Religion and Family Life Richard J. Petts, 2019-05-03 There has been increased interest among scholars in recent decades focused on the intersection of family and religion Yet there is still much that is not well understood in this area This aim of this special issue is to further explore the influence of religion on family life In particular this issue includes a collection of studies from leading scholars on religion and family life that focus on ways in which religion and spirituality may influence various aspects of family life including family processes family structure family formation family dissolution parenting and family relationships The studies included incorporate both qualitative and quantitative analyses incorporate a number of different religious traditions focus on religiosity among both adults and youth and explore a number of important issues such as depression intimacy sexual behavior lying divorce and faith transmission

Radical and Marxist Theories of Crime Paul B. Stretesky, 2017-03-02 The essays selected for this volume show how radical and Marxist criminology has established itself as an influential critique since it emerged in the late 1960s Unlike orthodox criminology which emphasizes individual level explanations of criminal behavior radical and Marxist criminology emphasizes power inequality and structures especially those related to class as key factors in crime law and justice This collection of essays draws attention to the way in which structural forces shape and influence both individual and institutional for example governmental behavior highlights neglected crime corporate governmental state corporate and environmental which causes more extensive damage than the street crimes examined by orthodox criminology and discusses the ways in which law and criminal justice processes reinforce power structures and contribute to class control

Figures of the Future Michael Rodríguez-Muñiz, 2024-06-04 An in depth look at how U S Latino advocacy groups are using ethnoracial demographic projections to bring about political change in the present For years newspaper headlines partisan speeches academic research and even comedy routines have communicated that the United States is undergoing a profound demographic transformation one that will purportedly change the face of the country in a matter of decades But the so called browning of America sociologist Michael Rodríguez Muñiz contends has less to do with the complexion of growing populations than with past and present struggles shaping how demographic trends are popularly imagined and experienced Offering an original and timely window into these struggles Figures of the Future explores the population politics of national Latino civil rights groups Based on eight years of ethnographic and qualitative research spanning both the Obama and Trump administrations this book investigates how several of the most prominent of these organizations including UnidosUS formerly NCLR the League of United Latin American Citizens and Voto Latino have mobilized demographic data about the Latino population in dogged pursuit of political recognition and influence In census promotions get out the vote campaigns and policy advocacy this knowledge has been infused with meaning variously serving as future oriented sources of inspiration emblems for identification and weapons for contestation At the same time Rodr guez Mu iz considers why these political actors have struggled to translate this demographic growth into tangible political gain and how concerns about white backlash have affected how they forecast demographic futures Figures of the Future looks closely at the politics surrounding ethnoracial demographic changes and their rising influence in U S public debate and discourse

Description Ethnicity Housing Frederick W. Boal, 2020-09-29 This title was first published in 2000 This work has its origins in the 1995 Congress of the International Federation for Housing and Planning held in Belfast The theme was Accommodating Differences Differences were defined in broad terms and included ethnic and social economic and political differences However Frederick W Boal s own interest in ethnic differences motivated him to invite a number of Congress participants to make available their papers for inclusion in this book of essays It seeks to offer experience that can be drawn on by housing practitioners who are operating in multi ethnic contexts It also provides empirical material that should contribute to the development of more soundly based theoretical insights in both urban sociology and social geography

Eliminating Racism Phyllis A. Katz, Dalmas A. Taylor, 2013-06-29 The chapters presented here provide the reader with an awareness of the divergent views of what constitutes racism and frameworks for reducing it This book points out that the dialogue and research on this subject since the mid 1970s have yielded increased controversy over the theories foundation and continued existence of racism Ironically what we viewed in the 1954 Brown decision and the Civil Rights Act of 1964 as the beginning of the end of racism turned out to be the beginning of confusion over the course of action to ensure societal acceptance of political mandates Hence the title of this book captures the essence of the emotional core of any forum for examining racism past and present One of the most controversial forums has been that of education beginning with the U S Supreme Court s 1954 ruling in Brown v Board of Education Behind every event that has spawned controversy is a profile in courage It was not a simple decision for the players in the scenario of the Brown v Board of Education case to step forward and present themselves as evidence of discrimination Black parents supported by black organizations viewed this legal action as a chance for equal opportunity Yet the 1950s were a time when black communities were pained by the thought that bigotry and institutional racism would forever stand in the way of their achieving equality
