Coping With Loss Susan Nolen-Hoeksema, Judith Larson, Judith M. Larson, 2013-01-11 Coping With Loss describes the many ways in which people cope with the death of someone they love Most earlier books on bereavement have fallen into two categories distillations of the clinical experience of individual therapists or collections of chapters reporting the results of empirical studies Each category is valuable but has tended to serve a narrow group of readers practitioners with particular theoretical orientations or researchers in quest of the latest findings Coauthored by a leading research psychologist and an experienced therapist who specializes in bereavement education and intervention this book is different The authors weave together the strands of theory research and clinical wisdom into a seamless and readable narrative While they discuss previous work they also present new data never before published from one of the largest studies of bereaved people ever conducted the Bereavement Coping Project Unlike most studies to date which focused on only one type of bereaved group usually widows or widowers the Bereavement Coping Project examined the experiences of several different groups during the first 18 months after the death The groups included those who had lost a spouse a parent an adult sibling or a child and those who had lost their significant other to cancer or cardiovascular disease on one hand as opposed to the stigmatized disease of AIDS on the other The book begins with a critical overview of theories of bereavement succeeding chapters explore in depth the impact of specific types of loss the impact of particular coping strategies on recovery the impact of social supports and religion and the special cases of children and of people who seem to grow and change for the better after a loss A final chapter considers implications for intervention with bereaved people Each chapter is richly illuminated with real life examples throughout and ends with a section called Voices in which bereaved people describe their various attempts to cope in their own words

This book explores the relationship between COVID 19 and AIDS It considers both how the earlier HIV pandemic informed our engagement with COVID 19 as well as the ways in which COVID 19 has changed how we remember and experience AIDS Individual sections focus on sexual and intimate relationships inequalities and injustice the progressive biomedicalisation of the response in the absence of a vaccine or effective treatment or cure and professional practitioner and community perspectives on the pandemics The authors come from a wide variety of backgrounds including public health nursing law and legal studies political studies and the humanities and social sciences The book contains contributions by established writers such as Dennis Altman Shalini Bharat Tim Dean Deborah Lupton Shubhada Maitra Pauline Oosterhoff and Michael Tan as well as chapters by Chris Ashford and Gareth Longstaff Bernard Kelly Dean Murphy and Kiran Pienaar and Theodore ted Kerr This thought provoking and timely volume includes case studies from Australia Austria Brazil Canada Germany India Indonesia the Philippines the UK the USA and Vietnam It has been written for students and scholars from a wide range of disciplinary backgrounds including sociology healthcare public health social work anthropology and gender and sexuality studies The book will also be of interest to the general reader who wants a better understanding of the social and cultural dimensions of modern day pandemics and the personal and community responses to which they give rise Public Catastrophes, Private Losses Sarah Tobias, Arlene Stein, 2025-01-14

From COVID to climate change induced wildfires and hurricanes we live in an era when catastrophes have become the new normal But even though these events affect us all some members of society are more vulnerable to harm than others This essay collection explores how the definition of catastrophe might be expanded to include many forms of large scale structural violence on communities species and ecosystems Using feminist methodologies the contributors to Public Catastrophes Private Losses trace the connections between seemingly unrelated forms of violence such as structural racism environmental degradation and public health crises In contrast to a news media that focuses on mass fatalities and immediate consequences these essays call our attention to how catastrophes can also involve slow violence with long term effects The authors also consider how these catastrophes are profoundly shaped by government action or inaction offering a powerful critique of how government neglect has cost lives and demonstrating how vulnerable populations can be better protected The essays in this collection examine how public catastrophes imprint themselves on lives as individuals and communities narrate process and grapple with legacies of loss The book is thus a feminist intervention that challenges the binary between public and private personal and political
