Community Practice David A. Hardcastle, Patricia R. Powers, Stanley Wenocur, 2004

Community Practice is a comprehensive resource for social workers and students eager to learn how to practice effectively in complex systems and diverse communities In this completely revised edition of the definitive text in the field the authors have thoroughly updated each chapter and added two entirely new chapters on community building and community organizing New material on topics such as negotiation and mediation community advocacy participatory rural appraisal the narrative approach to social change community involvement representative client boards and the latest in grassroots endeavors make this text as inspiring as it is practical Drawing upon the wealth of information available from local organizations the Internet newspapers and academic journals the authors introduce contemporary experiments and analyze classic modes of community practice and change The content exercises and references offer instructors the flexibility necessary to tailor their courses to undergraduate graduate and doctoral level students This new edition will continue to provide a comprehensive and integrated overview of the theory and skills fundamental to all areas of social work practice Broad in scope it offers students as well as practitioners the tools necessary to promote the welfare of individuals and communities

Vital coalitions, vital regions Ina Horlings, 2023-09-04

Many rural regions in Europe are undergoing a dynamic transition driven by forces of urbanisation and agricultural development new patterns of production and consumption and new societal demands However while the historical rural urban divide is eroding rural landscapes are becoming more important to people for leisure recreation and personal orientation The complex processes affecting rural areas are proving difficult for the current institutions to manage The challenge is to find ways to create new capacity to act and get sustainable initiatives off the ground initiatives that are now often smothered or constrained by the institutional context This book bridges the gap between theory and practice to explore the conditions required to enable a transition towards sustainable regional development It analyses experiences in eight regions in the Netherlands where different regional strategies have been pursued the development of new markets rural services and linkages between producers and consumers spatial designs regional branding and new alliances between agricultural sectors and other sectors The authors argue that specific forms of networks called vital coalitions have the ability to foster better regional co operation and identify the crucial requirements for vital co operation These include the presence of leaders of change agenda setting processes coalition building and supportive government authorities The book is of value to all those interested or involved in rural and regional development professionals policy makers scientists and students
