Race Kenneth Leech, 2005-09

Race does not exist Yet in this extraordinary book Ken Leech exposes how racism grips the imaginations of Christian and non Christian alike shaping our relations with one another and having disastrous results not only in neighborhoods but in foreign policies Pauline like Leech helps us see that race is a power all the more perverse because it is not acknowledged as such In conversation with the best work in science social theory and theology Leech challenges the presumption that we have somehow gotten beyond racialized thinking Moreover drawing on his extraordinary pastoral experience he helps us see a way beyond race This book should be read in both England and America as both countries in quite different ways continue to be dominated by racialized practice

Reproducing the French Race Elisa Camiscioli, 2009-09-18 In Reproducing the French Race Elisa Camiscioli argues that immigration was a defining feature of early twentieth century France and she examines the political cultural and social issues implicated in public debates about immigration and national identity at the time Camiscioli demonstrates that mass immigration provided politicians jurists industrialists racial theorists feminists and others with ample opportunity to explore questions of French racial belonging France's relationship to the colonial empire and the rest of Europe and the connections between race and national anxieties regarding depopulation and degeneration She also shows that discussions of the nation and its citizenry consistently returned to the body its color and gender its expenditure of labor power its reproductive capacity and its experience of desire Of paramount importance was the question of which kinds of bodies could assimilate into the French race By focusing on telling aspects of the immigration debate Camiscioli reveals how racial hierarchies were constructed how gender figured in their creation and how only white Europeans were cast as assimilable Delving into pronatalist politics she describes how potential immigrants were ranked according to their imagined capacity to adapt to the workplace and family life in France She traces the links between racialized categories and concerns about industrial skills and output and she examines medico hygienic texts on interracial sex connecting those to the crusade against prostitution and the related campaign to abolish white slavery the alleged entrapment of white women for sale into prostitution abroad Camiscioli also explores the debate surrounding the 1927 law that first made it possible for French women who married foreigners to keep their French nationality She concludes by linking the Third Republic's impulse to create racial hierarchies to the emergence of the Vichy regime

Race and Place Deirdre Mayer Dougherty, 2025-08-12 Race and Place considers the everyday experiences of community members throughout the process of school desegregation and how race place and truth came to matter in this process in Prince George's County Maryland from 1945 through 1973 The book is organized around several successive policies that emerged in this time school equalization school choice neighborhood schools school construction school closure busing for racial integration and school discipline Dougherty shows how these policies contained and reinforced assumptions about place and created new racial truths about people and schooling

Devaluing Black Space Courtney Marie Bonam, 2010 Do spaces have races Why might space race associations matter Across four studies participants attached racial meaning to a range of locations as well as negatively stereotyped and reported feeling less connected to Black spaces in particular Negative stereotyping and lack of connection to Black space explained why these spaces experienced both housing and environmental discrimination Studies 1 and 2 participants generated raced spaces and then rated the extent to which they thought of these locations i.e. inner cities suburbs as White or Black The more Black spaces were the less White they were showing participants made clear distinctions between these two types of spaces Further the Black spaces were rated more negatively than the White spaces showing participants devalued Black space Study 3 expanded this finding by manipulating the race of one location a house for sale by a Black or White family Participants gave the Black house relative to the White a lower evaluation i.e. they thought it was worth less and were less eager to move there The Black house received this lower evaluation because participants negatively stereotyped it They imagined the neighborhood surrounding it to be lower quality than the neighborhood they imagined around the White house i.e. less safe lower quality schools and municipal services Additionally participants reported feeling less connected to the neighborhood around the Black house which also helped to explain its lower evaluation Study 4 participants again discriminated against Black space this time in the environmental domain Participants read a proposal to place a potentially polluting chemical plant near a majority Black or White neighborhood They reported less opposition to this plant when the nearby neighborhood was Black This Black space received less environmental protection because participants were more likely to think it already housed other industrial facilities industrial space stereotype and again because they reported feeling less connected to it These results are important not only because they expand theory on racial discrimination stereotyping and sense of place but also because they provide an enhanced understanding of the causal role race plays in producing and maintaining disparities in access to high quality healthy living spaces

Toward a Global Idea of Race Denise Ferreira Da Silva, In this far ranging and penetrating work Denise Ferreira da Silva asks why after more than five hundred years of violence perpetrated by Europeans against people of color is there no ethical outrage Rejecting the prevailing view that social categories of difference such as race and culture operate solely as principles of exclusion Silva presents a critique of modern thought that shows how racial knowledge and power produce global space Looking at the United States and Brazil she argues that modern subjects are formed in philosophical accounts that presume two ontological moments historicity and globality which are refigured in the concepts of the nation and the racial respectively By displacing historicity s ontological prerogative Silva proposes that the notion of racial difference governs the present global power configuration because it institutes moral regions not covered by the leading post Enlightenment ethical ideals namely universality and self determination By introducing a view of the racial as the signifier of globalit y Toward a Global Idea of Race provides a new basis for the investigation of past and present modern social processes and contexts of subjection Denise Ferreira da Silva is associate professor of ethnic studies at University of California San Diego
