Out Front The Cladie Bailey:

Out Front - Wendell Trogon, 1994-02 The Ghost Mountain Boys James Campbell, 2008-09-30 A harrowing portrait of a largely forgotten campaign that pushed one battalion to the limits of human suffering Despite their lack of jungle training the 32nd Division s Ghost Mountain Boys were assigned the most grueling mission of the entire Pacific campaign in World War II to march over the 10 000 foot Owen Stanley Mountains to protect the right flank of the Australian army during the battle for New Guinea Reminiscent of the classics like Band of Brothers and The Things They Carried The Ghost Mountain Boys is part war diary part extreme adventure tale and through letters journals and interviews part biography of a group of men who fought to survive in an environment every bit as fierce as the enemy they faced Theirs is one of the great untold stories of the war Superb Chicago Sun Times Campbell started out with history but in the end he has written a tale of survival and courage of near mythic proportions America in WWII magazine In this compelling and sprightly written account Campbell shines a long overdue light on the equally deserving heroes of the Red Arrow Division Military com Red Arrow across the Pacific Mark D. Van Ells, 2024-09-30 The history of WWII s most battle tested US Army division and its crucial role in achieving Allied victory in the Pacific Red Arrow across the Pacific reveals the long overdue story of the renowned Thirty Second Red Arrow Infantry Division Discover how this National Guard unit which originated in Wisconsin and Michigan but soon evolved to include soldiers from California to New England became one of the first US military units deployed overseas in World War II eventually logging more combat hours than any other US Army division Far more than a traditional battle narrative Red Arrow across the Pacific offers a cultural history of the Red Arrow s wartime experience from its mobilization in 1940 to its deployment across New Guinea Australia and the Philippines to its postwar occupation of Japan Drawing from letters memoirs and interviews author Mark D Van Ells lets the soldiers speak for themselves describing in their own words the terror of combat their impressions of foreign lands the struggle to maintain their own humanity and the many ways the war profoundly changed them Nuanced and remarkably thorough this book explores the dramatic evolution of the Thirty Second Infantry Division and reveals how the story of the Red Arrow reflects the experience of the US military during World War II Papuan Campaign United States. War Department. General Staff, 1944 Great Lakes and Midwest Catalog Partners Book Distributing, 1996 PAPUAN CAMPAIGN - The Buna-Sanananda Operation - 16 November 1942 - 23 January 1943 [Illustrated Edition] Anon, 2014-08-15 With 7 maps 5 charts on 15 Feb 1942 Singapore fell Then the attack shifted farther to the southeast and from Rabaul the Japanese High Command planned a two pronged drive One prong was to strike for control of southeastern New Guinea the other was to thrust through the Solomon Islands Neither attack reached its objective When a Japanese convoy pushed around the eastern tip of New Guinea it met American naval forces In the ensuing Battle of the Coral Sea 4 8 May 1942 the Japanese suffered a decisive defeat Failure in their attempt by sea did not end the Japanese effort to capture Port Moresby which would afford them an invasion base only 340 miles from Australia

In July they landed at Buna Gona and Sanananda on the northeast coast of Papua and pushed southward across the Papuan Peninsula. The Australians first stopped the enemy and then joined by American forces drove him back to his landing bases. This long and hard counteroffensive not only freed Australia from the imminent threat of invasion but gave the United Nations their first foothold in the area of enemy defenses protecting Rabaul, center of Japanese power in the Southwest Pacific. The American part in the Buna Sanananda campaign in which Australian and American troops defeated the invincible Imperial Army of Japan is the subject of this pamphlet. The story is set in a background of fever-ridden swamp and jungle where American soldiers lay day after day in waterlogged fox holes or crawled through murderous fire toward enemy positions they could not see. Despite all the difficulties imposed by terrain, climate and the formidable strength of Japanese fortifications, despite failure in many heroic attacks, the effort was carried through to a final and smashing success.

Papuan Campaign, 1945. An account of the joint American Australian campaign to drive the Japanese out of New Guinea. November 1942-January 1943. Papuan Campaign DIANE Publishing Company, 1997. Bloody Buna David W. Cameron, 2024-01-03. With the Australian troops crossing of the Kumusi River in mid-November after pushing the Japanese back along the Kokoda Track, the time had come to face the entrenched Japanese at their beachhead at Gona, Sanananda and Buna. The end of the Kokoda Campaign in mid-November 1942 marked a turning point for the Australians, but the fighting was far from over. Within days the battles for the three Japanese beachheads would commence. These battles were the first combined large-scale operation between Australian and American troops against the Japanese and would prove to be among the fiercest of the Pacific War. At Buna, the final battles to take New and Old air strips by the Australians along with the ongoing American attacks to take the infamous Triangle proved to be a brutal and deadly bloodbath for all concerned. Amidst the crocodile-infested swamps and lowland jungle with dozens of Japanese bunkers and pillboxes with supporting artillery, the Australians who fought at all three beachheads faced an unprecedented toll, suffering more killed or wounded than in any other campaign of the Pacific War. In the face of relentless combat, the Allied forces at Buna suffered staggering casualties: with 2817 men lost at Buna, the American 32nd Division sustained 1954 casualties including 353 killed (18%), 1508 wounded and 93 missing, amounting to around 40 per cent casualties over a six-week period. The Australian 18th Infantry Brigade and supporting elements suffered 863 casualties with 267 killed (31%), 557 wounded and 39 missing, amounting to around 60 per cent casualties over just three weeks of fighting. As the battle raged on, the Japanese suffered significant losses with a minimum of 1390 men killed at Buna. The true number of their dead lost in history is likely much higher, with conservative estimates suggesting around 3000 fatalities. Bloody Buna sheds light on the untold sacrifices and heroism displayed by the Australian and American troops as they clashed with the Japanese in one of the most vicious chapters of the Pacific War.
