Excerpt from Recollections of Sir Walter Scott Bart On this ground alone namely just a perception of character the merits of the following sketch if it has any must rest In the mere statement of events and dates which comparatively are unimportant there may be errors which the writer up to the present hour had no opportunity to correct if he had been solicitous to do so But instead of feeling anxious on that account some anachronisms were in one chapter purposely introduced for the sake of promoting the author's wish at the outset to remain anonymous About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Recollections of Sir Walter Scott, Bart Robert Pearse Gillies, 2013-09 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher Not indexed Not illustrated 1837 edition Excerpt you say but it is very good for the growth of wood I would plant a large proportion of mountain ash Scotch firs and larch for the sake of their rapid growth near the castle but on the hills I would prefer oak birch hazel and other trees of which the bark is suitable for the tanner so that every fifteen or twenty years those who come after me might have a profitable fall of copsewood In this manner he ran on delighting his imagination with ideas which were amply and accurately realised The purchase was completed for about five thousand pounds I believe and afforded far more satisfaction to Scott than any acquisition he had before made I remember well the first sketch of ornamental improvement 150 EDINBURGH ANNUAL REGISTER at Abbotsford in his own hand a rare specimen for he was no draughtsman It was only a design for a kind of rustic piazza the supporters being of trees with the bark on and intended as a front to the original old cottage after it had been stretched as he termed it into some additional rooms and rendered merely habitable for the family The comparison of Abbotsford House as it now exists to a romance in stone and lime is very good for there are many points of analogy He found only a mere remnant of old materials to work upon in which respect the original cottage might fantastically be likened to the fragment of an old ballad or popular tradition and all around was a dreary waste which his taste and imagination gradually adorned and brightened Moreover having no fixed plan at the outset he proceeded exactly as in his written compositions falling into seemingly inextricable perplexities and incongruities out of which his genius at last produced an interesting and
