Oncodevelopmental Markers Biologic Diagnostic And Monitoring Aspects:

Oncodevelopmental Markers William H. Fishman,1983 Protides of the Biological Fluids H. Peeters,2014-11-26

Protides of the Biological Fluids Metal Binding Proteins Tumor Markers Monoclonal Antibodies covers the proceedings of the 31st Colloquium by the same title held in Brussels Belgium in 1983 This work is composed of three sections encompassing 245 chapters The first section describes first the structure physiological function and physiopathology of metal binding proteins This section also considers the metal binding mechanism and a series of iron binding and copper binding proteins as well as hemopexin proteins The second section is concerned with the physiopathology screening monitoring tumor localization and biomarkers of tumor This section also explores the field of immunohistochemistry of biomarkers for tumor monitoring The third section discusses drug targeting immunohistochemistry the identification of lymphocytes and other antigens Considerable chapters are devoted to clinical assays of monoclonal antibodies This book will prove useful to oncologists protein scientists clinicians and researchers Genetic and Phenotypic Markers of Tumors Stuart A. Aaronson,2012-12-06 The study of tumor markers is not only one of the most important but also one that offers one of the richest perspectives in biology and clinical oncology The aim of scientists in this field is to adduce evidence of a property that is typical of and exclusive to tumor cells and which is easy to determine in order to immediately recognize or even better to foresee neoplastic transformations Unfortunately despite the large number of scientists and laboratories engaged in this work the ideal tumor marker has not yet been identified However it is worth noting that new trends in molecular biology and immunovirology have recently opened up new avenues that may lead to the eventual resolution of this problem In this book different approaches to the identification of tumor markers from the points of view of biochemistry immunology and molecular biology are compared in order to explore possible interrelationships and to stimulate scientific collaboration among scientists active in these fields both in basic research and in clinical applications We wish to thank all the contributors and also the publisher especially Dr Robert Andrews for making the publication of this book possible Immunodiagnosis of Cancer Ronald E. Herberman,Donald W. Mercer,2017-11-22 Updated to reflect changes in the field since publication of the first edition in 1979 Provides a detailed review of the methodology available for assessing the diagnosis and prognosis of cancer patients including data on the application of tumor marker assays and other immunodiagnostic procedures

Scientific Foundations of Biochemistry in Clinical Practice David L. Williams,Vincent Marks,2014-04-24 Scientific Foundations of Biochemistry in Clinical Practice Second Edition describes the pathological aspects of general metabolic disorders This book is organized into 10 sections encompassing 45 chapters that discuss the nature of disorders involving disturbance in hydrogen ion concentration and blood gases as well as the disorders of fluid and electrolyte balance Some of the topics covered in the book are the chemical analysis of urine neonatal screening for biochemical disorders clinical biochemistry of alcohol in intensive and postoperative care psychiatric disorders of biochemical origin abnormalities of the plasma proteins assessment of gastrointestinal function and calcium metabolism Other chapters examine the nature conditions and diagnosis of bone disorders A chapter emphasizes the functions of hypothalamus and pituitary Another chapter looks into the biochemistry and toxicology of metals The final chapters are devoted to the classification of connective tissue diseases and to the examination of clinical biochemistry of the central nervous system The book can provide useful information to doctors biochemists students and researchers National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), Marshall's Physiology of Reproduction G.E. Lamming, 2013-04-17 The most comprehensive review available today Marshall's Physiology of Reproduction is the classic reference source for teachers and researchers of animal reproduction Internationally recognised leaders in their respective fields provide an analytical synopsis of the area review current research and outline their philosophical approach to the subject Volume 3 of the fourth edition reviews the processes of pregnancy and lactation in mammals incorporating marsupials non primate eutherians and primates including man Book one covers pregnancy from ovulation to pre parturition book two reviews fetal physiology parturition and lactation The extensive coverage of the physiology of human reproduction and lactation makes this volume a particularly important reference source for researchers in human fertility control while the review of large animal reproduction is relevant to veterinary and para veterinary workers Advances in Cancer Research, 1988-04-01 Advances in Cancer Research The International Journal of Biological Markers, 1991 Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1983 First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70 Scientific Directory and Annual Bibliography National Institutes of Health (U.S.), 1984 Each issue lists papers published during the preceding year Peptide Hormones in Lung Cancer Klaus Havemann, George D. Sorenson, Clauss Gropp, 2013-03-09 The incidence of lung cancer has reached epidemic proportions throughout the civilized world One indication of the dimensions of this problem is that in the United States lung cancer has become the leading cause of cancer death in women as well as men In 1912 there was a nearly complete consensus of opinion that primary malignant neoplasms of the lung were one of the rarest forms of disease according to Adler By 1937 however it had become clear that the incidence of lung cancer was increasing significantly this increase has been progressive ever since It is now well known that some lung cancers give rise to a variety of hormones which at times produce clinical manifestations The association of hormone production with a nonendocrine tumor raises many questions the answers to which may shed some light on the etiology of this prevalent form of cancer This fascinating problem has stimulated a wide variety of studies in both the clinical and the basic sciences A number of the more recent studies in this field were discussed at the International Symposium on Peptide Hormones and Lung Cancer held in Marburg West Germany on June 18 20 1984 This volume contains the papers that were presented on this occasion Protides of the Biological Fluids Hubert Peeters, 1983 Calcium and Calcium Binding Proteins Charles Gerday, L. Bolis, R. Gilles, 2012-12-06 The idea of Professors Bolis and Gilles to gather together for a 3 days meeting in the splendid environment of Crans Montana in Switzerland a limited number of people around the subject of calcium and calcium binding proteins seemed at first particularly attractive and when they asked me to take charge of the scientific organization of the symposium I accepted with enthusiasm. It rapidly became clear that the major problem would be the selection of the topics since it was impossible to cover completely and in depth such a broad and dynamic area of research. In our view one imperative was to associate as intimately as possible the structural and the functional aspects of the areas covered. Apart from one whole day focused on the fascinating roles played by calmodulin in cellular activities the other sessions were devoted to calmodulin related calcium binding proteins in muscle and non muscle tissues and to some selected biological systems such as mitochondria secretory cells or sarcoplasmic reticulum in which calcium also plays a crucial role. The presentations were made by leading investigators in their field. Some of them do not however appear in the present volume for which there are two reasons: first some of the contributions were somewhat outside the scope of the book; second three speakers for valid reasons simply found no opportunity to write a manuscript in the allotted time.

Protein & Peptide Letters, 1998-10 Major Topics in Adolescent Oncology Cameron K. Tebbi, 1987 Cancer Research, 1986 Folia haematologica, 1986. Supplements accompany some numbers.

The critically acclaimed laboratory standard Methods in Enzymology is one of the most highly respected publications in the field of biochemistry. Since 1955 each volume has been eagerly awaited, frequently consulted and praised by researchers and reviewers alike. The series contains much material still relevant today, truly an essential publication for researchers in all fields of life sciences.
