Race and the Politics of Fear J. Noel Hubler,2025-05-16 Race and the Politics of Fear is a study of the role of race in American political history It takes a novel approach by using Aristotle s theory of the mixed regime to analyze the American system Aristotle s mixed regime containing elements of oligarchy and democracy was well known to the Founders who used it to design the Constitution Accordingly American political history has unfolded as a struggle between oligarchic and democratic forces Oligarchs have frequently used race to divide the people and maintain power This book traces the oligarchic construction of race from its creation in the Colonial period and through a study of four major figures James Madison helped formulate the Constitution to provide protection for the Southern oligarchies and was a founder of the Democratic Republican party dominated by Southern interests John C Calhoun s theory of the concurrent majority provided a blueprint for the South s political strategy in the Jim Crow era Ben Tillman redefined race primarily as a feeling as an excuse for the South s violent oppression of the black community Ronald Reagan retooled the traditional racist myths and made them palatable to a national audience Readable yet extensively documented it is appropriate for general audiences and scholars

The Mulatta and the Politics of Race Teresa C. Zackodnik,2009-09-18 From abolition through the years just before the civil rights struggle began African American women recognized that a mixed race woman made for a powerful and at times very useful figure in the battle for racial justice. The Mulatta and the Politics of Race traces many key instances in which black women have wielded the image of a racially mixed woman to assault the color line. In the oratory and fiction of black women from the late 1840s through the 1950s, Teresa C. Zackodnik finds the mulatta to be a metaphor of increasing potency. Before the Civil War, white female abolitionists created the image of the tragic mulatta caught between races, rejected by all African American women. After the war, black women put the mulatta to diverse political use. Black women used the mulatta figure to invoke and manage American and British abolitionist empathy and to contest racial stereotypes of womanhood in the postbellum United States. The mulatta aided writers in critiquing the New Negro Renaissance and gave writers leverage to subvert the aims of mid-twentieth-century mainstream American culture. The Mulatta and the Politics of Race focuses on the antislavery lectures and appearances of Ellen Craft and Sarah Parker Remond, the domestic fiction of Pauline Hopkins and Frances Harper, the Harlem Renaissance novels of Jessie Fauset and Nella Larsen, and the little-known 1950s texts of Dorothy Lee Dickens and Reba Lee. Throughout, the author discovers the especially valuable and as yet unexplored contributions of these black women and their uses of the mulatta in prose and speech. Teresa C. Zackodnik is a professor of English at the University of Alberta in Canada. Teaching Transformation A. Keating, 2007-06-11 Drawing on indigenous belief systems and recent work in critical race studies and multicultural feminist theory, Keating provides detailed step-by-step suggestions based on her own teaching experiences designed to anticipate and change students' resistance to social justice issues. It offers a holistic approach to theory and practice. Knowing Otherwise Alexis Shotwell, 2015-09-10 Prejudice is often not a conscious attitude because of ingrained habits in relating to the world; one may act in prejudiced ways toward others without explicitly understanding the meaning of one's actions. Similarly, one may know how to do certain things like ride a bicycle without being able to articulate in words what that knowledge is. These are examples of what Alexis Shotwell discusses in Knowing Otherwise as phenomena of implicit understanding. Presenting a systematic analysis of this concept, she highlights how this kind of understanding may be used to ground positive political and social change such as combating racism in its less overt and more deep-rooted forms. Shotwell begins by distinguishing four basic types of implicit understanding: nonpropositional skill-based or practical knowledge, embodied knowledge, potentially propositional knowledge, and affective knowledge. She then develops the notion of a racialized and gendered common sense, drawing on Gramsci and critical race theorists, and clarifies the idea of embodied knowledge by showing how it operates in the realm of aesthetics. She also examines the role that both negative affects like shame and positive affects like sympathy can play in moving us away from racism and toward political solidarity and social justice. Finally, Shotwell looks at the politicized experience of one's body in feminist and transgender theories of liberation in order to elucidate the role of situated sensuous knowledge in bringing about social change and political transformation. Looking White People in the Eye Sherene Razack, 1998-01-01 Examining the classroom discussion of equity issues and legal cases involving immigration and sexual violence, Razack
