Mainstreaming Gender In Development A Critical Review Oxfam Focus On Gender:

Mainstreaming Gender in Development Fenella Porter, Caroline Sweetman, 2005 Articles discuss how gender mainstreaming has been understood in different organisations provide examples of good work which supports the empowerment of women and look beyond gender mainstreaming to what new possibilities exist for transformation The Politics of Mainstreaming in Critical Perspective Sharleene May Bibbings, 2011-11-15 Gender mainstreaming GM has been identified in academic literature as a crucial topic for both public attention and academic research This is because GM is currently considered an essential strategy for achieving the highly sought after outcome of gender equality in public organisations However an exhaustive degree of academic practitioner and advocate attention has been paid to challenges observed in the GM process Specifically concerns have crystallised on the following twin puzzles i conceptual confusion and ii the challenges of operationalising the process The central purpose of this book has been to make a contribution in relation to both of these academic and practice based issues at a time when questions appertaining to gender equality are reaching critical mass Moreover we are simply not there yet in terms of our aspirations for gender equality in public organisations and new insights on strategies used to move us forward need to be brought to the foreground to engender progress To address the aims of the book the author uses three novel argumentative turns to interrogate the politics of mainstreaming from a critical perspective First is the challenge related to conceptual confusion It is important to clarify that this book does not intend to investigate and define the issue of gender inequality in organisations per se something that is beyond the scope of this book and deserves attention in its own right Instead this work focuses on the specific processes of change mainstreaming rather than the content of change gender Secondly the practice element was also approached in a inimitable way by concentrating on local government in the UK which has had a long history with GM despite the dearth of books on the issue and thus an opportunity to analyse instructive and empirically rich cases Finally through a longitudinal view of local government history this has included previously excluded evidence for consideration Using these argumentative turns the book has met its three aims by mapping out i the core conceptual features of mainstreaming across a range of organisational settings ii developed an evaluation framework for understanding the outcomes of GM through a national level review and primary research and iii interrogated the findings through a productive theory practice dialogue using the work of social learning theory This book should be of interest to a wide ranging audience As the study at the broadest level is essentially a study into the politics of change over time students and academics may wish to utilise the books findings as they point to some of the challenges and difficulties associated with analysis of change within organisations Feminists should also find the theoretical and methodological approach of interest in the sense that it challenges conventional wisdom and provides novel argumentative turns Historical specialist may also find this book of interest for those concerned with process tracing methods and diachronic analysis Finally practitioners involved in different forms of mainstreaming organisational change and development should be interested in the experiences encountered by the local government officers in adopting and implementing GM in the case studies These include but are not limited to Program Management Specialists Development Officers Policy Experts Equality Practitioners and Gender Experts in a variety of organisational contexts from the local to the supranational levels private public and mixed economy sectors Routledge Handbook of Gender and Environment Sherilyn MacGregor,2017-07-14 The Routledge Handbook of Gender and Environment gathers together state of the art theoretical reflections and empirical research from leading researchers and practitioners working in this transdisciplinary and transnational academic field Over the course of the book these contributors provide critical analyses of the gender dimensions of a wide range of timely and challenging topics from sustainable development and climate change politics to queer ecology and interspecies ethics in the so called Anthropocene Presenting a comprehensive overview of the development of the field from early political critiques of the male domination of women and nature in the 1980s to the sophisticated intersectional and inclusive analyses of the present the volume is divided into four parts Part I Foundations Part II Approaches Part III Politics policy and practice Part IV Futures Comprising chapters written by forty contributors with different perspectives and working in a wide range of research contexts around the world this Handbook will serve as a vital resource for scholars students and practitioners in environmental studies gender studies human geography and the environmental humanities and social sciences more broadly NGOs and Political Change Patrick Kilby,2015-08-13 The Australian Council for International Development is the peak body of Australian international development NGOs This book explores ACFID s history since its founding in 1965 drawing on current and contemporary literature as well as extensive archival material The trends and challenges in international development are seen through the lens of an NGO peak body from the heady optimism of the first Development Decade of the 1960s through the growth in government support of NGOs in the 1980s to the challenges of the 2010s The major themes of ACFID are presented human rights gender justice humanitarianism NGO codes of conduct and influencing government policy both broadly and as it relates to NGOs Each of these themes is placed in a global context and in relation to what other NGO networks are doing internationally Feminist Dialogues on International Law Gina Heathcote,2019-01-17 In the past decade a sense of feminist success has developed within the United Nations and international law recognized in the Security Council resolution 1325 on women peace and security the increased jurisprudence on gender based crimes in armed conflict from the ICTR Y and the ICC the creation of UN Women and Security Council sanctions against perpetrators of sexual violence in armed conflict Contributing to the development of feminist and gender scholarship on international law Gina Heathcote provides a feminist analysis of the central pillars of international law noting the advances and limitations of feminist approaches Through incorporating into mainstream international legal studies specific critical and feminist narratives this book considers the manner in which feminist thinking has changed international law and the manner in which international law has remained impervious to key feminist dialogues It argues for a return to structural bias feminism that engages the foundations of international law and uses gender as a method for challenging post millennium narratives on fragmentation the role of international institutions the nature of legal authority sovereignty and the role of international legal experts Mainstreaming Men Into Gender and Development Sylvia H. Chant, Matthew C. Gutmann, 2000 Based on research commissioned by the World Bank this books primary focus is on incorporating men in gender and development interventions at the grass roots level It draws attention to some of the key problems that have arisen from male exclusion as well as to the potential benefits of and obstacles to men s inclusion

Gender in Development Organisations Caroline Sweetman, 1997-01-01 This book draws on the experience of organizations working to promote women s full participation in the development process looking at the obstacles that stand in the way examining gender auditing the institutionalization of gender integrating gender into country programmes the process of creating a gender strategy and using gender training
