

Rachel's Promise

A photograph of a cobblestone path leading through a tunnel towards a bright exit, with two figures walking away in the distance. The path is made of dark, irregular stones and is flanked by dark walls. The tunnel's exit is a bright, circular opening at the far end, where two small figures are walking away from the viewer. The overall atmosphere is mysterious and hopeful.

Internal Revenue Service,1989 The Moral Limits of the Criminal Law: Volume 3: Harm to Self Joel Feinberg,1989-08-17 This volume tackles the riddles associated with the commonly proposed principle called legal paternalism It evaluates and rejects the principle that it can be right to impose coercion on a person for his own good whatever his own wishes in the matter Cumulative List of Organizations Described in Section 170 (c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 , Liberalism and Affirmative Obligation Patricia Smith,1998-11-26 The scope of affirmative obligation is a point of contention among liberals Some see affirmative obligations required by social justice as incompatible with a strong commitment to individual freedom The task before the moderate liberal is then to consider what a consistently liberal view of affirmative obligation would have to be in order to accommodate liberal commitments to freedom and justice and also account for long standing institutions that are central to liberal democratic society In this book Patricia Smith argues that this can be achieved by reconstructing the liberal doctrine of positive and negative duty She offers a careful consideration of these elements of liberal principles as they relate to affirmative obligation Through an innovative analysis of the institutions of family and contract Smith develops the idea of duties of membership as preferable to natural duties to explain family obligation and as needed to supplement contractual duties to explain professional obligation This idea is then applied to the problem of justifying political obligation She argues that membership obligations implied in cooperative endeavor must supplement obligations of consent that are central to liberal theory This is deftly illustrated through a state of nature theory that includes community membership eliminating atomistic individualism while maintaining consonance with what Smith calls cooperative individualism The resulting view of liberal individualism is consistent complete and capable of handling long standing liberal institutions while taking seriously the demands of affirmative obligations Smiths clear articulation of a liberal view of affirmative obligation finds a middle ground on this polarized topic with compelling and reasoned implications for liberal political philosophy Her discussion will interest students and scholars of legal and political philosophy and political science The Word of Promise: a Hand-book to the Promises of Scripture Horatius Bonar,1864

Maternal Grief in the Hebrew Bible Ekaterina E. Kozlova,2017 Maternal Grief in the Hebrew Bible explores the stories of biblical mothers who were placed at key junctures in Israel s history to renegotiate the destinies not only of their own children dead or lost but also those of larger communities i e family lines ethnic groups or entire nations These women used the circumstance of child loss as a platform for a kind of grief driven socio political activism As maternal bereavement is generally understood as the most intense of all types of loss and was seen as archetypal of all mourning in the ancient Near East Israelite communities in crisis deemed sorrowing motherhood as a potent agent in bringing about their own survival and resurgence back to normalcy Book jacket The Word of Promise: a Handbook to the Promises of Scripture.
