements however it goes on to examine the strategic and creative possibility of disrupting conventional modes of engaging and resisting law
