Music and the Myth of Wholeness Tim Hodgkinson, 2016-02-12 A new theory of aesthetics and music grounded in the collision between language and the body In this book Tim Hodgkinson proposes a theory of aesthetics and music grounded in the boundary between nature and culture within the human being His analysis discards the conventional idea of the human being as an integrated whole in favor of a rich and complex field in which incompatible kinds of information biological and cultural collide It is only when we acknowledge the clash of body and language within human identity that we can understand how art brings forth the special form of subjectivity potentially present in aesthetic experiences As a young musician Hodgkinson realized that music was in some mysterious way of itself not isolated from life but not entirely continuous with it either Drawing on his experiences as a musician composer and anthropologist Hodgkinson shows how when we listen to music a new subjectivity comes to life in ourselves The normal mode of agency is suspended and the subjectivity inscribed in the music comes toward us as a formative other to engage with But this is not our reproduction of the composer's own subjectivation when we perform our listening of the music we are sharing the formative risks taken by its maker To examine this in practice Hodgkinson looks at the work of three composers who have each claimed to stimulate a new way of listening Pierre Schaeffer John Cage and Helmut Lachenmann
